

1995 ASSEMBLY BILL 150

February 16, 1995 - Introduced by JOINT COMMITTEE ON FINANCE, by request of Governor Tommy G. Thompson. Referred to Joint Committee on Finance.

- 1 AN ACT relating to: state finances and appropriations, constituting the 2 executive budget act of the 1995 legislature, and making appropriations.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

INTRODUCTION

This bill is the "executive budget bill" under section 16.47 (1) of the statutes. It contains the governor's recommendations for appropriations from the general fund and from segregated funds for the 1995-97 fiscal biennium.

The bill repeals and recreates the appropriation schedule in chapter 20 of the statutes, thereby setting the appropriation levels for the 1995-97 fiscal biennium. With minor exceptions, the bill does not affect appropriations for the department of transportation. The bill also excludes capital budget recommendations. The descriptions that follow relate to the most significant changes in the law proposed in the bill. In most cases, changes in the amounts of existing spending authority and changes in the amounts of bonding authority under existing bonding programs are not discussed.

For the fiscal impact of this bill refer to the publication Budget in Brief issued by the department of administration.

For additional information concerning this bill, see the department of administration's executive budget books, the legislative fiscal bureau's summary document and the legislative reference bureau's drafting files that contain separate drafts on each policy item. In most cases, the policy item drafts contain a more detailed analysis than is printed with this bill.

GUIDE TO NONSTATUTORY MATERIAL

As is the case for all other bills, the SECTIONS of the budget bill treating statutory material are displayed in the ascending numerical sequence of the statute units affected. In some parts of the bill, not all consecutive SECTION numbers are used.

Treatments of prior session laws (styled “[year] Wisconsin Act ...” or, before 1983, “laws of [year], chapter ...”) are displayed next by year of original enactment and by act number.

Following the treatment of prior session laws, the remaining nonstatutory material is set forth in bill SECTIONS numbered as follows:

9101 to 9159: Nonstatutory provisions; agency name.

9201 to 9259: Appropriation changes; agency name.

9301 to 9359: Initial applicability; agency name.

9400 to 9459: Effective dates; agency name.

In each of the 4 categories, there is a separate SECTION number for every agency. In that number, the last 2 digits correspond to the agencies as shown below. For example, for nonstatutory provisions that are not appropriation changes or initial applicability or effective date provisions affecting the historical society, see SECTION 9128. The agencies are listed in alphabetical sequence by key word. For any agency not yet assigned a 2-digit identification number or any provision that does not relate to the functions of any particular agency, see number “59” (other) in each category.

STATE AGENCY REORGANIZATION

This bill makes a number of changes in the organization and functions of various state agencies.

implementation, support and management; permits DOA to submit to JCF and implement a plan for the consolidation in DOA by July 1, 1997, of the functions of the University of Wisconsin (UW) System relating to information technology processing; transfers the transmission and engineering functions of the educational communications board to DOA; permits DOA to submit to JCF and implement a plan providing for the consolidation in DOA by July 1, 1996, of the responsibilities of state agencies related to their capital planning and building construction functions; permits DOA to submit to JFC and implement a plan providing for the consolidation in DOA by July 1, 1997, of the responsibilities of state agencies primarily related to their document production, reproduction and distribution functions; on July 1, 1996, transfers administration of the low-income energy assistance program from the department of health and social services (DHSS) to DOA; abolishes the sentencing commission, along with the requirement that judges consider sentencing guidelines established by that commission when imposing felony sentences; and abolishes the privacy council and the position of the privacy advocate.

Agriculture, trade and consumer protection

The bill abolishes the board of agriculture, trade and consumer protection, which directs and supervises the department of agriculture, trade and consumer protection (DATCP); puts DATCP under the direction and supervision of a secretary who is nominated by the governor and appointed with the advice and consent of the senate; creates an agriculture, trade and consumer protection council to advise DATCP; and requires DOA to submit legislation by April 1, 1995, to transfer consumer protection functions from DOJ to DATCP.

Corrections

The bill transfers responsibility for the operation of the juvenile secured correctional facilities known as the Ethan Allen School and the Lincoln Hills School from DHSS to the department of corrections on July 1, 1996.

Development

The bill abolishes the council on recycling, which is attached to the department of natural resources (DNR), and transfers the functions of that council to the recycling market development board, which is transferred from DOA to the department of development (DOD). On July 1, 1996, the bill transfers responsibility for administering and enforcing state laws regulating safety and buildings from the department of industry, labor and human relations (DILHR) to DOD; transfers to DOD most of the responsibilities of DNR relating to leaks from underground tanks storing petroleum and other hazardous substances, as well as the petroleum storage remedial action program responsibilities currently performed by DILHR and DNR; transfers to DOD the responsibilities of DATCP and DILHR relating to the platting of subdivisions, as well as certain municipal boundary review functions currently performed by DOA; transfers the responsibility to operate a center for international agribusiness marketing from DATCP to DOD; and changes the name of DOD to the department of commerce.

Education

On July 1, 1996, the bill transfers from the department of public instruction (DPI) to the department of revenue (DOR) the responsibility for calculating and distributing general school aid, the responsibility for distributing handicapped education aid, pupil transportation aid, bilingual-bicultural education aid, school library aids and tuition payments; changes the name of DPI to the department of education (DOE) and provides for DOE to be under the direction and supervision of a secretary of education, who is nominated by the governor and appointed with the advice and consent of the senate; transfers to the secretary of education all duties and powers currently assigned or granted to the state superintendent of public instruction; creates an office of the state superintendent, attached to DOE, under the direction and supervision of the state superintendent; eliminates the higher educational aids board (HEAB) and transfers all functions of HEAB to DOE; transfers all functions of the educational approval board (EAB), currently attached to the technical college system board, to DOE; and transfers EAB itself to DOE as an advisory council.

Financial institutions

On July 1, 1996, the bill creates a department of financial institutions (DFI), abolishes the office of the commissioner of banking, the office of the commissioner of savings and loan and the office of the commissioner of securities and consolidates their functions in DFI; reorganizes the office of the commissioner of credit unions into the office of credit unions and attaches that office to DFI for administrative purposes; transfers from the office of the secretary of state to DFI the responsibility for uniform commercial code filings, for federal lien filings and for the computerized statewide lien system operated in conjunction with county offices of registers of deeds; and transfers from the department of regulation and licensing to DFI regulatory responsibility over mortgage bankers, loan originators and loan solicitors.

Gaming commission

On January 1, 1996, the bill changes the composition of the gaming commission to replace 2 full-time commissioners with state employees; on January 1, 1996, abolishes the gaming security division of the commission and requires the commission to contract with DOA or another person for security services and the monitoring of regulatory compliance by gaming operations; and removes the prohibition against private contracting for financial auditing or security monitoring services for the state lottery.

Governor

The bill creates a governor's council on workforce excellence and consolidates in that council oversight over the planning, coordination, administration and implementation of various state and federal employment and education programs currently administered by DILHR, DHSS, the technical college system, DPI, DOD and DOA.

Health and social services

The bill eliminates the cost containment commission, which reviews and approves certain proposed capital expenditures for hospitals, and the cost containment council, which advises the commission. On October 1, 1995, the bill exempts hospitals and nursing homes from DILHR's review of plans for capital construction for compliance with building code requirements and requires DHSS to conduct plan reviews of hospitals and nursing homes for compliance with building code requirements and with physical plant and life safety code requirements; and on July 1, 1996, changes the name of DHSS to the department of health and family services.

Industry, labor and human relations

On July 1, 1996, the bill transfers from DHSS to DILHR supervision over the administration of the aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) program, the job opportunities and basic skills program, and the learnfare, work-not-welfare and parental responsibility pilot programs; transfers from DHSS to DILHR administration of the food stamps program, the employment and training program for food stamp recipients, the children-first program and the program for payment of funeral expenses for recipients of certain public assistance programs; transfers from DHSS to DILHR supervision of income maintenance administration by county departments of social or human services; transfers the division of vocational rehabilitation from DHSS to DILHR; transfers the national and community service board, currently attached to DOA, to DILHR; changes the name of DILHR to the department of industry, labor and job development; and, on the date the bill becomes law, transfers the Wisconsin conservation corps board, currently attached to DOA, to DILHR.

Insurance

On January 1, 1996, the bill transfers the duty to provide information and counseling to consumers on medicare supplemental insurance from the board on aging and long-term care to the office of the commissioner of insurance.

Judicial council

The bill abolishes the executive secretary and clerical support for the judicial council, requires the judicial commission to provide staff services to the judicial council and requires that council to recommend court changes that will improve court efficiency and effectiveness and reduce costs.

Justice

The bill abolishes the public intervenor position, as well as the requirement that the attorney general appoint a public intervenor advisory committee.

Natural resources

The bill abolishes the natural resources board, which appoints a secretary to administer DNR; provides for nomination of the secretary of natural resources by the governor and appointment with the advice and consent of the senate; and creates a natural resources council to advise DNR.

Personnel commission

The bill transfers the council on municipal collective bargaining, currently attached to the employment relations commission (ERC), to the personnel commission; transfers from DILHR to the personnel commission the council on worker's compensation, the construction wage rate council, the self-insurer's council, the Wisconsin apprenticeship council and the labor standards council; on July 1, 1996, abolishes the labor and industry review commission (LIRC) and ERC and transfers their functions to the personnel commission; on July 1, 1996, changes the name of the personnel commission to the employment commission; and directs the employment commission to study its procedures and report to the secretary of administration by October 31, 1996, its recommendations on ways to streamline its operations.

Public service commission

The bill abolishes the radioactive waste review board, the radioactive waste policy council and the radioactive waste technical council, all in the UW System, and transfers the responsibilities of the radioactive waste review board to the public service commission.

Revenue

On July 1, 1996, the bill transfers from the office of the secretary of state to DOR the responsibility for recordkeeping and the filing of business organization records and the function of acting as agent for service of process for business organizations; and, on January 1, 1996, transfers from DILHR to DOR the responsibility for collecting the petroleum inspection fee.

State treasurer

On July 1, 1996, the bill abolishes the office of the state treasurer and requires DOA to establish a subunit in DOA headed by the state treasurer, under the direction and supervision of the secretary of administration.

Tourism and parks

On July 1, 1996, the bill creates a department of tourism and parks (DTP) and transfers to DTP from DNR the responsibility of developing, operating and administering the state parks, state trails, the ice age trail, the state recreation areas and the state forests, except for the state forests in the northern portion of the state; transfers to DTP from DOD the division of tourism; transfers to DTP from DOA the arts board; and transfers to DTP from DOA the Kickapoo valley governing board and to DTP from DNR responsibility for police supervision over the Kickapoo valley reserve.

Transportation

On July 1, 1996, the bill abolishes the office of the commissioner of railroads and transfers most functions of that office, with certain changes, to the department of transportation.

University of Wisconsin System

On July 1, 1996, the bill transfers control over the UW Hospitals and Clinics to a state authority called the UW Hospitals and Clinics Authority.

Other councils, boards and commissions

The bill requires that, no later than October 1, 1995, each council, and each board or commission that is created in or attached to a department or independent agency in the executive branch of state government that is not created or terminated under any act of the 1995-96 legislature submit to the secretary of administration, the lieutenant governor and JCF a report describing its functions and the justification, if any, for continuation of these functions for the purpose of a determination by the secretary of administration or the lieutenant governor of whether the council, board or commission should be terminated. (Subsequent legislation would be required to effect any terminations not included in the bill.)

Each agency organization or function change is explained in further detail in this analysis under the appropriate topic heading. In each case where an agency or function is transferred, the bill also transfers all of the employees of the agency or all of the employees performing the function, and in the case of classified employees, protects their status under civil service and collective bargaining laws, except as otherwise noted below.

AGRICULTURE

Under current law, the department of agriculture, trade and consumer protection (DATCP) is under the direction and supervision of the board of agriculture, trade and consumer protection. The board consists of 6 members who are nominated by the governor and appointed with the advice and consent of the senate. This bill abolishes the board. Under the bill, DATCP is under the direction and supervision of a secretary, who is nominated by the governor and appointed with the advice and consent of the senate to serve at the pleasure of the governor. The bill also creates an agriculture, trade and consumer protection council to advise DATCP. The council consists of 6 members appointed by the governor, who have an agriculture background and one member who is a representative of consumers. The initial membership consists of those board members who are in office when this bill becomes law.

Current law requires DATCP to operate a center for international agribusiness marketing. This bill transfers the responsibility to operate the center to the department of commerce (formerly, the department of development) on July 1, 1996.

Under current law, one of the conditions necessary for a person to qualify for the farmland preservation income tax credit is that the person's land is subject to a farmland preservation agreement or to exclusive agricultural zoning. If a landowner withdraws the land from a farmland preservation agreement, in most of the situations under which withdrawal is permitted, DATCP files a lien against the land that was subject to the agreement for the total amount of the farmland preservation credit received in the previous 10 years, plus interest. DATCP also files a lien against land for which the farmland preservation credit is claimed when the city, village, town or county in which the land is located changes the zoning of the land from exclusive agricultural use.

This bill eliminates the filing of liens against land that is withdrawn from a farmland preservation agreement and against land that ceases to be covered by exclusive agricultural zoning. The bill provides that any liens previously filed by DATCP have no effect.

Current law provides for payments to be made by this state to the owners of certain animals that are ordered by DATCP to be destroyed because of exposure to or infection with rabies, tuberculosis, brucellosis, pseudorabies and scrapie. In addition, DATCP is required to make payments for livestock destroyed because of unidentified diseases and for animals destroyed under emergency programs necessary to control major or serious outbreaks of dangerous diseases affecting domestic animals. This bill retains the provisions for payments under emergency programs and for specific diseases, except for scrapie. The bill replaces the provision for payment in cases of unidentified diseases with a provision for payment for animals destroyed because of other diseases if the destruction is necessary to protect public health or the livestock industry.

Under current law, the amount of an animal disease indemnity payment varies depending on the disease involved. Under this bill, an animal disease indemnity payment, for any disease except pseudorabies, equals two-thirds of the difference between the appraised value of the animal and the sum of any federal indemnity plus any payment the owner received from selling the slaughtered animal, but not more than $1,500 per animal. For pseudorabies, the payment equals the difference between the appraised value of the animal and the sum of any federal indemnity plus any payment the owner received from selling the slaughtered animal, but not more than $1,500 per animal.

Under current law, the value of an animal may be determined by agreement between the owner and DATCP. If there is no agreement, the animal is appraised by 3 persons familiar with the value of livestock, appointed by the circuit court. Under this bill, DATCP determines the appraised value of animals.

The bill specifies that indemnities for rabies and tuberculosis and those that are not limited to specific diseases are paid only for animals of species raised primarily to produce food for human consumption.

The bill also authorizes DATCP to test swine and commercially raised deer for brucellosis, to order the destruction of animals that react to the test and to quarantine herds from which reactors come.

Under current law, violations of most laws concerning animal health are punishable by criminal penalties. This bill establishes civil penalties, which may be imposed in lieu of the criminal penalties, for violations of most animal health laws.

This bill eliminates a requirement that the animal health and disease research board award funds for research to develop a blood test to detect bovine tuberculosis in commercially raised deer.

Under current law, DATCP regulates the manufacture, labeling and sale of fertilizer. This bill authorizes DATCP to promulgate rules regulating the use of nitrogen fertilizer to prevent contamination of groundwater and surface water.

Under current law, a livestock market operator is required to apply a mark, at the time of sale, to each calf weighing 200 pounds or less that is sold at the operator's livestock market. Livestock dealers are also required to mark certain calves. DATCP is required to promulgate rules specifying the methods and materials for marking calves. This bill eliminates the requirements that livestock market operators and livestock dealers mark calves.

Under current law, DATCP awards grants for sustainable agriculture demonstration projects. This bill changes the source of funding for sustainable agriculture grants from oil overcharge funds to the general fund and environmental fund appropriations for the soil and water resource management program.

Under the program to prevent unfair trade practices in the dairy industry, DATCP collects a dairy trade practice fee from persons who manufacture or process dairy products. Under current law, the fee is based on the butterfat content of the dairy products. Under this bill, the fee is based on the value of the dairy products sold.

Under current law, the state fair park board is required to enter into a lease with a private nonprofit corporation to operate the Olympic ice training center. Under this bill, the state fair park board is authorized, rather than required, to enter into such a lease.

CHILDREN'S CODE

DELINQUENCY

Under current law, a person 18 years of age or older who violates a criminal law is subject to the jurisdiction and procedures of the court of criminal jurisdiction (adult court) and, on conviction, is subject to an adult sentence. Currently, a person under 18 years of age, but 12 years of age or older, who violates a criminal law is subject to the jurisdiction and procedures of the court assigned to exercise jurisdiction under the children's code (juvenile court) and, on being adjudicated delinquent, is subject to an array of dispositions provided in the children's code. This bill lowers from 18 to 17 the age at which a person who violates a criminal law is subject to the jurisdiction and procedures of the adult court and, on conviction, to an adult sentence.

Under current law, beginning on December 1, 1995, the department of corrections (DOC) will administer a youthful offender program for children who have been adjudicated delinquent and ordered to participate in the program. A juvenile court may place a child in the youthful offender program if the child is 16 years of age or over, has been adjudicated delinquent for committing an act that would be punishable as a Class A, B, C or D felony if committed by an adult, has been adjudicated delinquent previously for committing an act that would be punishable as a felony if committed by an adult and has had $30,000 or more expended on providing services for him or her under previous dispositional orders. Placement may be made for a period of 5 years or, if the child has committed a violation punishable by life imprisonment if committed by an adult, until the child reaches 25 years of age.

Effective January 1, 1996, this bill changes the name of the youthful offender program to the serious juvenile offender program, lowers the age of eligibility for participation in the program to 14 years, eliminates the requirement that $30,000 be expended previously on providing services for the child, permits DOC to transfer supervision and control over a program participant to the department of health and social services (DHSS) if DHSS agrees, permits DHSS to transfer a person under DHSS supervision to the program if DOC agrees and specifies that a juvenile court must place a child who has committed certain offenses in the serious juvenile offender program, unless the juvenile court, in its discretion, places the child in a juvenile secured correctional facility under the supervision of DHSS instead.

Under current law, if a child is adjudged delinquent, in most cases the juvenile court may not exercise jurisdiction over the child beyond the child's 19th birthday. If a child is adjudged delinquent on the basis of having committed first-degree intentional homicide and is placed in a juvenile secured correctional facility, the juvenile court must enter an order extending its jurisdiction over the child until the child reaches 25 years of age, unless the court discharges the child sooner. If a child is adjudged delinquent on the basis of having committed first-degree reckless homicide, 2nd-degree intentional homicide, mayhem, assault or battery in a juvenile secured correctional facility, first-degree sexual assault, physical abuse of a child or causing mental harm to a child, the juvenile court must enter an order extending its jurisdiction over the child until the child reaches 21 years of age, unless the court discharges the child sooner. Because under this bill children who commit those violations on or after January 1, 1996, may be placed in the serious juvenile offender program, the bill eliminates the extended jurisdiction of the juvenile court for violations committed on or after January 1, 1996.

TERMINATION OF PARENTAL RIGHTS AND ADOPTION

Current law provides various grounds for involuntary termination of parental rights (TPR). Those grounds include child abuse, failure to assume parental responsibility, abandonment, continuing parental disability, continuing denial of periods of physical placement, incestuous parenthood, homicide of a parent and continuing need of protection or services.

Currently, child abuse may be established by a showing that the parent has exhibited a pattern of abusive behavior which poses a substantial threat to the health of the child and that the parent has been convicted of a felony for causing death or injury to a child or that, on more than one occasion, a child has been removed from the home after being adjudicated to be in need of protection or services after a finding that sexual or physical abuse has been inflicted by the parent. This bill eliminates the pattern of abuse and substantial threat requirements so that either the felony conviction or the removal from the home because of sexual or physical abuse are sufficient to establish child abuse as grounds for involuntary TPR.

Currently, failure to assume parental responsibility may be established by a showing that the father of a nonmarital child has never established a "substantial parental relationship" with the child; that is, he has never accepted and exercised significant responsibility for the daily supervision, education, protection and care of the child. This bill expands this ground for involuntary TPR to include mothers as well as fathers and marital, as well as nonmarital, children.

Currently, abandonment may be established by a showing that a child has been placed, or continued in a placement, outside of his or her parent's home by an order of the juvenile court and that the parent has failed to visit or communicate with the child for 6 months or longer. This bill shortens that period to 3 months or longer. Currently, abandonment may also be established by a showing that the parent has left the child with a relative or other person, that the parent knows or could discover the whereabouts of the child and that the parent has failed to visit or communicate with the child for one year or longer. The bill shortens that period to 6 months or longer. Currently, a parent may rebut a showing of abandonment by producing evidence that the parent has not disassociated himself or herself from the child or relinquished responsibility for the child's care and well-being. The bill changes that standard to evidence that the parent has made a voluntary effort to fulfill his or her parental responsibility for the child's care and well-being. Currently, incidental contact between a parent and child does not preclude the juvenile court from finding that the parent has abandoned the child. The bill changes that standard to incidental or occasional contact.

Under current law, a ground for involuntary TPR is the continuing need of a child for protection or services. This bill creates as a new ground for involuntary TPR continuing alcohol or other drug abuse. Under the bill, continuing alcohol or other drug abuse may be established by a showing that: 1) the child has been found to be in need of protection or services and placed, or continued in a placement, outside his or her home by a juvenile court and the parent's abuse of alcohol or other drugs contributed to the juvenile court's decision to place the child or continue the child's placement outside the child's home; 2) a necessary condition for the return of the child to the home was the parent's participation in alcohol or other drug abuse treatment and the agency responsible for the care of the child and the family has made a diligent effort to provide that treatment; and 3) the child has been outside the home for a cumulative total period of 6 months or longer and the parent has failed to participate actively and voluntarily in that treatment and has continued to abuse alcohol or other drugs.

Under current law, a ground for involuntary TPR is the intentional homicide of the child's other parent. This bill creates as a new ground for involuntary TPR the intentional homicide of a sibling of a child, which may be established by a showing that the sibling has been the victim of first-degree intentional homicide or of 2nd-degree intentional homicide and that the person whose parental rights are sought to be terminated has been convicted of that intentional homicide.

Under current law, the juvenile court may appoint a guardian ad litem for a child in any appropriate matter under the children's code. Currently, a guardian ad litem may take certain actions relating to the child, including petitioning for TPR. This bill requires a guardian ad litem for a child who has been adjudged to be in need of protection or services (CHIPS) to file a TPR petition for the child if it appears to the guardian ad litem that grounds exist for a TPR and that a TPR would be in the best interests of the child and if no other person who is authorized to file a TPR petition, such as the district attorney or corporation counsel, does so.

Current law requires a summons and petition initiating a TPR proceeding to be served on certain persons including the parents, guardian, guardian ad litem and legal custodian of the child. This bill requires, in addition, that a TPR summons and petition be served on any person who has ever had a relationship similar to a parent-child relationship with the child.

Under current law, a petition initiating proceedings under the children's code, such as a delinquency petition, a CHIPS petition or a TPR petition, must contain certain information such as the name, age and address of the child, the names and addresses of the child's parents, guardian and legal custodian and the grounds for the petition. This bill requires a petition initiating proceedings under the children's code to state whether the child may be subject to the federal Indian child welfare act, which supersedes the children's code when an Indian child is involved.

Under current law, for the state to receive federal foster care and adoption assistance funding under Title IV-E of the federal social security act for the care of a child who is placed outside his or her home by an order of the juvenile court, the juvenile court order must contain the following findings:

1. That reasonable efforts have been made to prevent the removal of the child from his or her home or, if applicable, to make it possible for the child to return to his or her home.

2. That continuation of the child in the home of the parent is contrary to the welfare of the child.

This bill requires TPR orders, whether voluntary or involuntary, to contain those findings.

Under current law, a county department of human services or social services (county department) in a county with a population of 500,000 or more (Milwaukee County) may place children for adoption. Currently, a county department of a county with a population of less than 500,000 must be licensed by DHSS before it may place children for adoption. This bill eliminates the requirement that a county department in a county with a population of less than 500,000 be licensed by DHSS before it may place children for adoption. The bill, however, permits those county departments to place children for adoption only in foster home conversion cases, that is, cases in which the county department has placed a child in a foster home or treatment foster home (a foster home that provides structured, professional treatment by trained individuals) and the foster parents or treatment foster parents now wish to adopt the child.

COMMERCE AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

COMMERCE

This bill creates a department of financial institutions (DFI), effective July 1, 1996. The functions of the following agencies are consolidated in DFI and those agencies are eliminated:

1. The office of the commissioner of banking (OCB).
2. The office of the commissioner of savings and loan (OCSL).
3. The office of the commissioner of securities (OCS).

The bill also:

1. Reorganizes the office of the commissioner of credit unions (OCCU) into the office of credit unions and attaches that office to DFI for administrative purposes.

2. Transfers from the department of regulation and licensing (DORL) to DFI regulatory responsibility over mortgage bankers, loan originators and loan solicitors.

3. Transfers from the office of the secretary of state to DFI the responsibility for uniform commercial code filings and for federal lien filings and transfers responsibility for the computerized statewide lien system that is operated in conjunction with county offices of registers of deeds from the office of the secretary of state to DFI.

The bill transfers most positions, and the incumbents, from the affected agencies to DFI, but eliminates 14.5 FTE positions in OCB, 6.0 FTE positions in OCSL, 8.0 FTE positions in OCS and 2.0 FTE positions in OCCU.

