Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, a donation may be made of all or part of a human's body (an anatomical gift), to take effect at death. The following persons may make an anatomical gift:

1. The donor, by executing a document of gift that is signed by the donor or by another individual and two witnesses in the presence of the donor, that is specified on a driver's license or identification card that is issued by the Department of Transportation, or that is specified under a will.

2. The spouse, close relative, guardian, or health care agent of an individual after the individual's death (unless the decedent has made an unrevoked refusal to consent to making an anatomical gift), by executing a signed document of gift or by making a telegraphic, recorded telephonic or other recorded message, or other form of communication to another that is reduced to writing and signed by the recipient when received.

3. A coroner or medical examiner, upon request from a hospital, physician, or organ procurement organization, under limited circumstances.

This substitute amendment requires that a hospital, organ procurement organization, tissue bank (as defined in the bill), coroner, or medical examiner that requests an anatomical gift from a potential donor or a spouse, close relative, guardian, or health care agent of a deceased individual provide in the document of gift two sentences concerning the potential uses of donated bones or tissues by multiple organizations, including nonprofit and for-profit organizations, and the fact that limitations on those uses or limitations on the types of organizations that recover, process, or distribute the donation may be specified in a document of gift. The document of gift must also include lines or spaces for the donor or the spouse, close relative, guardian, or health care agent to acknowledge reading the sentences or having them read to him or her, and to limit the use of bones or tissues or to limit the types of organizations that recover, process, or distribute the donations. If the donor, spouse, close relative, guardian, or health care agent makes an anatomical gift, the requesting hospital, organ procurement organization, tissue bank, coroner, or medical examiner must provide the telephone number and address of the agency or organization that recovers the anatomical gift. If a hospital, organ procurement organization, tissue bank, coroner, or medical examiner is requesting an anatomical gift from the spouse, close relative, guardian, or health care agent by means of a telephonic or other recorded message, the requestor must inform the spouse, relative, guardian, or agent that the conversation is recorded and that a recorded copy is available on request; must read the sentences concerning potential uses of donated bones or tissues by multiple organizations and limitations on those uses or on the types of organizations that recover, process, or distribute the donation; and must note on the document of gift the acknowledgement of the sentences. If the donor or the spouse, close relative, guardian, or health care agent fails, in the document of gift, to initial or sign the acknowledgement, consent to make an anatomical gift of bones or tissues is refused. The hospital, organ procurement organization, tissue bank, coroner, or medical examiner who obtains an executed document of gift must provide a copy of the document to the donor or other person who executed it. The substitute amendment requires that, by January 1, 2007, the Department of Health and Family Services study and report to the legislature concerning the need for a uniform document of gift form specifically for hospitals, organ procurement organizations, tissue banks, coroners, and medical examiners to provide, under these circumstances, to potential donors or spouses, close relatives, guardians, or health care agents of deceased individuals.

Under the substitute amendment, failure to comply with the requirement to provide the sentences concerning the potential uses of donated bones or tissues and limitations on those uses may be subject to a forfeiture of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 for each violation.

The substitute amendment eliminates the use of a telegraphic message to make a document of gift.
