1993 WISCONSIN ACT 130

AN ACT to amend 879.47 of the statutes, relating to: authorizing the use of computer-generated forms in probate proceedings.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. 879.47 of the statutes is amended to read:

879.47 Papers, preparation and filing. The attorney for any person desiring to file any paper in court is responsible for the preparation of the paper. Except as provided in s. 701.16 (4) (d), all papers shall be legibly written on substantial paper and shall state the title of the proceeding in which they are filed and the character of the paper. ~~Uniform~~ Either uniform forms or computer-generated forms, if the forms exactly recreate the original forms in wording, format and substance, shall be used if suitable and available. If papers are not so written or if uniform forms or computer-generated forms that exactly recreate the original forms in wording, format and substance are not used ~~when suitable and available~~, the court may refuse to receive and file them. The court shall show on all papers the date of their filing.