This bill transfers from the office of the secretary of state to the department of revenue (DOR), effective July 1, 1996, the responsibility for recordkeeping and filing of business organization records. These functions include the filing of articles of incorporation or other organizational articles and annual reports of corporations, limited liability companies, nonprofit corporations and cooperatives, and acting as agent for service of process for business organizations. The bill does not transfer incumbent employees.

Beginning January 1, 1996, this bill requires a limited liability company (LLC) to file an annual report with the office of the secretary of state. An annual report identifies current information about the LLC, such as the names of members and managers and the location of the principal business office.

The bill also permits the secretary of state to administratively dissolve an LLC in certain situations. For example, an LLC may be dissolved if it does not pay fees or penalties due the secretary of state within one year of the due date, if it does not maintain a registered agent for service of process or if it does not file an annual report.

Under current law, if the office of the secretary of state cannot determine a corporation's principal office for service of notices, the secretary of state may serve the corporation by publishing a notice in the community that had been previously designated by the corporation as the location of its principal office. Under this bill, for purposes of administratively dissolving a corporation, the secretary of state may serve the corporation by publishing a notice in the official state newspaper.

Under the federal depository institutions deregulation and monetary control act of 1980, (DIDMCA) a state could elect to opt out of provisions of DIDMCA which establish federal preemption over a state regarding usury, or interest rate, laws. Wisconsin elected to opt out and expressly rejected federal preemption in 1981. This bill repeals the rejection of federal preemption, thereby reestablishing federal preemption.

This bill increases the annual license fees and the initial investigation fees that may be charged by the OCB to licensed lenders, insurance premium finance companies, sellers of checks, motor vehicle sales finance companies, adjustment service companies, collection agencies and community currency exchanges, financial services providers that are regulated by the OCB. The bill also makes the investigation fee nonrefundable.

Currently, the public service commission (PSC), in cooperation with the department of agriculture, trade and consumer protection (DATCP), administers a stray voltage program to assist farmers in investigating and correcting problems caused by stray voltage. This bill expands the scope of the stray voltage program by directing the PSC to standardize procedures to be followed by public utilities in investigating stray voltage, to inspect utility stray voltage programs and to conduct stray voltage training sessions. The bill makes the stray voltage program permanent. Presently, the program is scheduled to end on August 31, 1995.

The bill also permits the PSC to charge a reasonable fee for its services under the stray voltage program. Currently, the PSC may charge no more than $100 per farm for services provided to farmers under the program.

Current law also requires DATCP to conduct research on the effects of stray voltage on agriculture. This bill eliminates that requirement.

This bill permits the PSC to conduct hearings and investigations using interactive video conferencing technology or other electronic technology and permits audio and audiovisual recordings to be used instead of stenographic recordings of PSC hearings and investigations.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Under current law, the department of development (DOD) has general responsibility for promoting travel in this state by residents of this state and for promoting tourism to this state by residents of other states and foreign countries. The division of tourism is created by law in DOD, with an administrator who is appointed outside the classified service by the secretary of development. Within DOD is also a council on tourism, which advises the secretary on matters related to tourism.

On July 1, 1996, this bill transfers the division of tourism, the council on tourism, all activities and responsibilities of DOD relating to tourism and DOD's tourism offices and tourist information centers from DOD to the department of tourism and parks (DTP), created by the bill.

This bill authorizes DOD to administer a loan incentive program, called the capital access program, in which a commercial lending institution may enroll in the program loans for the start-up or expansion of a business that employs fewer than 51 full-time employees or that has annual gross sales of less than $5,000,000. Moneys in 2 reserve accounts that are maintained at the lending institution but owned and controlled by DOD may be used by DOD to compensate the lending institution for any losses that it incurs if a borrower defaults on an enrolled loan. One reserve account is made up of moneys contributed by the lending institution and fees paid by the borrowers of all loans enrolled in the program by the lending institution and the other is made up of financial incentives paid by DOD in an amount for each enrolled loan that equals the amount contributed by the lending institution and the borrower of that loan. Loans may not be used for refinancing existing debt, for a housing project or for investment in real estate.

Under current law, DOD administers the export development loan program, which provides loans to small businesses to enable them to develop their potential for exporting products or services. This bill eliminates that program and creates in its place a Wisconsin trade project program. Under this program, DOD may reimburse an eligible business for certain costs incurred by the business in attending a foreign trade show or a matchmaker trade delegation event (a trade event with meetings between businesses that are new to exporting or to the particular export market and prospective foreign representatives and distributors). An eligible business is a business that had gross annual sales of $25,000,000 or less in the calendar year preceding the year in which the business applies for a reimbursement.

The Wisconsin Health and Educational Facilities Authority (WHEFA) under current law may guarantee the repayment of certain loans made by private lenders to certain rural health care facilities. Eligible loans are guaranteed from the rural hospital loan fund, which is managed and controlled by WHEFA. This bill terminates this program.

Currently, DOD administers the health care provider loan assistance program, under which DOD may pay up to $25,000 in educational loans on behalf of a health care provider, defined as a physician's assistant, a nurse-midwife or a nurse practitioner, who agrees to practice exclusively in an area that is designated by the federal department of health and human services as having a shortage of primary medical care professionals.

This bill makes a number of changes in the program. Under the bill, in addition to an area designated by the federal department of health and human services as having a shortage of primary care professionals, a health care provider may be eligible for loan repayment by agreeing to practice in an area such as:

1. A state or federal prison;
2. An American Indian reservation;
3. An area in which the ratio of primary care physicians to the population is less than one to 25,000; or
4. An area in which there is a chronic unmet need for obstetric services.

The bill also provides that a health care provider must agree to practice primarily rather than exclusively in an eligible area.

Under DOD's rural economic development program, the rural economic development board currently may award a grant or make a loan to a business that has fewer than 25 employees and that is located in a city, village or town that has a population of 4,000 or less or that is located in a county with a population density of less than 150 persons per square mile. Under the program, a business that receives a grant or loan must use it for start-up costs, and a business that received a grant or loan for start-up costs may receive a grant or loan for working capital or fixed asset financing or both. The recipient business may be required by the board to contribute a portion of the cost of the project. The contribution may be in cash or in-kind services. This bill increases the maximum population of the city, village or town in which a business that is eligible for a grant or loan may be located to 10,000 or less and provides that if the board requires a contribution from a recipient business, the board determines whether the contribution may be in cash or in in-kind services.

Currently, the state main street program assists municipalities in increasing economic activity in a business area within the municipality while preserving and building on the business area's historically significant characteristics. From those municipalities that file applications, DOD annually selects up to 5 to participate in the program for 3 years each. An 11-member council, called the council on main street programs, assists DOD in developing plans for the operation and review of the program and in selecting participants.

This bill changes the number of members of the council from 11 to 15. The additional 4 members must have expertise or an interest in downtown revitalization. The bill also changes the number of years for participation in the program by a municipality from 3 to 5. Finally, the bill makes explicit that a municipality may apply to participate more than one time and that DOD may select a municipality to participate more than one time. DOD may give priority in selecting municipalities, however, to those that have not previously participated.

Forward Wisconsin, Inc., is a private corporation formed to promote economic development in this state by encouraging business enterprises to locate in this state. Under current law, DOD is required to promote this state's science and technology assets in cooperation with Forward Wisconsin, Inc., and, if the secretary of development considers it appropriate, refer requests from state and local groups for economic development assistance to Forward Wisconsin, Inc., and contract to pay Forward Wisconsin, Inc., to establish and implement a nationwide business development promotion campaign to attract new enterprises to the state and to encourage the retention and expansion of businesses and jobs in the state.

This bill eliminates, on July 1, 1996, the authority of DOD to contract to pay Forward Wisconsin, Inc., to establish and implement a nationwide business development campaign. DOD may, however, still refer economic development assistance requests to the corporation and must still cooperate with the corporation to promote the state's science and technology assets.

This bill requires DOD to conduct a study of its business development functions and those of the small business development centers managed by the University of Wisconsin-Extension to determine if it would be more efficient to consolidate those functions. DOD must report its findings to the legislature, the governor and the secretary of administration by December 31, 1995.

This bill changes the name of DOD to the department of commerce on July 1, 1996.

CORRECTIONAL SYSTEM

ADULT CORRECTIONAL SYSTEM

Prison industries

Under current law, the department of corrections (DOC) administers a prison industries program for the employment of inmates. This bill permits DOC to lease space within prisons, or within correctional institutions for children, to not more than 3 private businesses to employ inmates or residents to manufacture products or components or provide services for sale on the open market. Before any such business begins, the joint committee on finance (JCF) must hold an informational hearing and the prison industries board must approve the business. The private business may not be run as a prison industry, except in regard to payment and disposition of wages, eligibility of employes for worker's compensation benefits and the authority of DOC to maintain security and control in its institutions. The private business would not be subject to provisions that require adherence to state purchasing requirements, such as the general requirement to purchase from the lowest responsible bidder; prohibit the sale of many products in the open market; require the sale of products by prison industries sales personnel; and include all the industries in a manufacturing and marketing plan and a separate accounting system.

Current law prohibits the sale in the open market of most goods made by state, city or county prisoners. Current exceptions apply for items such as farm machinery, implements and tools. This bill authorizes the sale, in the open market, of by-products of mattresses and by-products of paint from prison industries recycling operations. The bill also authorizes tax-supported institutions and nonprofit agencies to sell, on the open market, products manufactured by inmates of any state penal institution as part of a hobby-craft program or vocational training.

Currently, DOC administers the prison industries program only in state prisons. This bill allows DOC to operate prison industries in any DOC correctional institution for children.

Under current law, state agencies generally must pay interest when they receive property or services and have a balance due after 31 days. One exception to this requirement involves situations in which an order or contract is between 2 or more state agencies. This bill removes the exception if the order or contract involves prison industries. Thus, in that situation, interest must be paid.

Other adult correctional system

Under current law, DOC has general authority to enter into contracts to purchase care and services from public or private agencies. This bill specifically permits DOC to contract with public or private vendors to provide for the supervision of probationers and parolees who are under minimum or administrative supervision. These are probationers and parolees who need only infrequent face-to-face contacts with a probation and parole agent or other representative of DOC. The contract must authorize any such vendor to charge a fee to the supervised probationers and parolees.

Under current law, DOC charges and collects fees for certain services that it provides. This bill requires DOC to charge and collect a fee of $1 per day from probationers and parolees. A probationer or parolee is exempt from the fee while he or she is unemployed, in school on a full-time basis, undergoing treatment or unable to work for medical reasons.

Under current law, if an inmate earns wages and receives medical or dental services, DOC may require him or her to pay a deductible, coinsurance, copayment or similar charge upon the services that the inmate receives. This bill requires DOC to assess the inmate for the deductible, coinsurance, copayment or similar charge if the inmate requests the services. DOC must charge at least $2.50 for each request. These provisions are subject to DOC's current authority to waive liability based on inability to pay.

Under current law, counties are generally responsible for the costs associated with prisoners in county jails. However, DOC must pay counties for certain costs relating to the maintenance of a person held, pursuant to a departmental hold order, in a county jail pending the disposition of his or her parole or probation revocation proceedings. Counties receive $40 per prisoner per day subject to various restrictions. In addition, DOC must pay $500,000 in each fiscal year to any county that had 12,000 or more reimbursable days in the prior fiscal year. This bill requires that payment to be made to a county with 18,000 or more reimbursable days in a fiscal year.

Under current law, DOC may not expand the Green Bay Correctional Institution beyond the institution's walls. This bill permits DOC to expand beyond the walls on the west and north sides of the institution.

JUVENILE CORRECTIONAL SYSTEM

Under current law, the department of health and social services (DHSS) operates the juvenile secured correctional facilities known as the Ethan Allen School and the Lincoln Hills School. Those facilities are used for the placement of children who have been adjudicated delinquent and placed in one of those facilities under the supervision of DHSS. Under current law, effective December 1, 1995, DOC will administer a youthful offender program for children who have been adjudicated delinquent and ordered to participate in that program. Current law authorizes DOC, effective December 1, 1995, to operate juvenile secured correctional facilities for the placement of youthful offender program participants. This bill transfers from DHSS to DOC, effective July 1, 1996, the Ethan Allen School and the Lincoln Hills School.

Under current law relating to community youth and family aids (generally referred to as "youth aids"), various state and federal funds are allocated to counties to pay for state-provided correctional services and local delinquency-related and juvenile justice services. DHSS charges counties for the costs of services provided by DHSS. Under current law, youth aids may not be used for children who are placed in correctional institutions on the basis of having committed certain violent offenses. Under current law, the cost of care for these children is paid at a specified per person daily reimbursement rate from general purpose revenue moneys appropriated to DHSS. Because under this bill, those children may be placed in the serious juvenile offender program administered by DOC, the bill eliminates payment for those children from general purpose revenues appropriated to DHSS effective July 1, 1996.

The bill also provides the amount of youth aids funds allocated to counties for the 1995-97 state fiscal biennium and provides new per-person daily cost assessments upon counties for juvenile placements during the 1995-97 biennium as follows:

	7/1/95	1/1/96	7/1/96	1/1/97
	to	to	to	to
Placement	12/31/95	6/30/96	12/31/96	6/30/97
Juvenile correctional institution	$127.98	$127.98	(to be set by statute)	(to be set by statute)
Transfers from a juvenile correctional institution to a treatment facility	$127.98	$127.98	(to be set by statute)	(to be set by statute)
Adult correctional institution	(set by DOC by rule)
Child caring institution	$147.84	$153.80	$153.87	$156.98
Group home	$102.44	$106.60	$106.69	$108.86
Foster care	$22.84	$23.80	$23.80	$24.29
Treatment foster care	$65.94	$68.58	$68.58	$69.95
Departmental corrective sanctions services	$81.55	$81.55	$82.11	$82.11
Departmental aftercare	$13.00	$13.00	$13.28	$13.29

The bill requires DHSS to submit to the secretary of administration and the cochairpersons of the joint committee on finance (JCF) proposed rates to counties for maintaining a child in a juvenile correctional institution during the 1996-97 fiscal year and requires the secretary, if he or she approves of those rates, to submit proposed legislation providing for those rates to the cochairpersons of JCF.

The bill requires DHSS to evaluate the formula used by DHSS to allocate youth aids to counties in light of any changes in the number of children placed under the supervision of DHSS as a result of amendments in the law made by this bill and to submit to the secretary of administration and the cochairpersons of JCF a proposed youth aids formula that reflects that change. If the secretary approves that formula, he or she must include it in the 1997-99 budget compilation.

Under current law, DHSS must adjust the per-person daily cost assessment upon counties for state-provided juvenile correctional services at least annually. If there is an increase in the assessment, DHSS must increase the funds available to counties to cover that increase. This bill eliminates the requirements that DHSS adjust that assessment annually and provide funding to cover any increase in that assessment.

Under current law, a county department of human services or social services may provide an intensive supervision program, consisting of intensive surveillance and community-based treatment services, for children who have been adjudicated delinquent and ordered to participate in an intensive supervision program. This bill eliminates the authority of county departments to provide intensive supervision programs.

Current law provides an intensive aftercare program for children who have been released from secured correctional facilities, child-caring institutions and secure alcohol and other drug abuse treatment programs with the aim of reducing recidivism by determining what types and levels of intensity of services are effective for reducing recidivism for children on aftercare. This bill eliminates that program.

Under current law, DOC may enter into contracts with counties to have DOC provide electronic monitoring for certain children who have been ordered by a juvenile court to be subject to electronic monitoring. Currently, children may not be assessed a fee for these services. This bill broadens DOC's authority, allowing DOC to enter into a contract with a county social services department or DHSS so that DOC can provide electronic monitoring services for any child who is in the custody or under the supervision of the county department or DHSS. DOC charges fees for the services that it provides. Under a placement agreement, the child or the child's parent or guardian may be charged a fee for these services.

This bill permits moneys received as payments in restitution of property that is damaged at a juvenile secured correctional facility, moneys received from the sale of surplus property from a juvenile secured correctional facility and moneys received for miscellaneous services provided at a juvenile secured correctional facility to be used for the repair or replacement of property damaged at the facility and for the provision of those miscellaneous services.

COURTS AND PROCEDURE

CIRCUIT COURTS

Under current law, the director of state courts reimburses counties for the costs of guardians ad litem, who are appointed by courts to represent the interests of children or incompetent persons. If the state moneys appropriated are insufficient, the county payments are prorated. This bill eliminates that reimbursement program and allows counties to include those costs in the court costs that are eligible for state reimbursement under current circuit court support grants.

The court support payment program is currently funded by a $20 court support services fee that is assessed to litigants. This bill raises that fee to $40.

This bill requires a county board to provide one judicial assistant for every 3 circuit judges in counties with 3 or more circuit court branches to assist the judges with clerical and administrative duties. Under current law, the costs of the judicial assistants are included in those court costs that are eligible for state reimbursement under the circuit court support grants.

Under current law, the fees collected by the clerk of circuit court for most civil actions are increased for the period from September 1, 1989, to December 31, 1995. This bill removes the expiration date of December 31, 1995, for the increased fees.

Under current law, funding to reimburse Milwaukee County for the costs of operating a drug court in Milwaukee expires June 30, 1995. This bill changes that expiration date to June 30, 1997.

Under current law, each circuit judge is responsible for appointing a court reporter to serve in the branch of that circuit judge. This bill instead requires the chief judge of the judicial administrative district, in cooperation with the district court administrator, to appoint, assign and supervise the court reporters serving the circuit courts within that judicial administrative district.

Under current law, in civil cases, traffic cases, municipal court actions to impose civil monetary forfeitures and small claims actions if a jury is requested, the jury consists of 6 persons. In certain cases, including traffic cases and forfeiture actions, a party to the action may request a greater number of jurors, not to exceed 12 persons. This bill limits the number of jurors to 6 persons in cases involving traffic regulations.

Under current law, a circuit court fee of $10 collected by each county for filing a petition requesting child or family support or maintenance is used to fund the county's cost of administering the child and spousal support and paternity program. Under this bill, the fee is used for court services related to the filing of a petition for support or maintenance.

Under current law, a court reporter receives a fee for making a transcript of the court record of $1.50 for a 25-line page for the original and 50 cents for a duplicate page. The fee generally is paid by the county. If the state public defender (SPD) represents the defendant, the state pays the fee. If another party to an action requests a transcript, the party pays the court reporter a fee of $1.75 for a 25-line page for the original and 60 cents for a duplicate page.

This bill allows a court reporter to collect these transcript fees after June 30, 1995, only if the transcript is produced on computer-aided transcription equipment owned by the court reporter and purchased before January 1, 1995. The bill eliminates all court reporter fees after June 30, 1997.

OTHER COURTS AND PROCEDURE

Under current law, certain proceedings in a criminal case may be conducted by telephone or live audiovisual means, if available. Some of these proceedings may be conducted by telephone or live audiovisual means only with the consent of the defendant. This bill eliminates the requirement for the defendant's consent. Under the bill, either party may request that the proceedings be conducted by telephone or live audiovisual means. The court may then permit the proceedings to be conducted by telephone or live audiovisual means unless the opposing party shows good cause for not doing so.

Under current law, in antitrust actions, the court may award private parties, but not the department of justice (DOJ), the costs of a suit, including reasonable attorney fees. The costs must be paid by the losing party. In pollution discharge actions, the court may award DOJ the costs of any investigation and monitoring related to a prosecution. Current law does not give the court authority to provide any similar awards to DOJ in consumer protection, medical assistance fraud and environmental protection actions.

This bill permits the court, in consumer protection, environmental protection, medical assistance fraud and pollution discharge actions, to award DOJ an amount reasonably necessary to remedy the harmful effects of the violation, the costs of the suit, including attorney fees and the expenses of investigation and prosecution.

Under current law, the judicial commission, composed of 5 nonlawyers appointed by the governor with the consent of the senate and 2 judges and 2 state bar members appointed by the supreme court, investigates any misconduct or permanent disability of a judge or court commissioner. The supreme court reviews the actions of the commission and determines the appropriate discipline or action to take in response to the commission's investigation.

Under current law, the judicial council studies the rules of practice and procedure in the courts and the organization and methods of operation of the courts. The judicial council recommends changes in court practice and procedure to the legislature and to the supreme court and advises the supreme court in the promulgation of rules that regulate pleadings, practice and procedure in judicial proceedings.

This bill retains both the judicial commission and the judicial council but abolishes the executive secretary of and clerical support for the judicial council. Under the bill, the judicial commission provides staff services to the judicial council.

This bill provides immunity from civil liability for property damage if the person causing the damage was acting in good faith in containing and stabilizing a discharge of oil into any navigable waterway and was under the direction of a state or federal hazardous substance contingency plan, a federal on-scene coordinator or the secretary of natural resources. This immunity does not apply to a person who possesses or controls the oil which is discharged, who causes the discharge of the oil or whose act or omission involves reckless, wanton or intentional misconduct.

PUBLIC DEFENDER

Under current law, the SPD may seek payment for legal services provided to persons who are indigent in part, from the parents of children for whom the SPD provides legal counsel who are not indigent or who are indigent in part and from persons who have been represented by the SPD and whose financial circumstances improve.

Under this bill, the SPD must establish a system to verify the income, assets and expenses of the persons seeking representation, to make redeterminations of indigency during the course of representation and to collect payments from persons who have been provided counsel. The bill authorizes the SPD to gain access to, and to receive copies of, the income tax returns of its clients from whom the SPD seeks payment for legal representation.

Under current law, if an indigent person is the respondent in a paternity action and the petitioner is represented by the district attorney, corporation counsel, attorney responsible for support enforcement or some other state or county attorney, the indigent person is entitled to state-paid legal counsel under the SPD program on the issues of paternity determination and initial child support establishment. The legal services provided by SPD end, however, if during the paternity proceeding the results of blood tests show that the respondent is excluded as the father or that the statistical probability of the respondent being the father is 99.0% or higher. This bill eliminates entirely the entitlement of an indigent respondent in a paternity action to state-paid legal services provided by SPD.

Under a decision by the Wisconsin court of appeals, which the Wisconsin supreme court refused to review and thus upheld, an indigent person is entitled to representation by the SPD in an action for contempt of court that is brought by the state because the person, if found in contempt, may be incarcerated. Brotzman v. Brotzman, 91 Wis. 2d 335 (1979). This bill provides that the SPD may not provide legal representation to a person who is subject to a contempt of court proceeding for failure to pay child or family support if the matter is not brought by the state or if the judge or family court commissioner hearing the matter certifies to the SPD that the person will not be incarcerated if found in contempt.

Under current law, the SPD may provide legal representation on behalf of an indigent person in a case attacking the conditions of the person's confinement, if the SPD believes the case should be pursued. This bill eliminates this authority.

Current law provides caseload standards that a staff attorney in the SPD trial division is expected to handle. This bill increases those standards for felony cases from 166.8 to 184.5 per year, for misdemeanor cases from 410.9 to 492 per year and for juvenile cases from 228.4 to 246 per year.

Current law reduces the caseload standards of 12 SPD staff attorneys to 50% of the full caseload standards imposed by law and requires them to perform supervisory duties. This bill repeals this provision.

Under current law, the SPD assigns some cases to staff attorneys and some cases to private local attorneys. In each county, the SPD creates a list of qualified private local attorneys for each type of case handled. Generally, the SPD assigns cases in order according to the applicable list. An attorney may not be excluded from a list unless the SPD states in writing the reasons for the exclusion. This bill allows the SPD to assign cases to a private local attorney, without regard to the lists, for reasons related to that attorney's performance.

Under current law, a private local attorney who receives an assignment from the SPD generally receives $50 per hour for time spent in court, $40 per hour for time spent out of court, excluding travel, and $25 per hour for travel in certain situations. The SPD may also enter into annual contracts with private local attorneys to handle vehicle-related cases and to pay those attorneys an amount set in the contract that does not exceed the previously described rates. This bill authorizes such contracts in all cases, requires the SPD to enter into as many of these contracts as possible, allows the contracts to be made with attorneys or law firms and requires that the contracts set a fixed-fee total amount (subject to the hourly rate limits).

Current law requires that a prosecutor make available to a person charged with a crime certain information, such as statements of witnesses, police reports and reports of scientific testing, that the prosecutor has in his or her possession. This bill requires the SPD to pay any fee charged for photocopying any such items made available to a person charged with a crime if the SPD or a private attorney appointed by the SPD represents the person. The fee that the SPD may be charged for photocopies may not exceed the actual, necessary and direct cost of photocopying.

Current law requires a court in criminal, children's code, mental health act and protective services proceedings to consider the ability of the person who is the subject of the proceeding to cooperate and understand the proceeding. If the court has notice that the person has a language difficulty, current law requires the court to hold a hearing to determine if that person needs an interpreter.

Current law requires the state to pay for an interpreter provided to an indigent if the proceedings are in the supreme court, a court of appeals or a circuit court. In Appointment of Interpreter in State v. Le, 184 Wis. 2d 860 (1994), the Wisconsin supreme court decided that the director of state courts is the state agency responsible for the payment of the fees of an interpreter for an indigent in circuit court proceedings and that the SPD is responsible for the payment of fees for those services provided outside a court proceeding. Current law limits the payment of interpreter fees in court proceedings to $35 per one-half day.

This bill codifies the supreme court decision, requiring the SPD to pay the interpreter fees for out-of-court assistance to the SPD. The bill sets a payment limit of $35 per one-half day for interpreter services provided to the SPD outside of court proceedings.

Current law requires the clerk of circuit court to collect a fee of $1.25 per page for copies of general court documents. The register in probate and sheriff collect a fee of $1 per page for copies of similar documents. This bill requires the clerk of circuit court, the register in probate and the sheriff to instead charge the actual, necessary and direct costs for those documents when copies of those documents are requested by the SPD.

CRIMES

Under current law, with certain exceptions for repeat serious felony offenders, if a person is convicted of first-degree intentional homicide or another crime punishable by life imprisonment, the court must sentence the person to life imprisonment and must make a parole eligibility determination either allowing ordinary parole eligibility provisions to apply or setting a later parole eligibility date. This bill gives the court a 3rd option: the court may provide that the life imprisonment is without the possibility of parole.

Current law provides a number of penalty enhancement provisions to allow for increased penalties whenever crimes are committed under specified circumstances. This bill provides penalty enhancement for violent crimes committed on or within 1,000 yards of school premises or a school bus. If the underlying crime is a felony, the maximum period of imprisonment is increased by 5 years. If the underlying crime is a misdemeanor, the maximum period of imprisonment is increased by 6 months. In addition, unless the person who is convicted of a crime poses a public safety risk, the court may require the person to complete 100 hours of community service work.

Under current law, the sentencing commission promulgates rules providing guidelines for use by judges whenever sentencing most felony defendants. Judges must take the guidelines into account when imposing a sentence, but may deviate from the guidelines by stating on the record the reasons for the deviation. This bill abolishes the sentencing commission and eliminates the requirement that judges consider the guidelines.

EDUCATION

PRIMARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

Article X, Section 1, of the Wisconsin Constitution provides that “the supervision of public instruction shall be vested in a state superintendent of public instruction and such other officers as the legislature shall direct” The constitution provides for the election of the state superintendent. The statutes provide that the state superintendent directs and supervises the department of public instruction.

Effective July 1, 1996, this bill changes the name of the department of public instruction (DPI) to the department of education (DOE) and provides for DOE to be under the direction and supervision of a secretary of education who is nominated by the governor, and with the advice and consent of the senate appointed, to serve at the pleasure of the governor. All duties and powers currently assigned or granted to the state superintendent, including membership on various boards and councils, are transferred to the secretary of education. The bill creates an office of the state superintendent, attached to DOE, under the direction and supervision of the state superintendent, and directs the state superintendent to:

1. Visit, ascertain the condition of and stimulate public interest in the public schools.
2. Advocate for the needs of children and school districts.
3. Provide information to the public on the public schools and school districts.
4. Annually submit to the governor and the legislature a plan for improving the public schools and the academic achievement of public school pupils.

This bill transfers from DPI to the department of revenue (DOR), effective July 1, 1996, the responsibility for calculating and distributing general school aid, the responsibility for distributing handicapped education aid, pupil transportation aid, bilingual-bicultural education aid, school library aids and tuition payments. The bill transfers 10 FTE positions from DPI to DOR, but no incumbent DPI employees are transferred.

Current law requires any person having under his or her control a child between the ages of 6 and 18 years to ensure that the child attends school regularly. Current law provides certain exceptions to that general rule:

1. With the written approval of the parent or guardian of a child who is at least 16 years old and a child at risk, the child may attend, part time or in lieu of high school, a technical college. A child at risk is a pupil in grades 5 to 12 who is one or more years behind his or her age group in the number of high school credits attained, or 2 or more years behind his or her age group in basic skill levels, and is also a dropout, a habitual truant, a parent or an adjudicated delinquent.

2. With the written approval of the parent or guardian of a child who is 16 years old, the child may be excused by a school board from school attendance if the child will participate in an alternative program that leads to high school graduation.

3. With the written approval of the parent or guardian of a child who is at least 17 years old, the child may be excused by a school board from regular school attendance if the child will participate in an alternative program leading to high school graduation or to a high school equivalency diploma.

4. With the written approval of the parent or guardian of a child who is at least 17 years old, the child must be excused by a school board from regular school attendance if the child began a program leading to a high school equivalency diploma in a secured correctional facility and the child and his or her parent or guardian agree that the child will continue to participate in such a program.

This bill reduces the age of compulsory school attendance from 18 to 17 years of age. The bill modifies the exception described in item 3, above. Under the bill, upon the request of any child who is at least 17 years old, the school board may allow the child to participate in an alternative program. Finally, the bill eliminates the exception described in item 4, above.

Under current law, a school district may admit a pupil who resides in another school district if the pupil's parents pay tuition. In addition, a pupil may attend a public school located outside his or her school district of residence if the 2 school boards agree, the state superintendent approves and the school district of residence pays tuition.

This bill creates an interdistrict school choice program. Beginning in the 1996-97 school year, the bill provides that a pupil may attend any public school located outside his or her school district of residence if the pupil's parent complies with certain application dates and procedures, and requires the school district of residence to pay tuition or an amount agreed to between the 2 school districts. The school district of residence continues to count the pupil in enrollment for state aid purposes.

The school board of attendance may reject an application only if there is no space available in the school or program or the pupil is involved in a disciplinary proceeding. The school board must reject an application, however, if acceptance would violate a plan to reduce racial imbalance in the school district or would be harmful to the efforts of the school board to achieve racial balance in the school district. Similarly, a school district may prohibit a resident pupil from attending school in another school district if the pupil is involved in a disciplinary proceeding. A school district must prohibit a resident pupil from attending school in another school district if allowing such attendance would violate a plan to reduce racial imbalance in the school district or would be harmful to the efforts of the school board to achieve racial balance in the school district.

Beginning in the 1996-97 school year, this bill also creates an interdistrict enrollment options program under which a pupil enrolled in a public school may attend a public school in another school district in order to take one or more courses under certain circumstances. The pupil must continue to attend school in his or her school district of residence for at least one course; the school board of the other school district must determine that there is space available; the school board of the resident school district must not offer, or have space available in, a comparable course; if the course is offered in the high school grades, the school board of the resident school district must determine that the course satisfies high school graduation requirements; and the pupil must meet all of the prerequisites for the course. Acceptance and rejection criteria and procedures for the program are identical to the acceptance and rejection criteria and procedures for the interdistrict school choice program.

The school board of the school district of residence must pay to the school board of the other school district an amount equal to the cost of providing a course to a nonresident pupil under the program, as determined by DOE.

Beginning in the 1996-97 school year, this bill allows a pupil enrolled in a public school to attend a public school located within the pupil's school district of residence but outside the pupil's attendance area under certain circumstances. The school board must determine that there is space available and the pupil must meet all of the prerequisites for the course.

The bill provides that the school board may not reject an application to attend a school in a different attendance area based on the pupil's academic achievement. In addition, the provision described above regarding acceptance or rejection based on the effect on the school district's plans to reduce racial imbalance applies to the intradistrict enrollment options program.

The bill allows a school board that is participating in a special transfer program to reduce racial imbalance (commonly known as chapter 220) or in a merged attendance area program to reduce racial imbalance to modify the application deadlines established in this bill if the deadlines would conflict with chapter 220 or merged attendance area program procedures.

In addition, the parent of a pupil who resides in a school district participating in one of the integration programs must submit the application to attend another school district to the school board of the school district of residence for approval.

The bill also authorizes DOE to modify any provision contained in the interdistrict and intradistrict programs if DOE agrees with the school board that the provision is harmful to the integration program or to the school district's efforts to achieve racial balance.

Current law allows up to 1.5% of the enrollment of the Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) to attend, at no charge, any nonsectarian private school located in the city of Milwaukee under certain circumstances. The state pays the private school, on behalf of the pupil, an amount equal to the amount of per pupil aid that MPS receives from the state, and subtracts that amount from the amount paid to MPS.

This bill makes a number of changes in the program beginning in the 1996-97 school year:

1. The bill allows pupils who reside in the city to attend any private school, whether sectarian or nonsectarian.

2. The bill eliminates the 1.5% enrollment limitation described above but provides that no more than 3,500 pupils in the 1996-97 school year and no more than 5,500 pupils in the 1997-98 school year may participate in the program.

3. The bill eliminates a provision that limits the percentage of a private school's enrollment that may participate in the program to 65%.

4. The bill provides that in the 1995-96 school year, the amount paid per pupil is the same as in the 1994-95 school year. Beginning in the 1996-97 school year, the private school receives that amount, increased by the increase in the consumer price index (CPI), or the private school's operating cost per pupil, whichever is less.

5. The bill provides that the MPS aid reduction described above must come first from aid paid to MPS for its special transfer program, commonly known as chapter 220.

6. Finally, the bill directs DOE, when making the payment, to send a check to the private school that is made out to the pupil's parent or guardian. The parent or guardian must restrictively endorse the check for the use of the private school.

Current law authorizes a school board on its own initiative, or upon receipt of a petition signed by at least 10% of the teachers employed by the school district or by at least 50% of the teachers employed at one school, to contract for the operation of up to 2 schools as charter schools. A charter school is exempt from most laws governing public schools. A school board may not establish a charter school without the approval of the state superintendent, who must approve the first 10 requests for approval and must ensure that charter schools are established in no more than 10 school districts. If the school board acts on its own initiative or if a petition is granted, the school board may contract for the operation of a school as a charter school. The contract must specify the amount that the school district will pay the charter school each year. Charter school employees remain school district employees and may participate in the Wisconsin retirement system.

This bill makes a number of changes in the provisions governing charter schools, including:

1. The bill deletes the requirement for state superintendent approval to establish a charter school, deletes the limit on the number of charter schools that a school board may establish and deletes the 10-school-district limit.

2. The bill deletes a provision that prohibits a school board from spending more per pupil enrolled in a charter school than it spends per pupil enrolled in a public school.

3. The bill provides that a requirement for all charter schools to be nonsectarian in their programs, admission policies, employment practices and other operations does not apply to charter schools established by MPS.

4. The bill deletes the requirement that all charter school personnel be school district employes.

5. The bill authorizes a school board to enter into a contract for the operation of a charter school that results in the conversion of a private school to a charter school. Current law prohibits a school district from entering into such a contract.

This bill authorizes MPS to contract with nonprofit, private schools or agencies located in the city of Milwaukee to provide educational programs to pupils enrolled in grades kindergarten to 12. The bill allows pupils enrolled in MPS to attend, at no charge, any private school or agency with which the board has contracted. The board must establish educational standards for pupil performance for each contracting private school and agency.

This bill authorizes the MPS board to contract with any person to manage or operate one or more schools. The bill also authorizes the MPS board to close a school that it determines is low in performance by adopting a resolution to that effect. The bill provides that if the board closes a school, or reopens the school, the superintendent of schools may reassign staff members without regard to seniority in service.

This bill directs the secretary of education to reorganize the 12 cooperative educational service agencies (CESAs) into 15 CESAs, effective on July 1, 1997. Each reorganized CESA is coterminous with a technical college district, except that reorganized CESA no. 5 is coterminous with the territory of 2 technical college districts and except that the school board of a school district that is located in more than one technical college district must select the reorganized CESA in which the school district will participate.

The bill adds 2 members to each technical college district board: one member of the board of control of the CESA that is located in the district and one employe of a school district or CESA who represents a school-to-work program. Both are appointed by the board of control.

The bill also adds members to each CESA board of control: one member of the technical college district board of the technical college district located in the CESA and a representative of each University of Wisconsin System institution and center that is located in the agency.

The bill authorizes a CESA to contract with all public and private entities and to apply for state and federal grants for the CESA and on behalf of school districts.

This bill authorizes a school district, as an alternative to the employment of teachers, to contract with any person for the performance of teaching or other educational services by individuals who are licensed by the state superintendent but who are not employees of the school district.

If a school district decides to subcontract work that would otherwise be performed by employees in a collective bargaining unit for which a representative is recognized or certified, and the decision is primarily related to the wages, hours or conditions of employment of employees in the bargaining unit, the school district must first bargain collectively with the representative concerning that decision. See Unified School District No. 1 of Racine County v. Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, 81 Wis. 2d 89 (1977).

This bill provides that the statutory duties and powers of school boards are to be broadly construed to authorize any action that is within the comprehensive meaning of the terms of the duties and powers, if the action is not prohibited by federal or state law.

With certain exceptions, this bill authorizes DPI, upon request of a school board, to waive any school board or school district requirement in the laws administered by DPI or in the administrative rules promulgated by DPI. Before requesting a waiver, the school board must hold a public hearing in the school district on the issue. In determining whether to grant a waiver, DPI must consider whether the requirement impedes progress toward achieving a local improvement plan under the federal Goals 2000: Educate America Act, and whether the school board has adopted educational goals. A waiver is effective for 4 years and may be renewed for additional 4-year periods.

Under current law, teachers employed at a public school located in Milwaukee County are permanent employees upon the gaining of a 4th contract in the school or school system after a continuous and successful 3-year probation. This bill repeals the permanent employment status provision.

Under current law, each school board must employ a reading specialist, licensed by the state superintendent, to develop and coordinate a comprehensive reading curriculum in grades kindergarten to 12. This bill eliminates the requirement to employ a reading specialist.

Current law requires each school board to administer pupil assessment examinations adopted or approved by the state superintendent to all pupils enrolled in the 8th and 10th grades. A school board may administer additional examinations only if they are aligned with the school district's curriculum. This bill eliminates this latter requirement.

Current law requires MPS to use 67% of certain funds allocated to MPS to provide a mentor teacher program and a peer coaching program, and the balance for school administrator assessment and development. This bill directs MPS to use all of these funds for professional staff development.

This bill authorizes a school board to establish a performance recognition plan that annually allocates at least 2% of the school district's payroll, excluding the cost of fringe benefits, for performance recognition awards to school district employees. If a school board adopts a performance recognition plan, it must establish a committee to develop employee performance standards and a committee to develop a process to review employee performance and make recommendations to each principal regarding award recipients and the amount of each award. The committees are composed of school district employees, school administrators and parents or guardians of pupils enrolled in the school district. The principal of each school determines award recipients and award amounts, subject to the total amount allocated to that school.

Currently, with certain exceptions, governmental bodies are required to provide public notice of their meetings and meet in open session. This bill excludes committees that make recommendations concerning school district performance recognition awards from the application of this law.

Under current law, the general school aid appropriation is a sum certain amount. Beginning in the 1995-96 school year, however, the appropriation is changed to a sum sufficient. The amount appropriated is the amount necessary to ensure that the total amount appropriated as general school aid and minimum aid is sufficient to allow school districts the maximum revenue increase possible under the school district revenue limit, as determined by the joint committee on finance (JCF). This bill maintains the general school aid appropriation as a sum certain amount.

Under the current school aid formula, the guaranteed valuation is the amount of property tax base support that the state guarantees to each pupil. The current formula has 2 levels of state support, a primary guaranteed valuation and a secondary guaranteed valuation. The secondary guaranteed tax base applies to costs above a certain level. Because the secondary guarantee is lower than the main, primary guarantee, it generates less state aid on the costs to which it applies. The dividing point between use of the primary and secondary guarantees is called the primary ceiling cost per member. Currently, the primary ceiling cost per member is set annually at the previous school year's ceiling increased by the percentage change in the CPI.

This bill adds a tertiary level of state support beginning in the 1996-97 school year. Under the bill, the primary ceiling cost per member is $1,000. In the 1996-97 school year, the secondary ceiling cost per member is the 1995-96 primary ceiling cost per member increased by the percentage change in the CPI. Thereafter, the secondary ceiling cost per member is the secondary ceiling cost per member in the previous school year increased by the percentage change in the CPI.

Under current law, a school district may receive minimum state aid in an amount that is based on the district's median household income and the amount of aid that it receives under the school equalization aid formula. The current amount that a school district may receive under the minimum state aid program is a minimum of $175 per pupil and a maximum of $400 per pupil. This bill eliminates the minimum aid program beginning in the 1996-97 school year.

Current law limits the increase in the total amount of revenue that a school district may receive from general school aids and property taxes in the 1993-94 to 1997-98 school years. In the 1993-94 school year, the maximum allowable increase per pupil was $190 or the per pupil revenue amount multiplied by the rate of inflation, whichever was greater. Beginning in the 1994-95 school year, the $190 per pupil amount is adjusted each year by the rate of inflation. The limit is based on the difference between the average of the number of pupils enrolled in the 3 previous school years and the average of the number of pupils enrolled in the current and 2 preceding school years. If a school district exceeds its revenue limits, the state superintendent is required to deduct from the district's general state aid (or other state aids, if necessary) an amount equal to the excess revenue. If these state aids are not sufficient to cover the amount of the excess revenue, the state superintendent must order the school board to reduce the property tax obligations of its taxpayers by an amount that equals the remaining excess revenue after the deduction of state aids. If these property tax obligations are not reduced, any resident in the school district may seek injunctive relief in court. The state superintendent must also make sure that any such reductions in state aid lapse to the general fund and that the amount of the excess revenue is not used in calculating the school district's revenue limit in the following year.

This bill modifies the formula used to compute a school district's revenue limit by expanding the types of school aid under the limit. The bill includes in state aid all current categorical aids to schools that are formula-driven, such as handicapped education aid and pupil transportation aid. The bill does not include those categorical aids that are grant programs.

The bill also makes the revenue limits permanent and freezes the allowable annual increase in revenue per pupil at $194 beginning in the 1995-96 school year.

The bill exempts from the revenue limits those school districts whose base revenue per pupil is less than $5,200 in the 1995-96 school year and $5,500 in each subsequent school year. Base revenue per pupil is determined by calculating the sum of general school aid received in the previous year and property taxes levied for the previous year, less funds expended on school district debt service, and the costs of a county handicapped children's education board program, dividing this amount by the sum of the average of the number of pupils in the 3 previous school years and the number of pupils who are school district residents who are solely enrolled in a special education board program provided by a county handicapped children's education board program in the previous school year, and adding $194 to the quotient.

Finally, if a school district exceeds its revenue limit, the bill provides that the reductions in state aid that lapse to the general fund are to be paid to the school district in the succeeding school year. The school board is required to reduce the school district's property tax levy by an amount that equals the amount that lapsed to the general fund in the prior school year.

Currently, with certain exceptions, no school district may grant to its nonrepresented professional employees for any 12-month period ending on June 30 an average increase in compensation, for all such employees, prior to July 1, 1996, having an average cost per employee of more than 2.1% of the total cost per employee of compensation and fringe benefits provided by the district to its nonrepresented professional employees.

This bill provides, instead, that no school district may grant to its nonrepresented professional employees for any 12-month period ending on June 30 an average increase in compensation, for all such employees, prior to July 1, 1996, having an average cost per employee exceeding the highest average total percentage increased cost per employee of compensation provided by the school district to its represented employees in any collective bargaining unit during either of the 2 most recent 12-month periods ending on June 30 preceding the date that the increase for nonrepresented professional employees becomes effective.

This bill eliminates the reimbursement rates for handicapped education costs and school age parents program costs of 63% for program staff and transportation costs and 51% for the costs of psychologists and social workers. The bill directs that aidable costs be fully reimbursed, subject to the availability of funds.

Under current law, the state provides state aid to school districts to support voluntary efforts by school districts to reduce racial imbalance. Aid is provided for both interdistrict transfer and intradistrict transfer programs. Aid for an intradistrict transfer program is calculated by multiplying the general state aid per pupil in the school district by the number of pupils participating in the program, weighted such that each transfer pupil is counted as an additional 0.325 of a pupil. Interdistrict transfer aid is calculated in such a manner that each transfer pupil continues to be counted as 1.0 pupil in aid by the school district of residence; the gaining school district is paid the per pupil cost of that school district for each transfer pupil or, if such pupils constitute at least 5% of the total enrollment of the gaining school district, 20% more.

Beginning in the 1996-97 school year, this bill provides that the gaining school district is paid, for each interdistrict transfer pupil, the per pupil cost in the gaining school district or $7,000, whichever is less.

The bill also provides that if a school district receives intradistrict transfer aid in the 1995-96 school year, in each subsequent school year its aid may not exceed the amount determined by multiplying the amount per transfer pupil received in the previous school year by the CPI. If a school district does not receive intradistrict aid in the 1995-96 school year, its aid in the first school year in which it receives such aid is calculated as under current law. In each subsequent school year, its aid may not exceed the amount determined by multiplying the amount per transfer pupil received in the previous school year by the CPI.

Current law appropriates money to DPI for the purposes of correcting the academic deficiencies of educationally and economically disadvantaged pupils and achieving a more effective and responsive educational program in MPS. In the 1993-94 school year, the funds were distributed according to a plan developed by the governor and the state superintendent and approved by JCF.

For the 1995-96 school year, this bill directs the MPS school board to submit a proposal for the expenditure of the funds to the governor for his or her approval. In subsequent school years, the governor must submit a proposal to JCF for its approval.

Under current law, DPI awards grants to school districts for various programs, including all of the following:

1. Learning assistance programs.
2. Programs that enhance the instruction of mathematics and science in the elementary grades.
3. Staff development programs.
4. Programs designed to promote the interaction of pupils and teachers with professional scientists, engineers and mathematicians.
5. Human growth and development programs.

This bill eliminates all of the above grant programs.

This bill authorizes DPI and the division of technology management in the department of administration (DOA), which is created by the bill, jointly to award a grant to a school district, or to a school district acting in conjunction with one or more other school districts, cooperative educational service agencies or technical college districts, for the purchase of instructional technology and the cost of providing staff development and training related to instructional technology.

Current law requires the state superintendent to adopt or approve examinations that are designed to measure pupil attainment of knowledge in the 8th and 10th grades. Each school board must administer the examinations to all pupils enrolled in the school district in the 8th and 10th grades. The pupil assessment program expires at the end of the 1997-98 school year.

This bill eliminates the expiration of the program. The bill directs the state superintendent to adopt or approve a 4th grade examination as well, and requires each school board to administer the examination to all pupils enrolled in the school district in the 4th grade beginning in the 1996-97 school year. The bill authorizes school boards to administer the examination in the 1995-96 school year.

Under current law, the term of an employment contract of a school district administrator, business manager or school principal or assistants to such persons may not exceed 2 years and must expire on June 30 of an odd-numbered year.

This bill eliminates the restriction on term length and eliminates the requirement that contracts expire on June 30 of an odd-numbered year. The bill provides that the initial employment contract must be for a term of at least 2 years. The bill also provides that if the employing school board fails to give notice of either renewal of the contract or of refusal to renew the contract at least 4 months before it expires, the contract then in force continues for 2 years.

Current law provides that a pupil may be suspended from school for noncompliance with school rules, or for knowingly conveying any threat or false information concerning an attempt or alleged attempt being made or to be made to destroy any school property by means of explosives, or for conduct while at school or while under the supervision of a school authority that endangers the property, health or safety of others, or for conduct while not at school or while not under the supervision of a school authority that endangers the property, health or safety of others at school or under the supervision of a school authority or endangers the property, health or safety of any employe or school board member of the school district in which the pupil is enrolled.

A school board may expel a pupil from school if it finds that the pupil engaged in any of the conduct described above or finds the pupil guilty of repeated refusal or neglect to obey the rules, and is satisfied that the interest of the school demands the pupil's expulsion.

This bill provides that a pupil may be suspended or expelled for conduct while going to or coming from school that endangers the property, health or safety of others.

Current law requires each school board to provide safe and healthful facilities. This bill requires, in addition, that each school board ensure that facilities, school-related events and school-related transportation be provided in a manner that is completely safe for both pupils and adults.

Current law directs the state superintendent annually to conduct a general on-site audit of at least 10% of all school districts to ensure compliance with the state's educational standards. This bill eliminates this requirement. Instead, the bill directs DPI to conduct an inquiry into compliance with the standards upon receipt of a complaint, and authorizes DPI, on its own initiative, to conduct an audit.

Under current law, the school district administrator and business manager of every school district other than MPS are required to be licensed by the state superintendent. In Milwaukee, prior to July 1, 1995, the school board may appoint a school district administrator who is not licensed. This bill deletes the expiration date for the school district administrator provision in MPS and also authorizes the MPS board to employ a business manager who is not licensed by the state superintendent.

Current law authorizes the state superintendent to maintain a summer school for deaf persons at the school for the deaf and requires a summer school for visually handicapped adults at the school for the visually handicapped. This bill allows the state superintendent to maintain a summer school for visually handicapped minors at the school for the visually handicapped.

Current law directs MPS to establish one or more youth service centers for the counseling of children who are taken into custody for being absent from school without an acceptable excuse. MPS must contract with the Boys and Girls Clubs of Greater Milwaukee for the operation of the centers. Under current law, state funding for the centers is due to expire at the end of the 1994-95 fiscal year. This bill extends the funding through the 1995-96 fiscal year. Beginning on July 1, 1996, the bill provides that MPS may establish such centers. Currently, all other school districts are authorized, but not required, to establish such centers.

The bill also continues state funding, through the 1995-96 school year, for the salaries and fringe benefit costs for up to 4 law enforcement officers in the city of Milwaukee to work in truancy abatement and burglary suppression.

HIGHER EDUCATION

University of Wisconsin Hospitals and Clinics Authority

This bill creates a public body corporate and politic to be known as the University of Wisconsin Hospitals and Clinics Authority (authority). The board of directors of the authority consists of 5 members nominated by the governor, and with the advice and consent of the senate appointed, for 5-year terms; the president of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin (UW) System; the chancellor of the UW-Madison; a dean of a UW-Madison health professions school; and the secretary of administration.

The bill requires the authority to negotiate and enter into a lease agreement with the board of regents for the management and operation of the UW Hospitals and Clinics (UWHC). The bill requires that the lease agreement provide for a payment from the authority to the state that is at least equal to the debt service accruing on all bonds issued by the state for the purpose of financing the acquisition, construction or improvement of the leased facilities, or a nominal amount determined by the parties to be necessary to prevent the lease agreement from being unenforceable due to a lack of consideration. The bill also requires that the lease agreement include a provision that requires the authority to conduct its operations in such a way so as to ensure that it will not adversely affect the exclusion of interest on bonds issued by the state from gross income for federal income tax purposes. In addition, the bill requires that the lease agreement include a provision that requires that the board of regents make a payment to the authority equal to the unencumbered balance on June 30, 1996, in the appropriation account for the operating expenses of UWHC.

The authority is granted the power to design, acquire, construct or improve facilities. Unlike most buildings, structures and facilities constructed for the UW System, buildings, structures or facilities constructed for the benefit or use of the authority need not have the approval of the legislature, the building commission or the governor or the board of regents. Construction or improvement projects of the authority must comply with other applicable state laws and regulations, but are generally exempt from municipal ordinances and regulations except for zoning. The authority may construct or improve facilities that are on state-owned land only with the approval of the department of administration (DOA) and, with respect to land that is not under the control of the board of regents, with the approval of the appropriate state agency.

The authority is authorized to adopt bylaws and rules for the regulation of its affairs; to sue and be sued; to have a seal and alter it; to have perpetual existence; to negotiate and enter into leases; to make and execute contracts and other instruments necessary or convenient to the exercise of its powers; to design and construct or improve any authority facility; to procure insurance on its debt obligations; to employ persons and set compensation and other benefits; to enter into contracts with the UW System, subject to certain limitations; and to appoint certain committees.

In addition, the authority is authorized, with any other person, to establish, govern and participate in the operation and financing of any entity that provides health-related services, as well as provide administrative and financial services to any such entity. Such an entity is not subject to state control or oversight and is not required to be subject to authority control or oversight.

Under the bill, the authority is required to submit annually an audited financial statement and a report of the authority's activities and accomplishments to the governor, legislature, secretary of administration and the president of the board of regents; to develop and implement a personnel structure and employment policies; to obtain liability and property insurance; to contract for legal services; and to establish the authority's annual budget and monitor the fiscal management of the authority.

The bill grants the authority the power to issue bonds for any corporate purpose. In order to issue bonds under the bill, the authority must authorize the bond issuance in a bond resolution, specifying certain terms and conditions relating to the bonds. Among other things, the bond resolution may contain provisions regarding: 1) pledging or assigning specified assets or revenues of the authority; 2) setting aside reserves or sinking funds; 3) limitations on the purpose to which or the investments in which the proceeds of a bond issue may be applied; 4) the terms upon which additional bonds may be issued and secured and the terms upon which additional bonds may rank on a parity with, or be subordinate or superior to, other bonds; 5) funding, refunding, advance refunding or purchasing outstanding bonds; 6) procedures for amending any contract with the bondholders; and 7) default provisions. The bond resolution may not provide for a term of more than 30 years and is required to provide that the bonds be payable in the lawful money of the United States. Bonds issued by the authority under the bill are not a debt of the state and do not obligate the state to levy any tax or make any appropriation for payment of the bonds. Under the bill, the state pledges that it will not limit or alter the rights vested in the authority under the bill before the authority has fully performed its contracts and has fully met and discharged its bonds, unless adequate provision is made by law for the protection of bondholders or those persons entering into contracts with the authority. In addition to provisions regarding bond issuance and security, the bill contains a number of other provisions relating to bonds issued by the authority. The bill authorizes certain state funds to be invested in bonds issued by the authority and authorizes certain regulated financial institutions to invest in those bonds. The bill contains provisions regarding the funding and refunding of bonds issued by the authority.

In addition to issuing bonds, the authority may seek financing from, and incur indebtedness to, the Wisconsin Health and Educational Facilities Authority (WHEFA), which provides financing to "health facilities". The bill allows WHEFA to provide financing to the authority. Both issuance of bonds and the incurrence of indebtedness to WHEFA is subject to a dollar limitation. The authority may not incur indebtedness to WHEFA or issue bonds if, after the bonds are issued or the indebtedness is incurred, the amount of all outstanding bonds and indebtedness exceeds $90,000,000. Bonds or indebtedness issued to refund outstanding bonds or indebtedness are not included in calculating compliance with the $90,000,000 limit.

Currently, some employees of the UWHC are employed in the state classified service while others are employed in the unclassified service. Positions in the classified service are publicly advertised and filled in accordance with merit and fitness. All employees receive paid holidays, holiday compensatory time off, paid sick leave, unpaid leaves of absence, military leave, jury service leave, voting leave, retirement benefits and health and other group insurance benefits except that limited term employees do not receive some of these benefits. For employees in the classified service, other than limited term, project, supervisory, managerial and confidential employees, these terms and conditions of employment are subject to modification by any applicable collective bargaining agreement. In addition, employees in the classified service who have successfully completed a probationary period may not be removed, suspended without pay, disciplined, reduced in pay or demoted without just cause. Employees in the classified service who serve in academic staff positions are afforded similar protections during the terms of their contracts (usually one year). The compensation of UWHC employees is established under applicable collective bargaining agreements for represented employees and under the state compensation plan or the UW faculty and academic staff compensation plan, for nonrepresented employees, as recommended by the secretary of employment relations and approved by the joint committee on employment relations, subject to certain individual salary-setting authority granted to the board of regents in the case of unclassified employees.

This bill requires the authority, by July 1, 1996, to offer employment to each person who is employed at the UWHC on June 30, 1996 and authorizes the authority to employ such additional persons as it requires. The bill requires the authority to make decisions about hiring and promoting employees according to merit and fitness. The bill also allows the authority to determine the compensation, vacation, sick leave and other benefits that are to be provided to employees, except that the authority's determination of compensation, vacation, sick leave and other benefits, from July 1, 1996, to June 30, 1997, is subject to: 1) any collective bargaining agreement that covers the employees; 2) the requirement that, for employees of the authority who were employed by UWHC immediately before becoming employees of the authority, the authority must provide compensation and certain benefits at a level that is at least as favorable as that provided to the employees as of the last day of their employment with UWHC or, if applicable, the last day on which a collective bargaining agreement covering the employees is in effect; and 3) the requirement that, for employees of the authority who are not former UWHC employees and are first hired between July 1, 1996, and June 30, 1997, but who are not covered by a collective bargaining agreement, the authority must provide the same rights, benefits and compensation as are provided to former UWHC employees who hold positions at the authority with similar duties and who are not covered by a collective bargaining agreement. The compensation and benefits that must be provided to these employees at this minimum level include paid holidays, holiday compensatory time off, paid sick leave, unpaid leave of absence, military leave, jury service leave, voting leave, retirement benefits and health and other group insurance plans. Finally, under current law employees of UWHC who are involved in the supervision and care of patients must be given hazardous employment pay. This bill requires the authority to provide, until July 1, 1997, hazardous employment pay to employees of the authority involved in the supervision and care of patients.

The bill provides that employees of the authority who were employed by UWHC in the classified service immediately prior to becoming employees of the authority may not be removed, suspended without pay, discharged, reduced in pay or demoted without just cause from July 1, 1996, to June 30, 1997. Employees of the authority who were employed by UWHC in academic staff appointments are granted the same procedural guarantees from July 1, 1996, to June 30, 1997, that they enjoyed while employed by UWHC.

Currently, state employees in the classified service who separate from the service for reasons other than discharge have certain reinstatement rights within 3 years after their separation from the service. In addition to these rights, the bill grants employees of the authority who were employed by UWHC in classified positions certain transfer rights that would be available to them if they were state employees during the period from July 1, 1996, to June 30, 1997. Both rights are accorded subject to any applicable collective bargaining agreement.

Currently, those employees of the UW System who are assigned to UWHC and who hold positions in the classified service, except management employees and confidential employees, are covered under the state employment labor relations act (SELRA). Under SELRA, those employees are expressly guaranteed the right of self-organization and the right to engage in lawful, concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining. Collective bargaining is expressly authorized and required exclusively with certified representative organizations in relation to salaries, fringe benefits, hours and conditions of employment, except that supervisors may bargain collectively concerning wages and fringe benefits only. Bargaining is not required on certain subjects reserved to the management and direction of the university, except that procedures for the adjustment of grievances arising out of disciplinary actions are a mandatory subject of bargaining. In addition, bargaining is not permitted regarding the mission of the university. Bargaining units are structured on a statewide basis, with employees performing different functions assigned to different units. Employees in the units have the right to vote in an election conducted by the employment relations commission as to whether there shall be collective bargaining and if so, with which representative. Responsibilities of the state as an employer are handled by the department of employment relations (DER). Unfair labor practices are established, applicable to the state and to labor unions representing employees. The commission adjudicates unfair labor practice complaints and may mediate disputes and arbitrate grievances. Strikes are expressly prohibited. No compulsory means of dispute settlement are provided. "Fair-share" (agency shop) and "maintenance of membership" agreements are authorized whereby the costs of collective bargaining and contract administration may be deducted from the wages of employes under certain conditions.

This bill extends coverage of SELRA to employes of the authority, other than management and confidential employes, who serve in positions that would be included in the classified service if the employes were state employes until July 1, 1997. The employes are included in the same collective bargaining units in which they would be included if they were state employes. On and after July 1, 1997, no employment relations act applies to these employes under the bill. Although the employes may organize and join labor unions, the authority is not required to recognize or bargain collectively with them by statute and no right to exclusive representation exists. The commission has no authority to conduct elections, mediate disputes, arbitrate grievances or adjudicate alleged unfair labor practices involving the employes and their employer. Strikes are not expressly prohibited. While union members may have union dues deducted from their wages by the authority, neither fair-share nor maintenance of membership agreements are permitted.

The bill provides that the authority is a participating employer in the Wisconsin retirement system (WRS) from July 1, 1996, to June 30, 1997. As such, its employes may participate in the WRS and are eligible for other benefits administered by the department of employe trust funds, such as unused sick leave conversion programs, health care coverage, income continuation insurance, life insurance, deferred compensation plan and employe-funded reimbursement accounts during the July 1, 1996, to June 30, 1997, period. The authority is also authorized to elect to become a participating employer in the WRS after June 30, 1997.

Because the authority is not a state agency, numerous laws that are applicable to state agencies do not apply to the authority. However, the authority is considered a state agency for purposes of some laws. The authority is treated like a state agency in the following respects, among others: 1) it must adhere to the open records and open meetings laws; 2) it is subject to auditing by the legislative audit bureau and review of its performance by the joint legislative audit committee; 3) it is subject to the lobbying regulation law to the same extent as state agencies (state agencies are exempted from certain provisions); 4) the members of its board of directors and its chief executive officer are subject to the code of ethics for state public officials and the board is instructed to prescribe a code of ethics for its other employes; 5) it is exempt from the sales and use tax and, with respect to property leased to the authority under the lease agreement, from the property tax; 6) it must pay special assessments for local improvements; 7) it is governed by state minimum wage and hour and family and medical leave laws; 8) it is subject to worker's compensation and unemployment compensation laws; 9) it is subject to the historic preservation law; 10) public employe occupational safety and health laws apply to the authority; 11) it is subject to the law permitting members of the public to make reasonable use of state facilities for civic, social or recreational activities; and 12) it is subject to laws restricting employers from testing employes and prospective employes for human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) or an antibody to HIV.

Under the bill, the authority is governed by procedures currently applicable to UWHC that impose limits on hospital charges.

The authority is unlike a state agency in many other ways, including: 1) it approves its own budget without participation by the governor, DOA, the joint committee on finance (JCF) or the legislature; 2) it may create or abolish its own positions without approval by the governor, JCF or the legislature; 3) it is not subject to statutory rule-making procedures, including requirements for legislative review of proposed rules; 4) it keeps its operating funds in its own accounts outside of the state treasury and invests its funds independently of the investment board, except that it may deposit moneys with the investment board for investment as a part of the local government pooled-investment fund; 5) it is exempt from preaudit or postaudit of its expenditures by DOA; 6) it may accept federal aid directly without approval by the governor; 7) laws requiring minimum wages and hours on public works projects do not apply to construction projects undertaken by the authority; 8) the law requiring environmental impact statements concerning certain proposed actions does not apply to the authority; 9) it is not covered by the public records preservation law; 10) the department of justice does not represent the authority and the authority may instead retain its own counsel (state agencies are not generally authorized to retain their own counsel without the governor's approval); 11) it is not governed by recycling requirements applicable to state agencies; 12) it does not share the state's immunity from most legal actions; 13) it is exempt from rules of DOA governing surveillance of state employees; 14) it is not subject to laws governing state printing; 15) requirements to purchase and store gasohol and alternative fuels do not apply to the authority; 16) it is not subject to laws prohibiting reprisals against employees for disclosure of certain information ("whistle-blowing") or prohibiting political activities by state employees while engaged in official duties; 17) a law prohibiting certain multiple employment or retention by the state does not apply to the authority; 18) interest on bonds issued by the authority is subject to state income tax; and 19) the liability coverage of the state does not cover acts or omissions of its officers, employees and agents.

Concerning procurement, the authority is not covered by the law which requires, with certain exceptions, purchasing by open competitive bidding or negotiated competitive proposals, by the law which requires state agencies in the executive branch to make purchases through DOA nor by requirements to purchase certain computer services from DOA, by laws requiring the purchase of products made from recycled or recovered materials, by requirements to make purchases on the basis of life-cycle costs, by requirements to purchase certain materials from prison industries and work centers for the severely handicapped and to do certain business with minority-owned enterprises, or by the laws requiring payment of interest on late payments to vendors and requiring the purchase of materials procured from Wisconsin-based businesses and materials manufactured in the United States. The authority is subject to nondiscrimination requirements in procurement. Under the bill, the authority may, with the consent of DOA, purchase materials, supplies, equipment or services from the UW System by mutual consent or may enter into cooperative purchasing arrangements with the UW System.

Purchases by or through the UW System are generally subject to all state procurement laws.

Other University of Wisconsin System

This bill imposes a freeze upon salary increases granted to incumbents in certain administrative positions at the UW System during the period beginning on the date on which the bill becomes law and ending on June 30, 1997. Under the proposal, the salary paid to the incumbent in an affected position during this period may not exceed an annualized rate of $100,000 or the annualized salary paid to the incumbent in the same position on January 1, 1995, whichever is greater. The freeze does not apply to any salary increase that is granted under the state compensation plan before July 1, 1995, or by the board of regents of the UW System before February 1, 1995.

Currently, the salaries for these positions are set by the board of regents subject to limitations set forth in the state compensation plan.

Under current law, the board of regents of the UW System may invest not more than 75% of the trust funds held and administered by the board in common stocks. This bill increases the allowable percentage to 85%.

Current law authorizes the board of regents of the UW System to use balances in program revenue appropriations as contingent funds for the payment of miscellaneous expenses if immediate payment is necessary, but not exceeding a total of $4,000,000.

This bill authorizes the board of regents to use balances in program revenue appropriations as contingent funds for the payment of miscellaneous expenses only if DOA determines that immediate payment is necessary. In addition, the daily balance of the contingent funds may not exceed $3,000,000 and total disbursements from the funds may not exceed $100,000,000 in any fiscal year.

Current law appropriates general purpose revenue and academic student fees to the board of regents of the UW System for laboratory modernization. The appropriations are set to expire at the end of the 1995-96 fiscal year. This bill eliminates the expiration date.

This bill modifies the appropriation to the board of regents of the UW System for nonincome sports. Currently, $481,900 annually from moneys received from parking for all events at athletic facilities at UW-Madison is appropriated; this bill appropriates all moneys received from the sale of parking provided for all events at athletic facilities at the UW-Madison, less related expenses. The bill also allows the funds to be used for debt service on any sports-related facility.

With certain specified exceptions, current law prohibits the furnishing of complimentary or reduced-price tickets to any UW System athletic event for which an admission fee is normally charged. One of the exceptions is for complimentary or reduced-price tickets required by rules of intercollegiate athletic conferences in which the UW System participates.

This bill modifies that exception. The bill allows complimentary and reduced-price tickets if such tickets are permitted by rules of intercollegiate athletic conferences in which the UW System participates and if the chancellor of the institution participating in the athletic event has approved the furnishing of such tickets.

OTHER EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL AGENCIES

Currently, HEAB administers the academic excellence higher education scholarship program. The program awards higher education scholarships for up to 4 years to certain students who had the highest grade point averages in their high schools.

This bill establishes a maximum amount for a scholarship under the program of $3,000 per academic year. The bill also requires the program and its scholarship recipients to be referred to as the governor's academic excellence higher education scholarship program and governor's scholars, respectively, in all printed material disseminated or otherwise distributed by HEAB.

Under current law, HEAB administers a stipend loan program for resident nursing students, a minority teacher loan program, a minority undergraduate retention grant program and a program to award grants to resident students who are currently recipients of aid to families with dependent children (AFDC).

This bill provides that HEAB may not award any original grants or loans under these programs, except for minority undergraduate retention grants to students enrolled at private, nonprofit institutions of higher education in this state.

This bill eliminates the higher educational aids board (HEAB) effective July 1, 1996, and transfers all functions of HEAB to DOE. On the same date, the bill also transfers all functions of the educational approval board (EAB) (currently attached to the technical college system board) to DOE and transfers EAB itself to DOE as an advisory council.

Beginning in the 1997-98 fiscal year, this bill directs the board of regents of the UW System annually to transfer to the state historical society an amount equal to 33% of the cost of acquisitions for and operation of the historical society library, or $515,000 (adjusted annually for inflation), whichever is greater. The 2 agencies may agree to transfer a higher amount. In each of the 1995-96 and 1996-97 fiscal years, the board of regents must transfer $515,000.

The bill also permits the state historical society to collect a fee for use of the historical society library. Any member of the state historical society, any member of the faculty or academic staff of the UW System and any student enrolled in the UW System is exempt from such fees.

Current law establishes a schedule of fees to be collected by the state historical society for admission to the following historic sites: Old World Wisconsin, Madeline Island, Pendarvis, Stonefield Village, Villa Louis and Old Wade House. The historical society is prohibited from collecting any group child admission fee for admission to any historic site owned and operated by the historical society.

This bill eliminates the fee schedule and the prohibition on group child admission fees. The historical society may establish and collect a fee for admission to these historic sites.

Under current law, the historical society operates the Wesley W. Jung Carriage Museum located at Old Wade House state park. This bill requires the department of natural resources (DNR) to transfer title to Old Wade House state park, including the Wesley W. Jung Carriage Museum, to the historical society on July 1, 1996.

Effective July 1, 1996, this bill transfers the transmission and engineering functions of the educational communications board (ECB) to DOA. The bill permits the secretary of administration to transfer FTE positions in ECB performing duties that are primarily related to the transmission and engineering functions, together with the incumbents in those positions, to DOA on that date, and requires the secretary to submit a plan to the chairpersons of JCF for the transfer of other FTE positions in ECB performing those duties, to become effective no later than July 1, 1997. Upon submittal, DOA may implement the plan.

The bill also requires ECB and DOA to enter into an affiliation agreement with the board of regents of the UW System with respect to broadcasting station WHA and WHA-TV. The bill does not transfer any programmatic responsibilities of ECB.

This bill creates a Wisconsin regrating program to be administered by the arts board. Under the program, the arts board awards grants to local arts agencies and municipalities. The bill requires a matching fund contribution from a grantee equal to the amount of the grant awarded under the program.

Under current law, the arts board is attached to DOA. This bill transfers the arts board to the department of tourism and parks, as created by the bill.

Current law directs the state technical college system board to develop a program relating to recycling. This bill eliminates this duty.

EMPLOYMENT

Currently, the employment relations commission is authorized, and directed in some cases, to attempt to mediate labor disputes in private, local government and state employment. During mediation, the mediator attempts to identify and narrow differences between the parties and to encourage a voluntary settlement of the dispute. The commission employs staff members for the purpose of providing mediation services, which are available at state expense.

This bill prohibits any officer or employe of the commission from engaging in mediation or facilitating mediation of a labor dispute by any other person. Under the bill, the parties to a labor dispute may retain any person other than an officer or employe of the commission to provide mediation services. The cost of those services is divided equally between the parties. In labor disputes involving local government or state employment, the bill requires each party or the parties jointly to notify the commission in writing of the name and address of any mediator who is retained by the parties.

This bill directs the employment commission, as created by this bill, to study its procedures, recommend ways to streamline its operations and report its findings and recommendations to the secretary of administration by October 31, 1996. See also STATE GOVERNMENT, STATE EMPLOYMENT.

Under current law, various state agencies administer various state and federal employment and education programs. This bill consolidates oversight over those programs under the governor's council on workforce excellence which is created by the bill. The bill requires the council, consisting of the heads of the state agencies responsible for administering employment and education programs and representatives of the public school system, 4-year postsecondary educational institutions, technical college districts, community-based organizations that provide employment training, business and industry and organized labor, to:

1. Identify the workforce development needs of the state and recommend goals for meeting those needs and steps for meeting those goals.
2. Recommend a strategic plan for coordinating the provision of services and the allocation of funding and resources under the various state and federal employment and education programs.
3. Monitor the provision of those services and the allocation of that funding and those resources and evaluate the effectiveness of those programs in meeting the state's workforce development needs.
4. Recommend the seeking of waivers of federal laws, regulations or policies that impede the effectiveness or coordination of those employment and education programs.
5. Recommend occupations for the youth apprenticeship program and skill standards for the school-to-work program.

The bill further consolidates the state's employment and education programs by:

1. Directing the council to prepare, by January 15, 1996, a plan that terminates other state advisory bodies that are duplicative of the council or whose duties and responsibilities can be taken over by the council and a plan that reorganizes all substate boundaries for the local administration of employment and education programs so that those boundaries are contiguous with the technical college district boundaries.
2. Directing the department of industry, labor and human relations (DILHR) to prepare, by February 15, 1996, a plan that structures the new functions and personnel of DILHR, as affected by this bill.
3. Upgrading the office of workforce excellence in DILHR, which currently coordinates and implements DILHR's workforce excellence initiatives, to the division of workforce excellence and expanding the duties of that new division to include planning, coordinating, administering and implementing the youth apprenticeship program, under which young people receive classroom and on-the-job training in skilled trades, and the school-to-work program, under which young people receive training in the skills necessary to make the transition from school to work.

4. Terminating the youth apprenticeship council and assigning the duties of that council to the council on workforce excellence.

Currently, a school district is required to bargain collectively in good faith with the majority representative of its employees in a collective bargaining unit concerning the wages, hours and conditions of employment of the employees.

This bill provides that a school district is not required to bargain collectively concerning any decision to create a performance recognition plan or concerning the amount of any performance recognition award made under such a plan (see also EDUCATION, PRIMARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION).

The bill also provides that a school district is prohibited from bargaining collectively with respect to reassignment of employees, with or without regard to seniority, resulting from the decision of the school board to contract with an individual or group to operate a school as a charter school, as authorized by the bill, or to convert a school to a charter school, or with respect to the impact of any such decision on the wages, hours or conditions of employment of the employees who perform services for the school district; and, in the Milwaukee Public Schools, the reassignment of employees, with or without regard to seniority, resulting from the decision of the school board to close or reopen a school, the decision of the school board to contract for the management or operation of a school, or the decision of the school board to contract with a nonprofit, private school or agency to provide educational programs, or the impact of any of these decisions on the wages, hours and conditions of employment of the employees in the school district.

Currently, subject to certain limitations, the employment relations commission decides which employees of a school district shall be included in the same collective bargaining unit with other employees of the school district, but the commission is directed to avoid fragmentation of units. This bill provides that, upon request of 30% of the professional employees of a school district who perform any services at a charter school, the commission must conduct an election for the purpose of permitting the employees to decide whether they wish to be represented in a separate collective bargaining unit from any unit that includes other employees of the school district. If a majority of the employees voting in the election decide to be represented in a separate unit, the commission must place the employees in such a unit (see also EDUCATION, PRIMARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION).

ENVIRONMENT

WATER QUALITY

Under the clean water fund program, this state provides financial assistance to local governments for projects related to the control of water pollution, including sewage treatment plants. Under current law, the department of natural resources (DNR) and the department of administration (DOA) administer the clean water fund program. This bill increases the amount of general obligation bonds that the state may issue for the clean water fund program. The bill also establishes the present value of the subsidies for clean water fund assistance that may be provided in the 1995-97 biennium.

Under current law, the clean water fund program may not provide below market rate (subsidized) financing for the portion of a project that treats waste from industrial users. This bill eliminates that restriction.

Currently, the clean water fund program provides financial hardship assistance to certain communities to further reduce the costs of financing water pollution control projects. Generally, clean water fund program financial assistance is provided in the form of a below-market interest rate loan; however, hardship assistance may be provided in the form of a grant. Under this bill, clean water fund hardship assistance may only be provided in the form of a no-interest loan.

The bill also changes the eligibility criteria for clean water fund hardship assistance. Currently, eligibility for clean water fund hardship assistance is based on the level of wastewater treatment charges in a community compared to adjusted gross income and property values in the community, per capita adjusted gross income in the community compared to per capita adjusted gross income in this state and the average equalized value of a parcel of improved residential property in the community compared to the average equalized value of a parcel of improved residential property in this state. Under the bill, a municipality is eligible for clean water fund hardship assistance if both of the following apply:

1. The median household income in the municipality is 80% or less of the median household income in this state.
2. The estimated total annual charges per residential user in the municipality that relate to wastewater treatment would exceed 2.5% of the median household income in the municipality in the absence of hardship assistance.

The current eligibility criteria for hardship assistance continue to apply to municipalities that received hardship assistance for project planning and design during fiscal years 1991 to 1995 or whose construction projects appeared on the 1993, 1994 or 1995 hardship funding list.

Current law earmarks 18% of the total amount of subsidy available under the clean water fund program in a state fiscal biennium for hardship assistance, 74% of the total subsidy for ordinary clean water fund program projects and 8% for additional costs associated with approved clean water fund program projects. This bill eliminates the earmarking of clean water fund subsidy, but provides that during the 1995-97 biennium the total value of subsidies used to provide hardship assistance may not exceed $9,600,000.

In addition, the bill makes a number of changes in the process for obtaining financial assistance under the clean water fund program and transfers some clean water fund program administrative responsibilities from DNR to DOA. Under current law, the clean water fund program has an annual funding cycle. Under this bill, funding decisions are made on a continuing basis. Under current law, if there is insufficient funding for all eligible projects during a fiscal year, funding is distributed using a priority ranking established by DNR. Under this bill, funding is distributed in the order in which projects are ready to be constructed. If no funding is available for a project when it is ready to be constructed, DOA places the project on a list to be funded when funding is available.

Current law requires DNR and DOA jointly to prepare 3 versions of a biennial finance plan for the clean water fund program. Under this bill, DNR and DOA prepare amendments to the biennial finance plan to reflect the biennial budget bill and the biennial budget act, rather than new versions of the plan. The bill also eliminates requirements that the biennial finance plan include certain information. The bill requires the biennial finance plan to include audited financial statements of the clean water fund program.

Under current law, DNR is required to complete plans to implement the nonpoint source water pollution abatement program (which provides financial assistance for measures to reduce water pollution from diffuse sources) in priority watersheds (those watersheds in which the need for nonpoint source pollution abatement is most critical) by December 31, 2000. This bill changes the date by which the plans must be completed to December 31, 2015.

This bill reduces the amount of general obligation bonding that may be incurred for the nonpoint source program by $4,000,000. The bill increases the amount of general obligation bonding that may be incurred for environmental cleanups in or adjacent to the Great Lakes by $4,000,000.

Current law prohibits the building commission from incurring over $15,500,000 in general obligation bonding for the nonpoint source program without the approval of the secretary of administration and the joint committee on finance. This bill eliminates that prohibition.

Under current law, DNR provides lake management planning grants to provide information on the quality of water in lakes and to aid in the selection of projects to improve water quality. This bill adds nonprofit conservation organizations as eligible recipients of lake management planning grants.

Under current law, DNR provides lake management grants to improve or protect the quality of water in lakes. This bill eliminates the current $100,000 maximum amount for a lake management grant.

AIR QUALITY

Under current law, the operators of certain stationary sources of air pollution are required to obtain air pollution control permits from DNR. This bill expands some of the provisions relating to air pollution control permits that currently apply only to existing sources (those on which construction began on or before November 15, 1992, and that have not been modified since that date) so that the provisions also apply to new and modified sources (those on which construction or modification began after November 15, 1992). One of these provisions authorizes DNR, under specified circumstances, to issue an operation permit for a source of air pollution that will not be able to comply with the terms of the permit at the time that the permit is issued.

The bill also authorizes DNR to deny an application for renewal of an operation permit for a stationary source that is in violation of its current operation permit.

In addition, the bill authorizes a person who owns a new or modified source for which the person received an air pollution permit under former law, before

November 15, 1992, to continue to operate the new or modified source under that permit but requires the person to apply for an operation permit under current law no later than March 1, 1996.

DNR awards grants to the owners of gasoline stations to pay for a portion of the costs of installing equipment to recover vapors that are released when gasoline is pumped into a motor vehicle. The grants are available only for stations located in an area of this state where federal standards for ozone pollution are exceeded. Under current law, DNR may not make vapor recovery grants after June 30, 1995, or the day after publication of the 1995-97 budget act, whichever is later. This bill allows DNR to make vapor recovery grants until December 31, 1995. This bill also expands the vapor recovery grant program so that gasoline dispensing facilities that are not retail gasoline stations but that are located in ozone nonattainment areas and are required to install vapor recovery systems are eligible for grants.

SOLID AND HAZARDOUS WASTE; ENVIRONMENTAL CLEANUP

This bill eliminates the radioactive waste review board, the radioactive waste policy council and the radioactive waste technical council. The bill transfers the responsibilities of the radioactive waste review board, which concern proposals related to the long-term disposal of highly radioactive waste, to the public service commission, except that the bill eliminates a requirement to provide educational programs concerning highly radioactive waste.

Under the current hazardous substance spills law, administered by DNR, a person who possesses or controls a hazardous substance or who causes the discharge of a hazardous substance is required to inform DNR of the discharge and to take the actions necessary to restore the environment to the extent practicable. DNR may issue an order requiring a person to fulfill the duty to restore the environment. If a person required to remedy the environmental damage caused by a hazardous substance discharge is not fulfilling that duty or if the identity of the person is unknown, DNR may dispose of the substance or take other emergency action that DNR considers appropriate.

Currently, under the petroleum storage remedial action program (commonly called PECFA), the department of industry, labor and human relations (DILHR) pays a portion of the costs incurred by the owners or operators of certain petroleum storage tanks to remedy environmental damage caused by discharges from those storage tanks. A claimant is not eligible for a PECFA award unless DNR determines that the activities performed to restore the environment satisfy the requirements of the hazardous substance spills law. DNR also reviews site investigations and clean-up plans under the PECFA program.

Under this bill, beginning on July 1, 1996, the department of commerce (formerly the department of development) is required to administer a program under which owners and operators of certain storage tanks and certain other persons (called responsible persons) investigate discharges from those tanks and take the actions necessary to restore the environment to the extent practicable. The storage tanks covered by the program (called regulated storage tanks) are petroleum product storage tanks that are covered by PECFA plus underground storage tanks that contain hazardous substances and that are required under federal law to be regulated by the federal environmental protection agency or by a state. Under the bill, the department of commerce may issue an order requiring a responsible person to remedy the environmental damage caused by a discharge from a regulated storage tank. The bill requires DNR to inform the department of commerce whenever a person reports a discharge from a regulated storage tank. The bill also places some restrictions on DNR's authority under the hazardous substance spills law to order cleanups of discharges from regulated storage tanks and to conduct those cleanups.

Also under the bill, the department of commerce administers the PECFA program starting on July 1, 1996. The bill gives to the department of commerce the PECFA responsibilities currently performed by DILHR and by DNR.

This bill requires DNR to promulgate a rule that establishes an alternative to immediate reporting under the hazardous substances spills law, or an exemption from reporting, for discharges of less than a specified amount of a hazardous substance for which a minimum reporting amount has been established under the federal comprehensive environmental response, compensation and liability act (superfund act) or under the federal emergency planning and community right-to-know act. In the rule, DNR may not specify an amount of one of these hazardous substances that is less than the minimum reporting amount specified under federal law. The bill authorizes DNR to promulgate a rule that establishes an alternative to immediate reporting, or an exemption from reporting, for discharges of less than a specified amount of a hazardous substance for which a federal minimum reporting amount has not been established.

Under the bill, before DNR promulgates its rule concerning a hazardous substance for which a federal minimum reporting amount has been established, a person is not required to report to DNR a discharge of that hazardous substance if the amount of the discharge is less than the federal minimum reporting amount.

Under current law, the recycling market development board provides financial and other assistance to improve the marketing of, and to develop markets for, certain materials recovered from solid waste. The board consists of the secretaries of natural resources and development and 9 members appointed by the governor. Under current law, the board is attached to DOA. Under this bill, the board is attached to the department of development (DOD), effective on July 1, 1996. The bill also reduces the size of the recycling market development board by 4 appointees. The bill terminates the membership of the 9 current members appointed by the governor, allowing the governor to appoint 5 new members. The bill also eliminates the position of executive director of the board.

Under current law, the board provides assistance for materials that are recovered by recycling programs operated by local governmental units and that are required to be recycled under this state's recycling law. This bill requires the board to annually establish a list of materials recovered from solid waste that are eligible for assistance from the board. The list must include the materials that are required to be recycled under this state's recycling law.

Under this state's recycling law, persons are generally prohibited from disposing of specified discarded materials in landfills and from incinerating specified discarded materials. These prohibitions do not apply to discarded materials from an area that has an effective recycling program. If the area is in another state, the state must also have an approved landfill siting program.

In order to be an effective recycling program, a recycling program must require persons in the area to separate the specified materials from their solid waste or send their solid waste to a facility that separates the materials from solid waste, but DNR may grant a one-year variance from that requirement with respect to a specified material in the event of an emergency or if the cost of selling the material exceeds specified amounts.

Current law also authorizes DNR to grant an exception from the disposal and incineration prohibitions for a specified material to a local governmental unit that operates a recycling program in the event of an emergency. An exception may be for up to one year.

This bill requires DNR to review markets for the discarded materials to which the landfill and incineration prohibitions apply, beneficial uses for those materials and technologies for managing those materials in solid waste. If DNR finds that a prohibition with respect to a specific material is not feasible or practical and that the prohibition is not needed to achieve the goals of this state's solid waste management policy, DNR may do one of the following:

1. Promulgate a rule specifying conditions under which the material may be disposed of in a landfill or incinerated.
2. Exempt specified persons from the landfill or incineration prohibition with respect to the material.
3. Authorize, for up to one year, the material to be disposed of in a landfill or incinerated.

The bill also authorizes DNR to grant a variance so that an effective recycling program need not require persons to separate a specified material from solid waste if DNR takes one of the actions in items 1 to 3, above, with respect to the material.

The authority granted to DNR concerning exemptions from the landfill and incineration prohibitions and variances for effective recycling programs replaces the authority granted DNR under current law to grant exemptions and variances in emergencies.

Under current law, DNR determines whether recycling programs are effective and whether to approve other states' landfill siting programs. Under current law, DNR may approve an out-of-state recycling program only by formal rule-making procedures.

A federal district court has held that the procedural requirements (for escaping the disposal and incineration prohibitions) imposed on out-of-state municipalities, beyond those requirements placed on municipalities located within this state, discriminates against out-of-state interests in violation of the commerce clause of the U.S. Constitution. National Solid Wastes Management Assoc. v. Meyer, No. 94-C-0603-S (W.D. Wis. Dec. 15, 1994), petition for cert. filed.

Under this bill, an out-of-state municipality is not required to obtain DNR approval of its state's landfill siting program before disposing of or incinerating specified recyclable materials in this state. Under the bill, DNR is not required to undertake formal rule-making procedures to determine that an out-of-state municipality has an effective recycling program.

Current law generally prohibits the burning of yard waste without energy recovery in a solid waste facility in this state. Current law authorizes DNR to grant waivers to the prohibition on burning yard waste to allow the burning of brush or other clean woody vegetative material no greater than 6 inches in diameter at wood burning facilities licensed by DNR.

This bill provides that the prohibition on burning yard waste without energy recovery does not apply to the burning of brush or other clean woody vegetative material no greater than 6 inches in diameter at a wood burning facility that is licensed or permitted by DNR.

Under current law, the council on recycling advises various state agencies, the packaging industry, state and local authorities and others to promote the efficient and prompt implementation of state programs related to solid waste reduction, recovery and recycling. This bill abolishes the council on recycling and transfers the functions of the council on recycling to the recycling market development board.

This bill authorizes DNR to seek funds from any source for the costs of remedying environmental contamination if the activities being funded are part of a cooperative effort by DNR and the person providing the funds to remedy the environmental contamination.

Currently, with certain exceptions, no elective state official, candidate for state office, legislative employe or official of a state agency who participates in the rule-making process may solicit anything of pecuniary value from a lobbyist or principal. This bill provides that this prohibition does not apply to the solicitation by an agency official of DNR of funds to pay the costs of remedying environmental contamination.

Under current law, the low-level radioactive waste council ceases to exist after July 1, 1996. This bill extends the existence of the low-level radioactive waste council to June 30, 2002.

OTHER ENVIRONMENT

Under current law, the attorney general must designate an assistant attorney general as the public intervenor. The public intervenor is generally authorized to formally initiate actions and intervene in all proceedings before any state agency or any court where the intervention is needed for the protection of public rights in water and other natural resources. In addition, under current law, the attorney general must appoint a public intervenor advisory committee. This bill eliminates the public intervenor position and eliminates the requirement that the attorney general appoint a public intervenor advisory committee.

Under the current hazardous pollution prevention assessment grant program, DOD, in consultation with the hazardous pollution prevention program in the University of Wisconsin-Extension (UW-Extension), awards grants to applicants for the purpose of having an assessment conducted to determine the full costs of using and producing hazardous substances, toxic pollutants and hazardous waste; to identify processes that use or produce such substances, pollutants or waste; and to identify options for the prevention of hazardous pollution. Also under current law, the hazardous pollution prevention board, which is attached to DOD, has a number of responsibilities related to hazardous pollution prevention.

This bill eliminates the board and replaces it with a hazardous pollution prevention council in DOD. The bill eliminates DOD's hazardous pollution prevention assessment grant program and, in its place, DOD is authorized to contract with the board of regents of the UW System for business assessment services from the UW-Extension solid and hazardous waste education center for the same purposes as those for which assessments were conducted under the grant program. In addition to authorizing DOD to contract for business assessments, the bill requires DOD, in coordination with DNR, the UW-Extension and the hazardous pollution prevention council, to conduct an education, environmental management and technical assistance program to promote the prevention of hazardous pollution among businesses in the state.

This bill creates an environmental science council in DOA, consisting of 9 members, appointed by the governor, who have expertise in the engineering sciences, economic sciences, biological sciences, physical sciences, human medical sciences or statistical or risk assessment sciences. The council, upon the request of the governor or the secretary of administration, is required to advise the governor or the secretary on: issues affecting the protection and management of the environment and natural resources in this state; proposed rules that establish environmental or natural resources standards or other criteria; the scientific and technical adequacy of environmental programs, methodologies, protocols and tests; scientific standards or other criteria for protection of human health and the environment; the quality of state agency environmental plans or programs of research, development and demonstration; and the importance of natural and anthropogenic sources of pollution. Also, the council, upon the request of the governor or the secretary of administration, is required to consult with state agencies on any environmental matter.

Currently, the recycling fund is used to finance programs and activities relating to recycling, including grants to assist local governmental units to pay for their recycling programs. This bill transfers $25,000,000 from the recycling fund to the general fund.

GAMBLING

Under current law, the state levies a 2% tax on the total amount wagered on dog races on a given race if the total amount wagered on all previous days during the year is not more than $25,000,000; a 2 2/3% tax if the amount is more than $25,000,000 but not more than $100,000,000; a 4 2/3% tax if the amount is more than $100,000,000 but not more than $150,000,000; a 6 2/3% tax if the amount is more than $150,000,000 but not more than $200,000,000; a 7 2/3% tax if the amount is more than $200,000,000 but not more than $250,000,000; and an 8 2/3% tax if the amount is more than $250,000,000. This bill reduces the tax to a 1% tax if the total amount wagered on all previous days during the year is not more than $25,000,000; to a 2% tax if the amount is more than $25,000,000 but not more than $100,000,000; to a 4% tax if the amount is more than $100,000,000 but not more than $150,000,000; to a 6% tax if the amount is more than $150,000,000 but not more than $250,000,000; and to an 8% tax if the amount is more than $250,000,000.

Under current law, a racetrack licensee is required to round down payouts to the nearest 10 cents. This rounding down may result in surplus funds in the wagering pool and is called the "breakage". Under current law, a racetrack licensee is required to pay 50% of the breakage to the state. This bill allows a racetrack licensee to retain 100% of the breakage.

Under current law, an intertrack wagering licensee (a person who is issued a license by the gaming commission for the purpose of simultaneously televising — that is, simulcasting — a race at one racetrack that is being conducted at a different racetrack) may not simulcast and accept wagers on more than 9 races a year, nor accept wagers on more than one race when 2 or more races are simulcast at the same time. This bill eliminates these restrictions.

Under current law, an intertrack wagering licensee must pay 50% of the total amount of intertrack wagers to the racetrack at which the race is actually conducted, after making certain allocations. These allocations are as follows: a) on days on which no racing is held at the racetrack, but simulcast races take place, the licensee must distribute 3.5% of the total amount of intertrack wagers to the host track for purses at the host track and must retain at least 1% of the total amount of intertrack wagers for purses at the licensee's racetrack; and b) on days on which racing is held at the racetrack, in addition to simulcast races, these percentages are 2.25% and 2.25%, respectively. This bill changes these allocations by requiring only that the intertrack wagering licensee retain at least 1.5% of the total amount of intertrack wagers for purses at the racetrack at which the intertrack wagering was conducted.

Under current law, a racetrack licensee must deduct 17% of the total amount wagered on a straight pool race — that is, a race in which a person picks a single animal to win, place or show — and 23% of the total amount wagered on a multiple pool race — that is, a race in which a person picks 2 or more animals to finish in a certain order — and pay the remainder to winning ticket holders. This bill allows racetrack licensees to deduct up to 20% of the total amount wagered on a straight pool race and 25% of the total amount wagered on a multiple pool race.

Under current law, the gaming commission consists of 3 full-time members appointed for 4-year terms. This bill changes the composition of the commission, effective on January 1, 1996, to consist of one full-time member, who is to be the chairperson and who is appointed for a 4-year term, and 2 other members who are to be appointed from the ranks of state employment for 2-year terms and who are not required to be full-time members of the commission.

Under current law, the gaming security division in the gaming commission is responsible for providing all security services for gaming operations, monitoring regulatory compliance of gaming operations, auditing gaming operations and investigating suspected violations of gaming-related laws. This bill abolishes, on January 1, 1996, the gaming security division and requires the gaming commission to enter into a contract with either the department of administration (DOA) or another person for the performance of these functions.

Under current law, DOA is authorized to contract for management consultation services to assist in the management or operation of the state lottery, but DOA is not authorized to contract for financial auditing or security monitoring services for the state lottery. Under this bill, DOA is not prohibited from contracting for data processing auditing services for the state lottery.

Under current law, DOA must require separate bids or separate competitive sealed proposals for management consultation services, instant lottery ticket services and supplies and on-line services and supplies. This bill eliminates this requirement with respect to on-line services and supplies and provides that instant lottery ticket data processing services are not subject to these bid and concealed proposal requirements.

This bill increases the compensation paid to a person who sells lottery tickets from 5% to 6% of the retail price of the lottery ticket or lottery share sold by that person. In addition, the bill eliminates the authority of the gaming commission to pay an incentive bonus to a person who sells lottery tickets.

Under current law, the administrator of the lottery division in the gaming commission and the administrator of the racing division in the gaming commission are each authorized to appoint and supervise a deputy and assistant to serve outside the classified service. This bill eliminates these deputy and assistant positions.

Under current law, there exists an executive assistant to the gaming commission. This bill eliminates this position and creates a deputy to the gaming commission. Also, the bill creates a director of a charitable gaming and crane games subunit in the gaming commission.

Under current law, the gaming commission may establish a separate Indian gaming subunit to coordinate the state's activities regarding Indian gaming. Current law provides that the director of the Indian gaming subunit is in the classified service. This bill provides that the director of the Indian gaming subunit must be in the unclassified service.

Under current law, the gaming commission is required, immediately after every race, to test the animal that won the race and an additional animal selected at random for any medications or foreign substances that may have been administered to that animal. This bill changes this requirement by providing that the gaming commission must test only one animal.

HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES

PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Transfer of functions from the department of health and social services

Under current law, the department of health and social services (DHSS) provides state administration of a range of economic support and work programs. These programs include: the aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) program; the job opportunities and basic skills (JOBS) program, which requires certain AFDC recipients to participate in employment and training programs; the work experience and job training program for certain noncustodial parents, commonly referred to as the children-first program; the food stamp program, under which certain low-income families are provided with food coupons; the general relief program; the relief of needy Indian persons program (RNIP); the medical assistance or medicaid program, which provides certain medical services to certain low-income individuals and recipients of certain other forms of public assistance; the program for providing state supplements to recipients under the federal supplemental security income (SSI) program, which provides cash payments to certain aged and disabled individuals; the low-income energy assistance program; and the program for paying funeral expenses of certain public assistance recipients. DHSS annually contracts with county departments of social services and human services for county income maintenance administration of RNIP, AFDC and medical assistance. Under these contracts, DHSS reimburses counties for certain administrative expenses and for payments to recipients and providers of services. Among other duties, DHSS submits to the federal authorities state plans for the administration of AFDC and medical assistance, promulgates rules that establish standards for eligibility for the programs, supervises cost accounting and management information systems that monitor utilization of services by public assistance recipients, recovers overpayments under these programs and conducts activities to reduce payment errors.

This bill transfers from DHSS to the department of industry, labor and human relations (DILHR), effective July 1, 1996, the powers and duties of state agency supervision for the administration of AFDC, JOBS, and all of the AFDC and JOBS pilot programs including learnfare, work-not-welfare and the parental responsibility pilot program. The learnfare pilot program requires certain children in families receiving AFDC to attend school as a condition of receiving AFDC benefits; the work-not-welfare pilot program sets time limits on AFDC benefits and requires AFDC recipients subject to the program to meet certain employment and training requirements; and the parental responsibility pilot program limits AFDC benefit increases for certain additional children born to AFDC recipients and requires AFDC recipients to participate in certain training and parental education programs. The bill also transfers from DHSS to DILHR administration of the food stamps program and the employment and training program for food stamp recipients; the children-first program; and the program for payment of funeral expenses for recipients of certain public assistance programs. The bill also transfers from DHSS to DILHR the responsibility for state supervision of income maintenance administration by county departments of social services and human services for medical assistance and RNIP. This includes supervision of county efforts to reduce recipient fraud under medical assistance and RNIP. However, DHSS retains responsibility for administering all aspects of medical assistance other than supervision of county income maintenance administration. DHSS also retains responsibility for administering general relief and RNIP which, as discussed below, are combined into an emergency medical relief program, and the state SSI supplement. Administration of the low-income energy assistance program is transferred under the bill from DHSS to the department of administration (DOA).

General relief and RNIP

Under current law, a county is required to provide general relief to all eligible dependent persons within the county. A similar program provides relief to needy Indian persons residing on tax-free land. This bill combines the general relief and RNIP programs into a single program called emergency medical relief, under which benefits are limited to emergency medical services. Participation by counties and tribal governing bodies in the program is optional. Under the bill, counties and tribal governing bodies may establish their own relief programs that are more comprehensive than emergency medical relief; however, partial state reimbursement is provided only to counties that elect to provide emergency medical relief and only with respect to eligible emergency medical relief costs. In particular, the bill makes the following changes:

1. Eligibility. Under current law, eligibility for general relief is determined primarily in accordance with written criteria, established by counties, to determine dependency. However, state law provides that certain people who have recently moved to the state are ineligible for general relief until they have resided in the state for at least 60 consecutive days. State law also provides that no person is eligible for general relief if the person is eligible for benefits under the AFDC or SSI programs, if the person fails to comply with general relief work requirements, if the person is removed from certain other public assistance programs as a result of sanctions or if the person is ineligible for AFDC because of provisions under the work-not-welfare pilot program, which provides AFDC benefits only for a limited time period. Similarly, current law provides that a person is not eligible for general relief medical benefits if the person is ineligible for medical assistance because the person has divested resources.

Eligibility for RNIP is currently determined under state law. A person is eligible if the person is an American Indian residing on tax-free land or is the spouse or child of such a person residing in the same household, if the person is ineligible for SSI, AFDC or medical assistance, if the person complies with RNIP work requirements and if the person meets the financial eligibility criteria under the AFDC program. A person is ineligible for RNIP if the person is ineligible for AFDC because of provisions under the work-not-welfare program.

Under this bill, eligibility for the emergency medical relief program is similar to eligibility under the current general relief program. A person is eligible for medical relief if the person resides in a county or on tribal land that elects to provide emergency medical relief and if the person qualifies under written criteria of dependency established by the emergency medical relief agency in that county or on that tribal land. The same state residency requirements which currently exist under the general relief program apply to emergency medical relief, as do the provisions requiring ineligibility of persons who receive other forms of public assistance or who have divested themselves of resources. However, unlike the eligibility criteria under the general relief program, persons who have been sanctioned under other public assistance programs or who have become ineligible for AFDC under the work-not-welfare program continue to be eligible for emergency medical relief.

2. Benefits. Currently, both the general relief and RNIP programs provide eligible recipients with cash benefits or in-kind relief for nonmedical support. These benefits are eliminated under this bill, as are nonemergency medical benefits. Under the emergency medical relief program, recipients may receive only emergency hospitalization and care when, in the reasonable professional judgment of a physician, emergency medical treatment or hospitalization is necessary because severe physical or psychological damage to the recipient will occur if the treatment or hospitalization is withheld. DHSS is required to promulgate rules establishing standards to be used by physicians in making this judgment.

3. Administration. Currently, there are a number of requirements that must be followed by counties in administering general relief, including procedures that must be followed by hospitals and counties that provide emergency medical treatment or hospitalization and provisions granting applicants for, and recipients of, general relief a number of procedural rights. These administrative provisions are largely eliminated in this bill. Instead, like the RNIP program under current law, many requirements concerning the administration of the emergency medical relief program are left to DHSS to specify in rules. The bill requires DHSS to promulgate rules regarding the administration of emergency medical relief, including procedures for making eligibility determinations, procedures for counties and tribal governing bodies to follow in obtaining partial reimbursement for emergency medical relief expenses and procedures for appealing eligibility determinations.

4. State reimbursement. Under current law, the state reimburses a county for up to 37.5% of eligible cash benefit costs under the general relief program. The state also reimburses up to 40% of eligible medical costs incurred by the county for a recipient that are not more than $10,000 and up to 70% of eligible medical costs over that amount, except in a county that enrolls its recipients in a prepaid health plan and meets certain additional criteria, in which case the state reimburses the county for 60% of the enrollment costs. If there are not enough funds appropriated to pay the maximum percentages permitted under current law, DHSS prorates the available funds among the counties claiming reimbursement. Current law also requires a county to accept, as payment of a claim for reimbursement of general relief costs, certain payments made to county hospitals and county mental health complexes under the medical assistance program. There is no reimbursement by the state for administrative costs relating to general relief. Under current law, the state reimburses elected tribal governing bodies for 100% of RNIP benefits and for 100% of RNIP administrative costs.

Under this bill, reimbursement is provided only for eligible emergency medical costs. For counties, the reimbursement percentages are the same as under current law, except that if a county operates a comprehensive medical relief program and enrolls its participants in a prepaid health plan, the state reimburses the county for 60% of the portion of the enrollment costs for all recipients that are attributable to emergency medical services. Under the bill, DHSS is required to promulgate rules for determining the portion of the enrollment costs that are attributable to emergency care. Counties are required to treat certain payments to county hospitals and county mental health complexes under the medical assistance program as reimbursement for emergency medical relief. If there are insufficient funds appropriated to pay counties the maximum reimbursement percentages, proration among the counties is required. For tribal governing bodies, the state reimburses 100% of eligible emergency medical costs, but no longer reimburses tribal governing bodies for any administrative costs. As under current law, reimbursement is made to counties on a yearly basis and reimbursement is made to tribal governing bodies in accordance with DHSS rules.

5. Repeal of general relief and RNIP work programs. Under current law, recipients of general relief and RNIP may be required to participate in work or grant diversion programs. Under the general relief grant diversion program, counties may use a recipient's general relief grant to pay up to 50% of the wages that an employer pays to the recipient for a period of up to 6 months. If the employer fails to retain the individual as an employe for at least 3 months after the wage subsidization has ended and the employe was not dismissed for cause, the employer must pay back the wage subsidization that it received. As part of general relief work programs, the general relief agency may require participation in educational or other programs that, in the judgment of the general relief agency, can assist the recipient in achieving financial independence. Current law provides for similar RNIP work relief and grant diversion programs, as well as for tribal economic development projects. This bill repeals these work and grant diversion programs. The bill authorizes counties to operate their own county-funded relief programs and permits counties to include work components in these relief programs.

6. Other changes. This bill makes a number of other changes related to the elimination of general relief and relief of needy Indian persons and the establishment of emergency medical relief programs and optional county-funded relief programs. The bill repeals provisions governing recovery of cash overpayments and repeals provisions that allow these amounts to be recovered by withholding any state income tax refunds due the recipient. Currently, the Wisconsin conservation corps and the Wisconsin service corps programs are required to attempt to hire 50% of their corps members from among recipients of specified types of public assistance. The bill changes these specified types of public assistance to eliminate general relief and RNIP and to include optional county-funded relief programs. The bill also amends a number of provisions exempting general relief and RNIP benefits from attachment and garnishment to exempt optional county-funded relief programs instead. Similarly, the exemption of general relief benefits from income, for purposes of the Wisconsin individual income tax, is replaced with an exemption for cash benefits provided under optional county-funded relief programs.

Under current law, the state provides funding to counties to provide certain types of mental health and alcohol and other drug abuse treatment services through what is commonly referred to as "community aids". Under the general relief program, the state also reimburses counties for a portion of counties' general relief medical costs. This bill provides that counties are not required to provide mental health and alcohol and other drug abuse treatment services under the general relief program or, after January 1, 1996, under the emergency medical relief program, and prohibits state reimbursement for these services under these programs.

Aid to families with dependent children

Under this bill, DHSS is required to conduct a demonstration project, pursuant to a waiver from the secretary of the federal department of health and human services, that would permit DHSS to limit increases in an AFDC grant for certain additional children. Under the demonstration project, in determining the amount of the AFDC grant, DHSS would not consider a child born into a family more than 10 months after the date on which the family was first determined to be eligible for AFDC, subject to certain exceptions. The demonstration project does not apply to certain children who are conceived as a result of sexual assault or incest. It also does not apply to a child who is born into a family that did not receive AFDC benefits for 6 months, other than as a result of being sanctioned, and who is born during that time or not more than 10 months after the family resumed receiving AFDC benefits. In addition, it does not apply to a child who does not reside with his or her biological parents. If the waiver is granted, DHSS may award grants to counties to provide family planning education services to persons covered by the waiver. The waiver does not apply to persons subject to the parental responsibility pilot program. DHSS may request that the waiver apply to all AFDC recipients or to a test group determined by DHSS. If the waiver is granted and in effect, the bill requires DHSS to implement the waiver.

Under the JOBS program, AFDC recipients who are not exempt are required to participate in certain jobs-related activities. DHSS has received a waiver from the federal government to permit the state to require participation in the JOBS program of certain parents and other caretakers of children who would otherwise be exempt from participation under federal law and regulations. Current state law requires participation of parents and other caretakers of children who have attained 2 years of age. Current federal law now grants states the option of requiring parents and other caretakers of children who have attained one year of age to participate in the JOBS program. This bill eliminates the current provision regarding the waiver and takes advantage of the federal law option to require JOBS participation of parents and other caretakers of children who have attained one year of age.

In addition, the bill requires DHSS to request a waiver from the federal department of health and human services to permit DHSS to require AFDC applicants to provide verification of compliance with certain orientation and job search activities before providing aid under the AFDC program. Under the waiver, DHSS may require attendance at one or more orientation sessions during the 30-day period beginning on the date that the applicant applied for AFDC. In addition, DHSS may require participation in not more than 30 days of job search activities by an AFDC applicant who is subject to the JOBS program. Exceptions to the mandatory orientation and job search requirements may be made if a determination is made that the AFDC applicant would not benefit from application of the requirement. In addition, DHSS may not require participation in orientation or job search activities for certain AFDC recipients who are subject to certain school attendance requirements under the learnfare program, if the orientation or job search activity would conflict with school attendance.

The bill also requires DHSS to request a waiver from the federal department of health and human services relating to the AFDC and JOBS programs. Currently, under the JOBS program, an AFDC recipient who is not exempt and who does not participate may be removed from AFDC grant eligibility for a specified period.

The waiver requested under this bill would allow DHSS, in certain circumstances, to reduce the amount of an AFDC grant based on the level of participation in the JOBS program. The waiver would apply to an AFDC recipient who is not exempt if: 1) the AFDC recipient is required to participate in a JOBS activity for a regularly scheduled number of hours in a month; 2) the activity is expected to continue for more than one month; and 3) the recipient fails to participate in the activity for the required number of hours in that month without good cause, as defined by DHSS by rule. If these criteria are met, for every hour that an AFDC recipient is required to participate in a JOBS activity, does not participate and does not have good cause for not participating, an amount equal to the federal minimum wage is subtracted from the AFDC grant for the recipient's family for a subsequent month.

Under current state law and the terms of a waiver from the federal department of health and human services, certain AFDC recipients between the ages of 6 and 19 are required to attend school under the learnfare program. The school attendance standard, which must be maintained in order for persons subject to the learnfare program to avoid sanctions, is currently set by administrative rule. This bill provides that an individual who is subject to the learnfare program fails to meet the school attendance requirement if the individual is a habitual truant. "Habitual truant" is defined as an individual who is absent from school without an acceptable excuse for part or all of 5 or more days out of 10 consecutive days on which school is held during a school semester or for part or all of 10 or more days on which school is held during a school semester. Under current law, a school board must establish a written attendance policy specifying the reasons for which pupils may be permitted to be absent from a public school. Whether or not an individual has an acceptable excuse is determined under this written attendance policy.

Current law permits DHSS to recover overpayments of AFDC benefits by reducing the amount of a family's monthly AFDC allowance by a specified percentage of the maximum monthly payment allowance for a family of that size. The percentage is 10% for overpayments resulting from an intentional AFDC program violation by a member of the family, and is 7% in all other cases. This bill eliminates this distinction and provides for a recoupment percentage of 10% in all cases.

Currently, the state pays for certain burial, funeral and cemetery expenses of AFDC recipients. This bill requires DHSS to amend the state AFDC plan to treat these payments as special-needs items under federal AFDC regulations, thus allowing the state to receive federal financial participation for these payments under the AFDC program.

Under current law, certain pregnant women are eligible for certain benefits under the AFDC program. These benefits begin on the first day of the month in which the 7th month of pregnancy begins or on the first day of the first month after the pregnant woman notifies the county department of health or county department of social services of the pregnancy, whichever is later. If the pregnant woman was receiving AFDC prior to the notification, the woman is eligible for a maternity benefit in addition to her current AFDC grant. If the pregnant woman was not receiving AFDC but would be eligible to receive AFDC but for the fact that she has no children, the pregnant woman is eligible for the maternity benefit and an AFDC grant based on a family size of one. Eligibility for all of these benefits continues through the month of the child's birth. This bill provides that these benefits do not begin until the first day of the month in which the 8th month of pregnancy begins or on the first day of the first month after the pregnant woman notifies the county department of the pregnancy, whichever is later.

The work-not-welfare program is currently a pilot program under the AFDC program. In general, persons who are subject to the pilot program receive a combined AFDC and food stamps benefit that is paid in cash. The benefits are payable only for a limited time period, generally 24 months, and must be used within a specified benefit period. After the benefits are exhausted or the benefit period has expired, persons subject to the work-not-welfare program are generally ineligible for AFDC, general relief and RNIP for a 3-year period. This bill makes a number of changes to the work-not-welfare program:

1. Under the work-not-welfare program, the monthly benefit amount is equal to the AFDC and food stamp benefit that would have been paid to the recipient if the recipient were not subject to the work-not-welfare program, with certain adjustments and exceptions. This benefit amount is calculated based on the average income of the work-not-welfare group, estimated prospectively for a 6-month period, except that, for the first 2 months of participation in the program, the benefit amount is based on the estimated average income for those first 2 months. This bill provides that, for the first 2 months of participation in the program, the benefit amount is based on the estimated income for those first 2 months.

2. Under current law, the benefit amount is generally readjusted only at regularly scheduled redeterminations, unless there is a "significant change in circumstances". Current law provides a list of the events that constitute a "significant change in circumstances". For example, under current law, it is a "significant change in circumstances" if the combined equity value of all of a work-not-welfare group's assets exceeds the asset limit for AFDC eligibility. This bill clarifies that this provision does not apply to an AFDC recipient who is also subject to the vehicle asset demonstration project or the education and employability account demonstration project. The vehicle asset demonstration project allows owners of vehicles with a total equity value of not more than $2,500 to qualify for AFDC and the education and employability account demonstration project allows AFDC receipts to accumulate $10,000 in an account, the balance of which may be used only for certain purposes, without losing AFDC eligibility. In addition, this bill includes, as a "significant change in circumstance": a) an increase or decrease in unsubsidized employment of 10 or more hours per week; b) a change in child care expenses of more than $50 per month; and c) a change in the maximum allowable child care disregard.

Under current law, a work-not-welfare group receives an additional month of benefits and a one-month extension in the group's benefit period for each month that a person in the group receives benefits under the SSI program. This bill amends this provision to also cover months in which a person has been determined to be eligible for, but does not receive, benefits under the SSI program.

Current law provides for a demonstration project under which DHSS provides certain persons who are eligible for AFDC and who have not previously resided in this state for at least 6 months, with an AFDC benefit for the first 6 months that they reside in this state that is based on the AFDC benefit levels in their previous state of residence. This project is commonly referred to as the "2-tier demonstration project". Under current law, this project does not apply to any person who has previously resided in this state for at least 6 months. Under this bill, this provision is changed to require that this 6 months of residence in the state be consecutive. In addition, current law requires DHSS to promulgate a rule, which it must update annually, establishing the AFDC benefits that will be paid under the 2-tier demonstration project. This bill modifies this requirement so that DHSS is required to promulgate a rule establishing the methods and identifying the factors that it will use to determine the benefit amounts under the project. This rule is also required to establish the initial benefit table to be used in determining benefits under the project. Changes to this initial benefit table must be published in the Wisconsin Administrative Register.

Medical assistance eligibility

Under current law, the eligibility provisions under the medical assistance program allow the spouse of a person who is institutionalized in a medical institution or a nursing facility to retain certain income and resources without having the institutionalized spouse lose eligibility for medical assistance. The "minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance" allows the community spouse to retain a minimum amount of income each month without causing the institutionalized spouse to lose medical assistance eligibility. This minimum monthly maintenance needs allowance is $1,500, increased by the rate of inflation between 1988 and the year before the year in which the calculation is made. This bill reduces the allowance, for 1996 and 1997 only, to 200% of the monthly amount of the federal poverty line for a family of 2 plus an allowance for high housing costs, except that the allowance may not exceed $1,500, increased by the rate of inflation between 1988 and the year before the year in which the calculation is made.

Current law also protects certain assets of the spouse of an institutionalized medical assistance recipient. The amount that is protected is commonly referred to as the “community spouse resource allowance”. Under current law, this allowance is $60,000, increased by the rate of inflation between 1988 and the year in which the calculation is made, unless a greater amount is set at a hearing or is transferred to the community spouse by court order. This bill sets a new amount for the community spouse resource allowance, for 1996 and 1997 only, unless a greater amount is set at a hearing or is transferred to the community spouse by a court order. Under the bill, this new amount is equal to the greater of $12,000, increased by the rate of inflation between 1988 and the year in which the calculation is made, and the “spousal share of community assets”, except that the amount may not exceed $60,000 increased by the rate of inflation between 1988 and the year in which the calculation is made. The “spousal share of community assets” is equal to 50% of the total value of all resources owned by the community spouse and the institutionalized spouse at the time that the institutionalized spouse was first institutionalized for a continuous period.

Under current law, there are 2 types of eligibility for medical assistance — eligibility based on receipt of some other kind of public assistance, generally referred to as categorically needy eligibility, and eligibility based on financial need, generally referred to as medically needy eligibility. In order to qualify for medical assistance as medically needy, an individual must meet certain income limitations. Currently, an individual generally meets this income limitation if the individual’s income does not exceed 133 1/3% of the greater of the maximum AFDC payment for the individual’s family size or the combined benefit amount available under the federal SSI program and the state supplement to it. A separate provision of current law states that, except for persons covered under the “healthy start” program, which allows certain low-income pregnant women and children to qualify for medical assistance, no one is eligible for medical assistance if their income exceeds the maximum income levels that the federal department of health and human services sets for federal participation. This bill repeals this provision.

Currently, under the state medical assistance plan, DHSS provides medical assistance to certain persons whose income exceeds the 133 1/3% limit. DHSS currently provides medically needy medical assistance to individuals who are 65 years of age or older, blind or totally and permanently disabled, who require certain care by nursing homes or other medical institutions, who meet the medically needy resource limitations and whose incomes do not exceed 300% of the federal benefit rate under the SSI program. This bill amends the statutory medical assistance eligibility criteria to cover these individuals, except that the percentage test is lowered to 225% from 300%, effective January 1, 1996. The bill also requires that DHSS request a waiver to continue to provide medical assistance to persons who are receiving skilled nursing care services or intermediate care services as a resident of a nursing home or community-based residential facility (C-BRF) on January 1, 1996, who would lose eligibility as a result of decreasing the percentage limit from 300% to 225%. If the waiver is granted and in effect, these persons continue to be eligible for medical assistance.

This bill expands eligibility for medical assistance to cover certain individuals infected with tuberculosis who meet the income and resource eligibility requirements for the federal SSI program, but do not meet the nonfinancial SSI eligibility requirements. Individuals eligible for medical assistance under this provision are eligible only for certain tuberculosis-related services. These include prescription drugs, physician services, laboratory and X-ray services, clinic services, case-management services and certain services designed to encourage individuals to take their medications. Case-management services are available only from or through a certified case management provider in a county, city, village or town that elects to pay the portion of the costs that are not covered by the federal government.

This bill requires DHSS to seek a waiver from the secretary of the federal department of health and human services to apply special eligibility criteria to migrant workers and their dependents in determining their eligibility for medical assistance benefits. Under the bill, "migrant worker" means any person who temporarily leaves a principal place of residence outside of this state and comes to this state for not more than 10 months in a year to accept certain types of seasonal agricultural employment. "Migrant worker" does not include certain students or any person who is employed by certain of the person's relatives. DHSS is permitted to establish, by rule, additional exceptions from the definition of migrant worker.

If the waiver is granted and in effect, a migrant worker and his or her dependents are eligible for medical assistance in this state if the migrant worker and his or her dependents have a valid medical assistance identification card issued in another state and if the migrant worker completes a Wisconsin medical assistance application. This eligibility continues for the period specified on the identification card issued in the other state. DHSS is required to notify the other state that the migrant worker and his or her dependents are eligible for medical assistance in Wisconsin. In addition, if the waiver is granted and in effect, DHSS must determine medical assistance eligibility for a migrant worker and his or her dependents by using an income-averaging method, if the migrant worker and his or her dependents are not eligible for medical assistance using prospective budgeting.

Medical assistance benefits

As of January 1, 1996, this bill eliminates skilled nursing home services and intermediate care facility services, except those in an institution for mental diseases, as benefits for persons who are eligible as medically needy under the medical assistance program. A component of these benefits ("active treatment" for persons with mental illness or developmental disability) is also eliminated, under the bill, as of January 1, 1996. The bill also eliminates services that are substituted for skilled nursing or intermediate care services, to persons eligible as medically needy, under the community options program, and under the community integration programs for relocated residents of state centers for the developmentally disabled and certain other institutions. The bill provides for continuation of skilled nursing services and intermediate care facility services (including "active treatment") to persons who are, as of January 1, 1996, receiving the services as medically needy eligibles under the medical assistance program, under the community options program, and under the community integration programs, if the federal department of health and human services grants waivers of federal medicaid laws to do so.

Under current law, home and community-based personal care services are provided as a benefit under the medical assistance program for eligible persons. This bill eliminates personal care services as a benefit under the medical assistance program.

This bill requires DHSS to promulgate rules, with the approval of DOA, that define "supportive, personal and nursing services" that are permitted, under the bill, to be provided in an assisted living facility. These services may, under the bill, be reimbursed with medical assistance funds under the community options program and the community integration program for medical assistance-eligible persons who meet certain reimbursable levels of care. Reimbursement must be at 85% of the statewide nursing home medical assistance reimbursement rate. DHSS must establish this rate by July 1 annually.

Currently, under a waiver of federal medicaid laws, state general purpose revenues and federal medicaid moneys fund home or community-based care for persons who are eligible for medical assistance. These persons are either relocated into the community from certain institutions or have physical conditions that meet requirements for medical assistance reimbursement for their care in certain nursing facilities. The program funding this care is commonly known as "CIP II".

Current federal medicaid law prohibits funding, under this state's medical assistance program, of mentally ill persons aged 22 to 64 who receive services in a facility that the federal health care financing administration finds is an institution for mental diseases.

This bill prohibits use of funds under the "CIP II" program for the home or community-based care of a person who is aged 21 to 64, who has a primary diagnosis of mental illness, who is relocated to the community from a facility that is found to be an institution for mental diseases and for which DHSS has reduced the licensed bed capacity.

Currently, medical assistance provides certain dentists' services that are not required by federal law to be covered by a state's medical assistance program. Under current law, these services are limited to basic services within the following categories: diagnostic services, preventive services, restorative services, endodontic services, periodontic services, oral and maxillofacial surgery services, emergency treatment of dental pain, removable prosthodontic services and fixed prosthodontic services. This bill eliminates the coverage of basic dentists' services that are not within the categories of emergency treatment of dental pain, removable prosthodontic services or fixed prosthodontic services, unless the services are found to be necessary as a result of early and periodic screening and diagnostic services provided under the medical assistance program.

This bill permits school districts to receive federal medical assistance funds for certain health care services provided in schools to children who are eligible for medical assistance. The bill covers those health care services that are appropriate to a school setting under rules promulgated by DHSS. The bill covers all public schools, including charter schools, and includes early childhood programs for developmentally delayed and disabled 4-year-old and 5-year-old children. If a school district elects to provide school medical services and meets all certification and reporting requirements established by DHSS, DHSS must reimburse a school district for the federal share of allowable charges for the school medical services that the school district provides and for allowable administrative costs. The bill requires DHSS to promulgate rules establishing a methodology for making these reimbursements. All other expenses for school medical services must be paid for by the school district with public funds received from state or local taxes. The bill also requires the school district to comply with all requirements of the federal department of health and human services for receiving federal financial participation.

Under current law, mental health crisis intervention services are not a covered benefit under the medical assistance program. This bill allows a county, city, village or town to elect to provide mental health crisis intervention services to medical assistance recipients as a medical assistance benefit. If a county, city, village or town elects to provide these services as a medical assistance benefit, the county, city, village or town is required to reimburse the provider of the mental health crisis intervention services for the amount of the allowable charges for those services under the medical assistance program that is not provided by the federal government. DHSS is required to reimburse the provider for the amount that is provided by the federal government.

Under current law, medical assistance covers nurse-midwifery services only if prescribed by a physician. This bill changes this provision to cover all nurse-midwifery services regardless of whether they are prescribed by a physician.

Under current law, medical assistance provides reimbursement only for certain case management services. Generally, in order for medical assistance to provide reimbursement, the services must be provided by or through a certified case management provider in a county, city, village or town that elects to reimburse the case management provider for the portion of the costs that are not reimbursed by the federal government. In addition, the case management services must be provided to recipients with certain specified diseases or disabilities. Under current law, case management services reimbursement may generally be provided for severely emotionally disturbed children and for persons with a developmental disability, a chronic mental illness, Alzheimer's disease, alcoholism or drug dependency, a physical disability or HIV infection. This bill also permits reimbursement of case management services for a family who has a child at risk of physical, mental or emotional dysfunction, as defined by DHSS.

Currently, counties provide early intervention services, funded by state and federal moneys, to certain very young children with certain documented physical or mental conditions and their families under what is known as the "birth to 3" program. This bill expands eligibility for case management services to include children who are otherwise eligible for medical assistance who receive early intervention services under the "birth to 3" program.

Under current law, the medical assistance program covers alcohol and other drug abuse day treatment services. This benefit expires on June 30, 1995, or on the day after publication of the 1995-97 biennial budget act, whichever is later. This bill removes this expiration date.

Medical assistance provider reimbursement and funding

Under current law, there are a number of provisions that govern the amount that a nursing home is reimbursed for providing care to medical assistance recipients. This bill makes the following changes to the nursing home reimbursement provisions:

1. Under current law, a nursing home's reimbursement rate may not fall below the rate that was in effect for the nursing home during the previous fiscal year. This bill provides that the nursing home's reimbursement rate may not fall below the rate that was in effect for the nursing home on June 30, 1994.

2. Under current law, DHSS is permitted to distribute supplemental payments to nursing homes to cover the costs of caring for emotionally disturbed residents. This bill eliminates supplemental payments for emotionally disturbed residents effective July 1, 1997.

3. This bill requires DHSS to use interest and investment income of a nursing home and affiliated entities, to the extent required under the state's approved medical assistance plan, to offset allowable interest expenses in determining the nursing home's reimbursement rate. It also requires, as a condition of receiving reimbursement under the medical assistance program, that nursing homes provide information to DHSS, upon request, that DHSS considers necessary to determine allowable interest expenses of the nursing home and of affiliated entities.

4. Under current law, the "capital" component of a nursing home's reimbursement rate is based on the replacement value of a nursing home facility, as determined by a commercial estimator who is paid and contracted for by DHSS. This provision is changed to require the nursing home to pay for a commercial estimator contracted for by DHSS.

5. This bill permits an increase in total payments to nursing home facilities for state fiscal year 1995-96 of no more than 4.25% over that paid for services in state fiscal year 1994-95 and for state fiscal year 1996-97 of no more than 5% over that paid for services in state fiscal year 1995-96.

Under current law, DHSS may reimburse the 3 state centers for the developmentally disabled for the cost of services provided by the centers. This reimbursement is made from state revenues under the medical assistance program and from federal matching funds. The reimbursement is reduced by a specified amount following each placement made under the community reintegration program that involves a relocation from one of the state centers. Under current law, the specified reduction amount for the central Wisconsin center for the developmentally disabled is $55.77 per day; the amount for the northern Wisconsin center for the developmentally disabled is $49.06 per day; and the amount from the southern Wisconsin center for the developmentally disabled is $48.37 per day. This bill changes these amounts, beginning in fiscal year 1995-96, to $232, $225 and $173, respectively.

This bill permits DHSS to impose certain requirements on certain providers of medical assistance services relating to the amount that the provider may claim from DHSS as reimbursement for medical assistance services. DHSS may impose these requirements with respect to all medical assistance services except certain hospital services, skilled nursing facility and intermediate care facility services, and home and community-based services. The bill allows DHSS to require that the providers of these services charge DHSS the lesser of the provider's "best price" for the service or the provider's actual cost for the service, unless a different price is determined by a contract. The bill defines "best price" for a service to mean the lowest price that a provider has accepted or agreed to accept as payment, from any 3rd-party payer, including self-insured plans, the medicare program and insurers, for a like service provided to a customer during the same month that the service is provided. If DHSS requires that a provider charge a particular price for a service, DHSS may not reimburse the provider for more than that amount.

This bill provides that medical assistance reimbursement for home health and private-duty nursing services provided to a medical assistance recipient in a month may not exceed the average monthly cost of nursing home care, as determined by DHSS. The monthly limit does not apply to a medical assistance recipient under the age of 22, to a ventilator-dependent individual or to any other individual if DHSS determines that the cost of providing that individual with nursing home care would exceed the cost of providing the individual with the home health and private-duty nursing services.

This bill provides up to $4,500,000 in federal medical assistance moneys in each fiscal year as a match to costs of a county department of social services or human services that exceed medical assistance reimbursement for home health services, medical day treatment services, mental health services and alcohol and other drug abuse services. Under the bill, county departments that have operating deficits resulting from these costs may apply to DHSS for federal matching funds. DHSS must develop a method, using criteria specified in the bill, to distribute the federal moneys to individual county departments of social services or human services.

Under current law, DHSS must annually submit to the joint committee on finance (JCF) a report on nursing home bed use by medical assistance recipients for the immediate prior 2 fiscal years. If the report indicates a decrease in the number of beds used in the most recent fiscal year from the previous fiscal year, DHSS must calculate the difference in costs between the 2 fiscal years for the provision of the care. The DHSS report to JCF must include a proposal to transfer an amount equal to the difference from the appropriation for medical assistance to the appropriation for the community options program. If within 14 working days after submission of the report JCF does not schedule a meeting to review the action, the secretary of health and social services must transfer the funds.

This bill eliminates the requirements that DHSS annually submit a report to JCF concerning medical assistance-funded bed utilization in nursing homes; that, if the bed utilization has decreased, DHSS calculate a figure that is the difference in costs for the provision of this care; and that, if JCF fails to schedule a meeting to review the issue, funds be transferred from the medical assistance program to the community options program.

This bill requires DHSS to conduct a study of the feasibility of contracting out the operation of the medical assistance program. DHSS is required to report its findings to the governor and to the appropriate standing committees of the legislature before July 1, 1996.

Under current law, DHSS distributes certain supplemental funding under the medical assistance program to county hospitals and county mental health complexes, as determined by DHSS, for inpatient hospital services that are not in excess of the hospitals' customary charges for the services, subject to certain limitations under federal law. This bill allows DHSS to distribute this supplemental funding to county hospitals and county mental health complexes for all hospital services, not just inpatient services.

Other public assistance

Under current law, the state makes payments to certain individuals who meet the resource limitations and the nonfinancial eligibility requirements of the federal SSI program, including needy persons or couples residing in this state who receive benefits under the federal SSI program or whose income, after deducting income excludable under the federal SSI program, is less than the combined benefit level available under the federal SSI program and the state supplement. This bill changes these eligibility criteria. First, the bill eliminates eligibility for the state supplement for those needy persons and couples whose income, after deducting income excludable under the federal SSI program, is less than the combined benefit level available under the federal SSI program and the state supplement. Second, the bill allows DHSS to make certain needy persons or couples residing in this state who receive benefits under the federal SSI program ineligible for the state supplement if DHSS and the secretary of administration approve the change in eligibility and the change is not disapproved by the JCF or the governor. This procedure for changing eligibility criteria is virtually identical to the procedure under current law that allows DHSS to adjust state supplement benefit levels.

Current law allows DHSS the option of administering the state supplement directly or under a contract with the federal government. However, the appropriation from which state supplement administrative expenses are paid authorizes expenditures only for the payment of fees charged by the federal government for administration of the state supplement. This bill allows moneys to be expended from the appropriation to administer the state supplement, either directly or under a contract with the federal government.

Under current law, DHSS supplements the provision of supplemental foods, nutrition education and other services to individuals who meet the eligibility criteria under the federal special supplemental food program for women, infants and children (WIC). This bill eliminates the state supplement to the WIC program.

Under current law, DHSS may distribute funds to nonprofit organizations for certain food stamp outreach projects. The projects must inform individuals with low incomes about the availability, eligibility requirements, application procedures and benefits of the food stamp program and must meet federal requirements to allow federal reimbursement of 50% of the project costs. This bill repeals the provisions that allow DHSS to distribute funds for these outreach projects.

Under current law, if a recipient of certain types of public assistance dies and the recipient's estate is insufficient to pay the cemetery, funeral and burial expenses, the county or the applicable tribal governing body, or other organization responsible for the burial of the recipient, is required to pay certain cemetery, funeral and burial expenses. In particular, the county or tribal governing body or organization is required to pay all of the deceased recipient's cemetery expenses and the lesser of $1,000 or the amount of funeral and burial expenses that are not paid by the deceased recipient's estate or by other persons. Current law also requires DHSS to reimburse the county or tribal governing body or organization for all cemetery expenses that it pays and for those funeral and burial expenses that it is required to pay under the provision. If DHSS approves the reimbursement due to unusual circumstances, DHSS may reimburse a county or applicable tribal governing body or organization for funeral and burial expenses that it pays for the deceased, even if these expenses exceed the amount that the county or tribal governing body or organization is required to pay under the provision.

Under this bill, the county or tribal governing body or organization is required to pay the lesser of $1,000 or the amount of cemetery expenses that are not paid by the estate of the deceased and other persons. For funeral and burial expenses, the county or tribal governing body or organization is required to pay the lesser of the amount of funeral and burial expenses that are not paid by the deceased recipient's estate and other persons or the following: 1) if the total funeral and burial expenses are $1,000 or less, the amount of these expenses; 2) if the total funeral and burial expenses are more than $1,000 but not more than $2,000, 50% of the total funeral and burial expenses; and 3) if the total funeral and burial expenses are more than $2,000, $0. DHSS is required to reimburse a county or applicable tribal governing body for any cemetery, funeral or burial expenses that it is required to pay under these provisions and, if DHSS approves the reimbursement due to unusual circumstances, for any additional expenses.

Under current law, counties and tribal governing bodies are authorized to recover overpayments under the food stamp, AFDC and medical assistance programs; they are also authorized to retain a percentage of the amount recovered. Current law also authorizes DHSS to certify certain overpayments under these programs to the department of revenue (DOR) for offset against any tax refunds due the recipient of the overpayment. This bill allows DHSS to charge counties and tribal governing bodies for the administrative costs that are incurred by DOR and that are related to certification of these amounts. Recovered administrative costs may be used by DHSS for reducing error and fraud in the food stamp, AFDC and medical assistance programs.

Under current law, overpayments under the food stamp, AFDC and medical assistance programs are often recovered under a recovery plan. This bill authorizes a county or tribal governing body to assess persons who fail to comply with the terms of a recovery plan a fee in an amount not to exceed 10% of the amount remaining to be recovered at the time of the noncompliance. The fee may not be assessed more than once with respect to the same overpayment and may be assessed only if a person is no longer eligible for the type of benefits, such as food stamps, AFDC or medical assistance, that were overpaid. The fee may be retained by the county or the tribal governing body.

Under current law, DHSS may contract with a county to administer a work experience and job training program for noncustodial parents who fail to pay child support or to meet their children's needs for support as a result of unemployment or underemployment. This program is commonly referred to as the "children-first program". A judge may order, in certain child support actions, a noncustodial parent to participate in the children-first program if the noncustodial parent lives in the county in which the court action occurs and that county has a children-first program. This bill permits a judge to order a noncustodial parent to participate in a children-first program regardless of whether the noncustodial parent resides in the county in which the court action occurs. However, if the parent resides in a county other than the county in which the court action occurs, the judge may order the parent to participate in a children-first program only if the parent's county of residence has a children-first program and that county agrees to enroll the parent in that program.

Under current law, DHSS, a county or an elected tribal governing body that provides certain types of public assistance as the result of an injury, sickness or death that results in a possible recovery of an indemnity from a 3rd party, including an insurer, may require an assignment of the right to the indemnity from the public assistance recipient. Under this bill, this assignment is automatic upon the application for public assistance.

Current law provides for subrogation of certain claims against a 3rd party by a public assistance recipient, if the public assistance is provided as a result of the occurrence of an injury, sickness or death that creates a claim or cause of action against the 3rd party. This bill establishes certain notice requirements for claims assigned or subrogated under these provisions. The notice requirements generally apply to the attorney retained to represent the public assistance recipient, or his or her estate, in asserting the claim. If no attorney is retained, the notice requirements apply to the public assistance recipient or his or her guardian or, if the recipient is deceased, to the personal representative of the recipient's estate. A person who is subject to the notice requirements is required to provide notice by certified mail to DHSS as soon as practicable after the filing of the action asserting the claim; the intervention in, or consolidation of, the action; or the settlement of all or part of the claim.

Current law provides that the provision of medical benefits under the general relief program or the RNIP program or under medical assistance constitutes an assignment to DHSS, or to a county providing medical assistance or benefits, to the extent of the medical benefits or assistance provided and for benefits to which the recipient would be entitled under any policy of health and disability insurance. A similar provision assigns rights under uninsured health plans, for example, self-insured employer health plans, although this provision covers only medical assistance. Separate provisions also prohibit the imposition of requirements on DHSS, as an assignee, that are different from those imposed on any other agent or assignee of a person covered under the health and disability insurance policy or under the uninsured health plan.

This bill makes several changes to these provisions. The bill amends the provision covering assignments by uninsured health plans to cover medical benefits under the general relief and RNIP programs, or, after January 1, 1996, the emergency medical relief program, as well as medical assistance. Under current law, only the provision regarding assignment of rights under health and disability policies applies to counties providing medical assistance or benefits, as well as to DHSS. Under this bill, all of the provisions require assignment not only to DHSS, but also to counties providing medical assistance or benefits and to health maintenance organizations with which DHSS has contracted to provide medical assistance or benefits.

This bill requires DHSS to seek a waiver from the secretary of the federal department of agriculture to apply certain special eligibility criteria to migrant workers and their dependents in determining eligibility for benefits under the food stamp program. The bill uses the definition of migrant worker that is used for the waiver that the bill requires DHSS to request for migrant workers under the medical assistance program. If the waiver is granted and in effect, DHSS must determine food stamp eligibility for a migrant worker and his or her dependents using an income-averaging method, if the migrant worker and his or her dependents are not eligible for food stamps using prospective budgeting.

Under current law, DHSS has an appropriation for employment and training programs, which include the JOBS program and the food stamp employment and training project. Under this appropriation, funds that are not encumbered by December 31 of each year lapse to the general fund on the next January 1 unless transferred to the next calendar year by JCF.

This bill allows DHSS to carry forward for a county funds that are committed to the county under a performance-based contract for a specific calendar year and that are earned by the county in that year to the following calendar year, if the carry-forward is approved by the secretary of administration, without approval of JCF. The funds carried forward do not affect a county's base allocation.

The low-income energy assistance program (LIEAP) is a federal block grant program designed to support energy costs incurred by low-income households. Current law requires that $2,400,000 of LIEAP block grant funds be allocated to the payment of crisis assistance benefits to meet weather-related or fuel supply shortage emergencies. This bill eliminates this requirement and allows DHSS or, after July 1, 1996, DOA to determine the amount of the allocation.

HEALTH

Under current law, with certain exceptions, the 3-member cost containment commission is responsible for reviewing and approving the following proposed projects:

1. A capital expenditure in excess of $1,000,000 made by or on behalf of a hospital.
2. The implementation of new services to a hospital that exceed $500,000 in a 12-month period.
3. An expenditure in excess of $500,000 made by or on behalf of a hospital, independent practitioner, limited liability company, partnership, unincorporated medical group or service corporation for clinical medical equipment.
4. The purchase or acquisition of a hospital.
5. The construction or operation of an ambulatory surgery center or a home health agency.

Current law sets forth criteria that the commission must use in its review of an application for project approval. These criteria focus on the economic efficiency of and need for the proposed projects. The first priority of the commission in applying the criteria must be cost containment.

The cost containment council represents economic, provider, scientific and consumer viewpoints. It advises the commission, reviews proposed commission rules and periodically reports on the performance of the commission and its operations.

This bill eliminates the cost containment commission, the cost containment council and the capital expenditure review program.

Under current law, DHSS must investigate the concept of regulating a new category of health care providers known as rural medical centers.

This bill eliminates that requirement and establishes rural medical centers as a category of health care providers that, beginning on January 1, 1997, must be licensed, inspected and otherwise regulated by DHSS. Under the bill, a facility may be regulated as a rural medical center if it is located in a county, city, town or village that has a population of less than 15,000 and in an area that the federal bureau of the census has not defined as an urbanized area, and if it provides 2 or more health care services. "Health care services" means those provided by a hospital, nursing home, hospice, rural health clinic or ambulatory surgery center; or home health services, outpatient physical therapy services, end-stage renal disease services or other services that are specified by DHSS by rule.

The bill establishes licensing procedures and requires that DHSS promulgate rules that establish standards for operation of rural medical centers, minimum requirements for license issuance, licensure fee amounts, and procedures and criteria for waiver of or variance from standards and requirements. The bill authorizes DHSS to conduct unannounced inspections of rural medical centers and requires a rural medical center to provide access to any patient health care records necessary to fulfill the purpose of any DHSS inspections or investigations. The bill prohibits an unlicensed entity from using the phrase "rural medical center" to describe itself, prohibits intentional interference with any investigation by DHSS of alleged violations, prohibits certain intentional retaliation or discrimination against employes or patients and prohibits intentional destruction or modification of original inspection reports.

Under current law, DHSS allocates $50,000 in each fiscal year as a grant for the provision of direct health care services to migrant workers and their families. A migrant worker is any person who temporarily leaves a principal place of residence outside of this state and comes to this state for not more than 10 months in a year to accept seasonal employment related to unmanufactured agricultural or horticultural commodities. This bill eliminates the migrant health care program.

Under current law, DHSS is authorized to conduct plan reviews of all capital construction and remodeling for nursing homes and hospitals, to ensure compliance with certain federal life safety code requirements for nursing homes and with certain physical plant requirements. At the same time, DILHR must examine plans of public buildings (which include hospitals and nursing homes) for compliance with building code requirements. Both DHSS and DILHR charge fees for these plan reviews.

Beginning on October 1, 1995, this bill exempts hospitals and nursing homes from DILHR's review for compliance with building code requirements. Instead, the bill requires DHSS to conduct plan reviews of hospitals and nursing homes for compliance with both the building code requirements and with the physical plant and life safety code requirements. The bill requires DHSS to promulgate rules that establish fees for the reviews that are less than the sum of the amounts collected by both DHSS and DILHR. However, until DHSS promulgates these rules or until June 30, 1996, whichever is earlier, the bill permits DHSS to collect fees that are equal to the amounts collected by both DHSS and DILHR.

Under current law, a community-based residential facility (C-BRF) is annually licensed by DHSS and annually pays a fee, plus a per resident fee, based on the C-BRF's licensed capacity. Certain adult family homes are annually licensed by county departments of social services, human services, community programs or developmental disabilities services or by DHSS.

Beginning on January 1, 1996, this bill changes the licensure period for a C-BRF and for a licensed adult family home to 2 years, increases biennial license fees for C-BRFs and establishes license fees for licensed adult family homes.

Under current law, DHSS may order certain sanctions against a C-BRF that violates specific statutes or rules and, if the C-BRF fails to comply with such an order, may directly assess forfeitures (civil monetary penalties). Under this bill, if DHSS provides notice and explanations of sanctions or penalties, DHSS may, without issuing an order, assess forfeitures against a C-BRF that violates statutes or rules.

Under current law, DHSS must award grants to local health departments to fund specified activities related to lead poisoning or lead exposure, including educational programs, screening, care coordination and follow-up services such as lead inspection. Certain grants are awarded under criteria that ensure that funding is provided for areas, including Milwaukee, with significant incidence of lead poisoning or lead exposure. This bill eliminates these grants under the program.

Under current law, DHSS provides funds to the Marquette University School of Dentistry to provide dental services at clinics in the city of Milwaukee. This bill provides that the school of dentistry must also use the funds to provide dental services at correctional centers in Milwaukee County.

Under current law, DHSS is authorized to award grants to provide mammography services to women who are 40 years or older. The women must live in any of 12 rural counties that are specified in rules promulgated by DHSS as having the highest incidence of late-stage breast cancer in this state.

This bill expands the purpose of grants for mammography services to include breast cancer screening services and makes these services available statewide to women who are 40 years of age or older.

Under current law, DHSS must carry out a statewide immunization program to eliminate mumps, measles, German measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, poliomyelitis and any other diseases that DHSS has specified by rule and to protect against tetanus. Annually by July 1 until July 1, 1994, DHSS must submit a report for distribution to the standing committees of the legislature on the success of the statewide immunization program. This bill extends the reporting requirement until July 1, 1996.

Under current law, DHSS is required to distribute not more than $375,600 in fiscal year 1993-94 and not more than $491,500 in fiscal year 1994-95 to reimburse or supplement the reimbursement of the cost of certain drugs for certain individuals who are infected with the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV). This bill removes this statutory allocation. This allows DHSS to determine the amount that will be used for drug reimbursement for HIV-infected individuals, subject to the availability of funds in the pertinent appropriation.

CHILDREN

Under current law, DHSS investigates and licenses child welfare agencies, group homes, shelter care facilities (nonsecure places of temporary care and physical custody for children) and day care centers. Currently, DHSS, a county department and, if licensed to do so by DHSS, a child welfare agency investigate and license foster homes and treatment foster homes. This bill requires that, as part of the prelicensing investigation of a child welfare agency, group home, shelter care facility or day care center, DHSS, with the assistance of DOJ, conduct a background investigation of the applicant for the license. If the applicant is applying for a license to operate a day care center for 4 to 8 children, DHSS must also conduct a background investigation of the employees and prospective employees of the day care center. The bill also requires a shelter care facility, child welfare agency, group home or day care center that cares for 9 or more children to conduct a background investigation of all employes and prospective employes as a condition of initial licensure or license renewal. Under the bill, if the person being investigated is a nonresident, or at any time within the preceding 5 years has been a nonresident, or if the person conducting the investigation has a reasonable basis for further investigation of the person, the person conducting the investigation must require the person to be photographed and fingerprinted and DOJ may submit the fingerprints to the federal bureau of investigation for the purpose of verifying the identity of the person fingerprinted and obtaining his or her arrest and conviction record. DHSS may not issue a license to or renew the license of, and a shelter care facility, child welfare agency, group home or day care center may not employ, any person who has been convicted of a felony drug violation, who has had imposed on him or her an increased penalty for habitual criminality, for certain domestic abuse offenses, for use of a dangerous weapon, for committing a violent crime in a school zone, for use of a bulletproof garment, for concealing his or her identity or for a hate crime or, subject to certain exceptions, who has been convicted of a crime against life and bodily security, a crime against sexual morality or a crime against children. DHSS may order a child welfare agency, group home, shelter care facility or day care center that employs a person who has been so convicted or so punished to terminate the employment of that person immediately on receipt of the order. The bill also requires DHSS, a county department or a child welfare agency to conduct the same background investigation of an applicant for a foster home or a treatment foster home license and any adult resident of the home and to deny licensure to any applicant who has been so convicted or so punished.

Under current law, no person may establish a shelter care facility without first obtaining a license from DHSS. Current law does not specify a licensure period or a license fee for shelter care facilities. This bill establishes a 2-year licensure period for shelter care facilities and a biennial fee of $180, plus $24 per child, based on licensed capacity.

Under current law, a child welfare agency that provides care and maintenance for children must pay a biennial license fee of $75, plus $10 per child, based on licensed capacity. This bill raises that fee to $180, plus $24 per child, based on licensed capacity.

Under current law, a child welfare agency that places children in foster homes or group homes must pay a biennial license fee of $200. This bill raises that fee to $220.

Under current law, a group home must pay a biennial license fee of $75, plus $10 per child, based on licensed capacity. This bill raises that fee to $180, plus $24 per child, based on licensed capacity.

Under current law, a day care center that provides care and supervision for 9 or more children must pay a biennial license fee of $25, plus $5 per child, based on licensed capacity. This bill raises the per child fee to $10 per child.

Under current law, DHSS may order certain sanctions against a child welfare agency, shelter care facility, group home or day care center (licensee) that violates a provision of licensure or a rule promulgated by DHSS. If the licensee fails to comply with such an order, DHSS may, after providing notice and an explanation of the penalties and appeal process, directly assess forfeitures (civil monetary penalties) of not less than $10 or more than $50 for each day of violation. This bill increases that maximum daily forfeiture amount to $1,000. The bill also permits DHSS, after providing notice and an explanation of the penalties and appeal process, to assess a forfeiture against a licensee that violates a provision of licensure or a rule, without first ordering a sanction against the licensee.

Under current law, a person whose birth parent's rights have been terminated, or who has been adopted, in this state may request DHSS to provide the person, after the person reaches 18 years of age, with medical or genetic information filed with DHSS by the person's birth parents, with a copy of the person's original birth certificate and with the identity and location of the person's birth parents. If the person's birth parent has not filed the medical or genetic information with DHSS or has not filed an affidavit authorizing DHSS to disclose the person's original birth certificate or the identity and location of the birth parent, DHSS must conduct a search for the birth parent to obtain the medical or genetic information or to inform the birth parent that he or she may file an affidavit authorizing that disclosure. This process is called the adoption search program. This bill permits DHSS to contract with a county department or a licensed child welfare agency to administer the adoption search program.

Under current law, DHSS provides adoption services for children with special needs. This bill requires DHSS to develop a plan by July 1, 1997, for contracting out the adoption services currently provided by DHSS for children with special needs.

Under current law, DHSS administers various child care grant programs. Current law specifies certain procedures and eligibility criteria that DHSS must follow in awarding grants under those programs. This bill simplifies those procedures and criteria by eliminating certain requirements specified in current law.

Under current law, DHSS distributes state revenues, as community aids, and federal child care grant moneys to counties for child care services for parents who are gainfully employed and who need child care services (low-income child care); for parents who are at-risk of becoming eligible for AFDC (at-risk child care); and for parents who need child care services to prevent or remedy child abuse or neglect, to alleviate stress in the family or to preserve the family unit (respite child care). This bill requires DHSS to recover overpayments made for low-income, at-risk and respite child care. The bill requires DHSS to promulgate rules regarding the recovery of those child care overpayments.

Currently, if the at-risk child care funds distributed to a county are insufficient to meet the needs of all eligible parents, the county must distribute those funds to the following persons according to the following order of priority: 1) to parents who are working and who have been recipients of AFDC within the last 12 months (transitional child care); 2) to parents who are working and who have been recipients of AFDC, but not within the last 12 months (post-transitional child care); and 3) to participants in the new hope project (a program to assist low-income people in finding jobs). This bill eliminates the order of priority for at-risk child care funds.

Under current law, unspent or unencumbered child care funds that DHSS carries forward from one calendar year to the next may be used to provide child care in counties with unmet needs, to provide child care start-up and expansion grants and to provide training for child care providers. This bill eliminates the use of those funds for child care start-up and expansion grants and permits DHSS to use those funds to provide child care for certain recipients of AFDC and for former recipients of AFDC and to automate state child care licensing.

Current law appropriates a sum sufficient to provide state aid for certain county-administered public assistance programs, including AFDC, and for the cost of foster care and treatment foster care provided by certain nonlegally responsible relatives under state-administered or county-administered programs. Currently, this aid for the cost of this foster care by nonlegally responsible relatives is provided by reimbursing counties for their costs of providing this foster care. As a result, counties need not use community aids foster care funds for foster care provided by nonlegally responsible relatives under state-administered or county-administered programs. This bill limits the amount that may be paid from the sum sufficient appropriation to a county for foster care provided by nonlegally responsible relatives to the amount that the county received for these reimbursements in 1994.

Under current law, the child abuse and neglect prevention board awards general purpose revenues (GPR), program revenues (PR) received by the board as contributions, gifts, grants and bequests and segregated revenues (SEG) received by the children's trust fund as contributions, gifts, grants and bequests, to nonprofit organizations and public agencies to provide parenting education services and culturally competent outreach services to the parents of newborn infants (right from the start program). This bill eliminates GPR funding for this program and provides instead for PR funding from duplicate birth certificate fees for the program. The bill also increases the fee for a copy of a birth certificate from $10 to $15 and increases the amount of that fee that is credited to the board from $5 to $7.50.

Under current law, DHSS awards grants to counties that have high numbers of substantiated cases of child abuse and neglect to provide 24-hour crisis and respite care for abused and neglected children (children-in-crisis program). This bill eliminates this program.

Under current law, DHSS must allocate $250,000 in each fiscal year to enter into a contract with an organization to provide services in Milwaukee County to divert youths from gang activities. In addition, current law requires DHSS to allocate $300,000 in each fiscal year to that organization for alcohol and other drug abuse (AODA) education and treatment services for participants in the organization's youth diversion program. This bill eliminates the allocation to that organization for AODA education and treatment.

MENTAL ILLNESS AND DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES

Under current law, a law enforcement officer or a juvenile court intake worker may take a person into custody, in a process known as emergency detention, if the officer or worker has cause to believe that the person is mentally ill, drug dependent or developmentally disabled and if the person evidences certain dangerousness. The law enforcement officer must transport the person to a mental health treatment facility, where the treatment director must, within 24 hours, determine if the person must be detained and, if the person consents, treated. If the person is detained, he or she must be released within 72 hours, excluding holidays and weekends, or a petition for commitment must be filed against the person. Individuals who act in accordance with the authorization provided by these laws are not liable in civil court for actions taken in good faith.

This bill authorizes a treatment director of a mental health treatment facility or his or her designee to evaluate and diagnose, as well as treat, an individual who so consents and who has been transported to the facility under emergency detention or who has voluntarily entered the facility. The immunity in civil court that is provided to individuals who act in accordance with the laws under emergency detention is, by the bill, extended to the evaluation and diagnosis of persons under emergency detention or who voluntarily enter mental health treatment facilities. The bill also specifically extends immunity to the making of a determination that an individual has or does not have mental illness or is or is not dangerous. Lastly, the bill extends immunity to a director of a treatment facility, or his or her designee, who under a court order evaluates, diagnoses or treats an individual who is confined in a jail.

This bill requires DHSS to investigate the feasibility of and analyze the potential savings and efficiencies of contracting with a private vendor to operate the state centers for the developmentally disabled and selling the state centers for the developmentally disabled to such a private vendor. By June 30, 1996, DHSS must report the findings resulting from its investigation and analysis to the appropriate standing committees of the legislature and to the governor.

Under this bill, beginning on January 1, 1996, a county must annually establish, from the sum of the county's annual allocation of moneys under the community integration program for persons relocated or meeting reimbursable levels of care (commonly known as "CIP II") and under the community options program, a maximum amount of not more than 25% for expenditure for services to persons residing in C-BRFs. The county must deny eligibility to these persons if they are initially applying for CIP II or community options program services and if the funding for their care would exceed the 25% maximum, unless DHSS, under criteria promulgated as rules, grants an exception based on the person's hardship that would result if the requirement is enforced. If a county's services, under CIP II or the community options program, to persons residing in community-based residential facilities exceed the 25% maximum as of January 1, 1996, the county may seek a waiver of the requirement from DHSS. DHSS must provide technical assistance to counties to explore alternative methods of providing services. DHSS also must submit, by October 1, 1995, rules establishing criteria for hardship exceptions, as proposed, and the proposed standards for granting variances to counties to DOA for review and approval.

Under this bill, community options program services that are funded solely from state general purpose revenues may not be used to provide services in a C-BRF with more than 8 beds unless DHSS approves. DHSS is authorized to approve the provision if the C-BRF is composed of independent apartments for certain disabled or elderly residents or if the C-BRF meets standards that, under the bill, DHSS must establish by January 1, 1996. DHSS must submit the proposed standards to DOA for approval by October 1, 1995.

This bill requires DHSS to develop, by January 1, 1996, a model contract for purchase of long-term community support services under the community options program for persons who reside in C-BRFs. Under the bill, county departments of social services, human services, community programs or developmental disabilities services, agencies of county and tribal governments that are directed by county or tribal commissions on aging and private nonprofit agencies that contract with providers for these services must use the model contract.

Under current law, long-term support services under the community options program are funded from state revenues; under a waiver of federal medicaid laws, home and community-based services under the community options program are funded from a combination of state revenues and federal medicaid funds. The latter funding is commonly known as "COP waiver" funding. If a person who is eligible for community options program services and for medical assistance refuses the offer of community options program services that are funded under the "COP waiver", the person may not receive community options program services that are funded solely from state revenues, except for services funded during a 90-day period in which an application for "COP waiver" funding is processed. A person who is denied services on this basis may not request a hearing to review the denial.

This bill expands the limitation on use of solely state-funded community options program services by denying these services to persons who are eligible for and are offered and yet refuse home and community-based services under the community integration programs for persons who are relocated from certain institutions or who meet certain level-of-care requirements.

Current federal medicaid law prohibits federal funding, under this state's medical assistance program, of mentally ill persons aged 21 to 64 who receive services in a facility that the federal health care financing administration finds is an institution for mental diseases (IMD). Currently, 2 programs under DHSS fund, from state revenues, services for persons who reside in or who are relocated into communities from facilities that are found to be IMDs.

This bill expands eligibility for a program that funds services for persons who reside in or who are relocated from IMDs. The bill permits funding, at a rate that is 90% of the medical assistance reimbursement rate for the IMD in fiscal year 1987-88, for community-based care for persons who are at least 65 and are relocated from an IMD, if the IMD closes a bed for the relocation.

This bill eliminates an appropriation to DHSS to provide community mental health protection and advocacy services.

This bill eliminates a program under which DHSS must award a grant to a private nonprofit organization to collect and disseminate information on Alzheimer's disease, to coordinate public awareness activities related to the disease and to provide training, technical assistance and training material to certain entities that provide services to persons with the disease.

This bill revises the program of mental health services for severely emotionally disturbed children. The bill authorizes DHSS to transfer funds, for use as inpatient and community mental health services for severely emotionally disturbed children, from the medical assistance appropriation for distribution to applying counties that meet certain requirements. In order to receive the funding, a county must be the recipient of a federal grant for comprehensive community mental health services for children with serious emotional disturbances; be the recipient of any other grant for services for severely emotionally disturbed children; or meet requirements for participating in the integrated services programs for children with severe disabilities and meet certain other requirements. The bill requires that a county that is applying for the funds submit a proposed plan for children who are served under the program to be enrolled in a limited services health organization at the time that the program terminates. Funding that is used under this revised program that is not encumbered by a recipient county by the June 30 that is 24 months after the fiscal year in which the funds were distributed lapses to the medical assistance appropriation.

The bill also permits moneys received as payments in restitution of property that is damaged at the Mendota or Winnebago mental health institutes or at the state centers for the developmentally disabled and money that is received from the sale of surplus property at the mental health institutes or state centers for the developmentally disabled to be used for replacement of the damaged property.

OTHER HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES

This bill changes the name of DHSS, on July 1, 1996, to the department of health and family services.

Under current law, the division of vocational rehabilitation, a subunit of DHSS, administers the vocational rehabilitation laws. Under these laws, DHSS assists eligible handicapped persons to become capable of competing in the labor market, practicing a profession, raising a family and making a home or participating in sheltered employment or other gainful work. Among other requirements under current law, DHSS must assess and evaluate services appropriate to each individual, develop an individualized written rehabilitation program with each handicapped person and develop and supervise services that are part of any handicapped person's vocational rehabilitation program. DHSS must also provide medical or other evaluations at no cost to the applicant to determine the applicant's eligibility for vocational rehabilitation services. DHSS must also provide rehabilitation teaching services for persons who are blind or visually impaired regardless of their eligibility for vocational rehabilitation services. Finally, under current law, DHSS may provide interpreters for the hearing impaired and must, subject to availability of funds, provide assistance to hearing-impaired persons to secure telecommunication devices. DHSS must provide, free of charge, at the request of an eligible hearing impaired person, a vehicle sticker that apprises law enforcement officers of the fact that the operator or owner of the vehicle is hearing impaired.

This bill transfers the division of vocational rehabilitation from DHSS to DILHR on July 1, 1996. Under this bill, DILHR is responsible for administering the vocational rehabilitation laws for handicapped persons except that DHSS retains responsibility for administering nonvocational services for the hearing and visually impaired.

This bill authorizes DHSS to regulate a type of facility, known as an assisted living facility, beginning on July 1, 1996. Under the bill, an assisted living facility is defined as a place in which at least 5 adults reside, that consists entirely of independent apartments and that provides not more than 28 hours per week of supportive, personal and nursing services to a resident of the facility. The bill requires that an assisted living facility be certified by DHSS as a provider of medical assistance in order to operate and requires DHSS to promulgate rules, approved by DOA, that establish standards for the certification.

Under current law, DHSS allocates $52,400 in each state fiscal year to contract with an organization to provide services to Hispanic workers who have been injured in industrial accidents. The services provided include group support and self-help activities, counseling, advocacy on behalf of injured workers for appropriate services, interpreter services, outreach and assistance in maximizing utilization of certain public programs. This bill eliminates this funding.

Under current law, generally only after a man has been adjudicated to be the father of a nonmarital child in a paternity action may the man be ordered to pay child support for the child. However, if the man has signed and filed with the state registrar a statement acknowledging paternity, a judge or family court commissioner may order the man to pay child support in any action affecting the family, such as an action for support. Within one year after signing a statement acknowledging paternity or one year after attaining age 18, whichever is later, a person who signed the statement may request that the judge or family court commissioner order blood tests. If the results of the blood tests exclude the man as the father of the child, the court must dismiss any action for support, or vacate any order for support, with respect to the man.

This bill provides that, if the results of the blood tests exclude the man, the court must also notify the state registrar, who must prepare a new birth certificate for the child, omitting the man's name. If no action for support has been filed, a person who has signed a statement acknowledging paternity may request that the county child support agency arrange for blood tests. If the results exclude the man, the child support agency must notify the state registrar. The bill also provides that a nonjudicial determination of paternity that has the same effect as a judgment of paternity becomes effective when a statement acknowledging paternity has been on file with the state registrar for one year or one year after the man who signed the statement attains age 18, whichever is later. Such a determination may be reopened under the same circumstances as a judgment of paternity.

This bill prohibits a C-BRF from initially admitting a potential resident who intends to pay for residency from private funds unless the C-BRF first obtains financial information from the potential resident at the time that he or she applies for admission. The potential resident must waive to specified persons his or her right to confidentiality of the information provided. From this information, the C-BRF must prepare a statement of financial condition of the potential resident and provide the statement to him or her. The statement must estimate a date, if any, by which the person's assets and other funding sources would be depleted, must indicate that, at the time of depletion, public funding may not be available in order to remain in the C-BRF and must specify options available to the individual at that time. If the estimated date of depletion of the individual's funds is less than 24 months after the date of the financial statement, the C-BRF must forward the statement to the county department of social services.

Under current law, DHSS, as part of the home-based enterprise program, is required to provide services, vocational rehabilitation, craft instruction and a supervised business initiatives program to severely handicapped persons who are eligible for vocational rehabilitation services. DHSS is permitted to own, lease, manage, supervise or operate businesses for the benefit of severely handicapped persons, including home-based craft work, also known as the homecraft program. Currently, the homecraft program is funded, in part, by a federal grant. Those persons ineligible to participate under the federal grant may participate in a portion of the program funded by state revenue.

This bill eliminates the homecraft portion of the home-based enterprise program funded by state revenue.

Under current law, community aids funds are distributed in accordance with certain statutory allocations. There is a basic county allocation from which DHSS allocates money to the counties for social services in general. There are also a number of specific categorical allocations for specific types of social services. Current law has categorical allocations for services to children and families; supportive home care services; child care services; community support programs; community-based programs for the developmentally disabled; family support programs; Alzheimer's family and caregiver support services; emergency services; and alcohol, drug abuse and mental health services. This bill restructures community aids allocations into a single general community aids allocation and 3 specific categorical allocations — one for prevention and treatment of substance abuse, one for community mental health services and one for child care services — and allocates funding for each of the categories.

Under current law, community aids funds that are not spent or encumbered by December 31 of each year lapse to the general fund. However, current law contains a number of provisions allowing counties, tribal governing bodies and nonprofit organizations to carry over certain community aids funds to the next year. Under one of these provisions, DHSS is permitted to carry forward up to 3% of the total amount of community aids funds, other than certain child care funds, that are allocated for use by the county, tribal governing body or nonprofit organization. These funds may be used in the following calendar year, subject to certain limitations. One of these limitations prevents DHSS from carrying forward more than 25% of the amount allocated to the county, tribal governing body or nonprofit organization under certain community aids categorical allocations. This bill repeals this 25% rule. Under current law, if DHSS determines that a county department will be unable to expend certain funds for at-risk child care, low-income child care and respite child care by December 31 each year, DHSS may authorize that county department to expend part of these funds for the start-up, improvement or expansion of child care services or facilities, to the extent permitted by federal law. This bill repeals this provision.

Under current law, counties are required to provide matching funds for community aids funds distributed from certain allocations. Each county's yearly required match equals 9.89% of the total of the county's distributions for that year for which matching funds are required. These matching funds may come from county tax levies, federal and state revenue sharing funds or, subject to certain limitations, private donations. This bill eliminates these county matching requirements.

The bill also makes certain changes relating to the administration of the community aids program. The bill requires county departments of health or social services, county departments of community programs, county departments of developmental disabilities services and tribal governing bodies to submit to DHSS, before October 1 of each year beginning in 1995, a proposed budget for the expenditure of community aids funds. The proposed budget must be submitted on a form developed by DHSS and approved by DOA. In addition, the bill requires DHSS to develop performance standards for all services funded through community aids. These performance standards are to be developed after consultation with DOA and with county departments and are required to be implemented no later than July 1, 1996.

Under current law, the payee or payer under a judgment or order providing for child or family support may file a petition, motion or order to show cause with the court to have the amount of support revised. The court or family court commissioner may not revise the amount of support unless the person requesting the change can show a substantial change in circumstances since the last order or revision. If the court or family court commissioner revises child or family support, it must be done by using a percentage standard. The revised amount may deviate from the amount that would result from use of the percentage standard if, on the basis of various factors, the court or family court commissioner determines that use of the percentage standard would be unfair to the child or to either of the parties.

This bill provides that a payee under a judgment or order for child or family support may file an affidavit with the court for a revision of the support, unless the current judgment or order is based on the percentage standard and is expressed as a percentage of income or unless less than 33 months have elapsed since the entry of the current judgment or order. The affidavit must include: facts supporting a reasonable basis for a substantial change in circumstances; the proposed amount of support, which must be determined by using the percentage standard; the number of children to be supported under the revised judgment or order; and the payer's current income or earning capacity, if the proposed amount of support is expressed as a fixed sum or as a combination of a percentage and a fixed sum in the alternative. The payee must serve the affidavit on the payer, or send it by registered or certified mail to the payer's last-known address. Upon proof of service on the payer, the court must send notice to the payer that informs the payer that the court or family court commissioner may revise the support amount as requested in the affidavit unless the payer requests a hearing within 30 days.

If the payer does not timely request a hearing, the court or family court commissioner may revise the support amount as requested in the affidavit if the affidavit complies with all of the requirements under the statute and demonstrates to the satisfaction of the court or family court commissioner that the revision in support is determined in a manner consistent with the statute under current law that provides for revision of support. If the support is revised, the court must send the revised order to the payer along with notice that an assignment is in effect for the new amount of support. If the payer does timely request a hearing, the court or family court commissioner must hold a hearing and determine, in accordance with the statute in current law that provides for revision of support, whether the support should be revised.

Under current law, DHSS must provide agencies of county and tribal governments that are directed by county or tribal commissions on aging with funds to provide older individuals with the services of benefit specialists or appropriate referrals for assistance. Benefit specialists offer information, advice and assistance that are related to eligibility for and problems with public benefits and services, health care financing, insurance, housing and other financial and consumer concerns and refer individuals who are in need of legal representation to legal resources.

This bill removes the requirement that tribal governments provide benefit specialist services and the funding for this purpose and requires, instead, that only counties both receive funding for these services and provide these services to all older individuals living within the county.

Currently, county departments of social services must submit to DHSS their plans and contracts for care and services that the county departments will purchase. DHSS, in turn, must review the contracts and approve them if they are consistent with DHSS rules and procedures and if state and federal funds are available for their purposes.

This bill authorizes, rather than requires, DHSS to require county departments of social services, human services, community programs and developmental disabilities services to submit contracts for the purchase of care and services to DHSS for review and approval.

Current law provides a procedure for the involuntary commitment for treatment of sexually violent persons. A sexually violent person who is committed for treatment may be placed in an institution for care or may be placed on supervised release in the community. DHSS is responsible for the costs of evaluating, treating and caring for sexually violent persons who are committed for treatment. This bill clarifies that if a sexually violent person is placed on supervised release, DHSS is responsible for paying for treatment and care provided to the sexually violent person while he or she is in the community.

Under current law, if a child's birth occurs in or en route to a hospital and if the child's parents are unmarried, the hospital administrator or certain other persons must provide the child's mother with a voluntary paternity acknowledgment form and with a pamphlet that has information about birth certificates.

This bill requires that trained, designated hospital staff provide oral information to the child's available unmarried parents about the voluntary paternity acknowledgment form and about the legal significance and benefits of establishing paternity.

Under current law, a general purpose revenue appropriation to DHSS funds payments to counties for establishing paternity. Another general purpose revenue appropriation to DHSS funds assistance to certain counties in establishing paternity and obtaining child support and payments to Milwaukee County for an additional family court commissioner. A program revenue appropriation to DHSS that consists of child support moneys collected for children receiving AFDC funds, among other things, state incentive payments to counties that meet certain efficiency criteria for paternity establishment and child support collection. Another program revenue appropriation to DHSS from the same funding source, (AFDC child support collections), funds grants to counties for programs to revise child support orders.

This bill provides one single program revenue appropriation to DHSS for payments to counties for all activities related to child support establishment and collection, funded entirely from AFDC child support collections.

This bill eliminates a program in DHSS to conduct a statewide elder abuse awareness campaign.

This bill directs DHSS to conduct a study, and submit its conclusions and recommendations to DOA and JCF by December 1, 1995, on limiting licenses issued by the state for failure to pay child or family support. DHSS must address such issues as: what licenses are amenable to limitation; what types of limitations are feasible; how to implement such a program; the cost of administering such a program; and the estimated increase in support collections from such a program.

INSURANCE

Under current law, the commissioner of insurance may by rule prescribe educational prerequisites and set continuing education standards for insurance intermediaries (generally, insurance agents). The commissioner may also suspend the license of an intermediary who fails to produce evidence of compliance with any continuing education standards set by the commissioner.

This bill authorizes the commissioner to approve organizations that may offer prelicensing or continuing education courses or programs, for an initial fee not exceeding $500 and an annual renewal fee not exceeding $100, and to approve the courses that an approved organization may offer, for a fee not exceeding $25 per credit hour. The bill also provides that if an intermediary whose license is suspended for failure to produce evidence of compliance with continuing education standards produces such evidence within 60 days after the license is suspended, the license is reinstated, effective on the date of the suspension. If the intermediary does not produce evidence of compliance within 60 days, however, the license is revoked and the intermediary must satisfy all original licensing requirements to be relicensed.

Under current law, every business corporation, including a nonprofit corporation, and every limited partnership must maintain in this state a registered agent for service of process. Current law does not require insurers to maintain a registered agent for service of process. Service is made on the commissioner of insurance or, if a legal proceeding is brought by the state, on the secretary of state. The commissioner or secretary of state must send a copy of the process by certified mail to the person served at the person's last-known principal place of business, residence or post-office address. The fee for service on the commissioner is $5.

This bill requires every insurer to maintain in this state a registered agent for service of process, whose name and address must be filed with the commissioner. If an insurer fails to maintain an agent or if the agent cannot be found, substituted service may be made on the commissioner, or on the secretary of state if the action is brought by the state. If substituted service is made, the commissioner or the secretary of state must follow the same procedure as before for mailing the process. The bill, however, increases the fee for service on the commissioner to $10.

Under current law, the commissioner of insurance collects fees for various services provided by the office of the commissioner of insurance (OCI). The fees are used to pay for the general operating costs of OCI. This bill increases the fees for insurers, rate service organizations and motor clubs for: filing documents required by law as a prerequisite to operating in this state; issuing a certificate of authority; annually continuing a certificate of authority; and filing an annual statement. The bill also creates a fee for certifying copies of a number of types of documents, such as certificates of authority and annual statements.

Under current law, hospitals must use a uniform accounting system developed by the office of health care information (OHCI) in OCI and specified in rules promulgated by the commissioner of insurance. This bill eliminates that requirement.

Under current law, the activities of OHCI are funded by assessments paid by hospitals in proportion to gross private-pay patient revenues during the most recently concluded fiscal year. One of the responsibilities of OHCI is to collect health care information from health care providers other than hospitals and ambulatory surgery centers to analyze and disseminate in language that can be understood by lay persons. General operations of OCI are funded by fees paid by insurers for various services provided by OCI, such as issuing certificates of authority, filing annual statements and listing insurance agents.

Under this bill, the responsibility of OHCI to collect, analyze and disseminate information from health care providers other than hospitals and ambulatory surgery centers may be funded from OCI's appropriation derived from insurer fees, as well as from the appropriation for OHCI derived from hospital assessments.

OCI administers the patients compensation fund, the local government property insurance fund and the state life insurance fund. The patients compensation fund is derived from assessments paid by certain health care providers, and the other 2 funds are derived from premiums paid by policyholders insured under the funds. For each fund there exists an annual appropriation (from which the unencumbered balance remaining at the end of a fiscal year lapses back to the fund) for paying the expenses of administering the fund and a continuing appropriation (from which the balance never lapses) for making the payments for which the fund was created, such as losses under the property or life insurance policies and compensation to patients making claims against health care providers.

This bill specifically provides that moneys appropriated under the continuing appropriation for each of the 3 funds may not be used for expenses related to administering the fund.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

SHARED REVENUE AND PROPERTY TAX CREDITS

This state currently distributes a school levy property tax credit to municipalities that is based upon each municipality's share of statewide levies for school purposes. Beginning in 1997, this bill increases the annual amount distributed under this credit from $319,305,000 to $469,305,000.

Under current law, a small municipality receives, in addition to payments under the regular shared revenue formula, an additional shared revenue payment if it has a population of 5,000 or less, a tax rate of at least one mill and the full value of the property in the municipality meets certain tests. This bill ends funding for these additional payments after 1995. In 1995, $14,000,000 was appropriated for those payments.

This bill requires counties to spend shared revenue payments first for circuit court expenses, for probation and parole hold costs in county jails and for youth services expenses and 2nd for other costs for which the counties would otherwise levy property taxes. The bill also requires counties to spend mandate relief payments first for probation and parole hold costs in county jails and 2nd for costs for which the counties would otherwise levy property taxes.

OTHER LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Under the current tax incremental financing (TIF) program, a city or village may create a tax incremental district (TID) in part of its territory to foster development in certain areas that are blighted, in need of rehabilitation or suitable for industrial sites. Before a city or village may create a TID, several steps and plans are required, including public hearings on the proposed TID, preparation and adoption of a project plan for the TID and creation of a joint review board to review the proposal. The joint review board, which is made up of representatives of the overlying taxing jurisdictions of the proposed TID, must approve the project plan or the TID may not be created. If an existing TID project plan is amended by a planning commission, these steps are also required.

Also under current law, once a TID has been created, the department of revenue (DOR) calculates the "tax increment base value" of the TID, which is the value of all taxable property within the TID at the time of its creation equalized for state purposes. If the development in the TID increases the value of the property in the TID above the base value, a "value increment" is created. That portion of taxes collected on the value increment in excess of the base value is called a "tax increment". The tax increment is placed in a special fund that may be used only to pay back the costs of the TID, such as public works, financing costs, and professional service costs. DOR authorizes the allocation of the tax increments until the TID terminates or 23 years after the TID is created, whichever is sooner. Under current law, TIDs are required to terminate in most cases once these costs are paid back, 16 years after the last expenditure identified in the project plan is made or when the creating city or village dissolves the TID, whichever occurs first. Tax increments generated by a TID may be expended during a period of not more than 7 years.

This bill creates a mechanism by which the planning commission of a city or village may allocate positive tax increments generated by one TID (the donor TID) to another TID created by that planning commission (the recipient TID) if certain conditions are met, including a requirement that the 2 TIDs have the same overlying taxing jurisdictions. This change applies only to TIDs that are created before October 1, 1994, and such an allocation may continue for no more than 10 years.

The bill also extends the life span of TIDs that are created before October 1, 1994. For such a TID, the maximum life span is increased from 23 to 27 years, DOR may allocate tax increments for 27 years instead of 23 years and the maximum time that the TID may exist after the last expenditure identified in the project plan is made is 16 years instead of 20 years. The bill does not increase the maximum period of time during which tax increments may be expended.

Under current law, the state pays to a county that has a county assessor system either 75% of the costs of the system or 75% of the sum of 0.2 mill multiplied by the full value of taxable property in the county plus $3.95 multiplied by the number of parcels of land in the county, whichever is less. Under this bill, the state does not pay any of the costs of a county assessor system, but a county may charge the cities, villages and towns in the county for the cost of assessments.

Under current law, most towns may incorporate as a city or village only after following certain procedures and receiving approval for the incorporation from a circuit court and from the department of administration (DOA). Also under current law, if a town wishes to consolidate with another contiguous city, village or town, the consolidation may not take effect unless a circuit court and DOA find that the proposed consolidation is in the public interest. Town territory that is contiguous to any city or village may be annexed to that city or village under several methods, including direct annexation and annexation by referendum. Under both of these methods, in a county with a population of at least 50,000, DOA is authorized to advise whether the proposed annexation is against the public interest. Upon receiving such notice, the annexing municipality is required to review DOA's advice before final action is taken.

This bill transfers all of these incorporation and boundary review functions from DOA to the department of development (DOD), effective on July 1, 1996.

Currently, public records not stored in hard copy format may be transferred to microfilm or optical disk format only. This bill authorizes local government records to be transferred to or maintained in optical disk or electronic format subject to rules promulgated by DOA.

NATURAL RESOURCES

FISH, GAME AND WILDLIFE

This bill changes the fees charged by the department of natural resources (DNR) for certain fish and game licenses, permits, stamps and duplicate licenses. The bill increases the fees for the following:

1. All hunting licenses and permits except bonus deer hunting permits.
2. All recreational fishing licenses except sturgeon spearing licenses.
3. Sports licenses and conservation patron licenses.
4. Commercial fishing licenses, except for licenses that authorize fishing for only rough fish in outlying waters under contract with DNR.
5. Duplicates for hunting licenses, fishing licenses, sports licenses and conservation patron licenses.

The bill decreases the fees for most fishing and hunting stamps, except the bill increases the fee for the waterfowl hunting stamp.

Currently, a conservation patron license confers on its holder the privileges of most of the state's fish and game licenses and allows a licensee to use a state park, state trail or other related areas without having to pay an admission fee. A sports license confers on its holder the privileges of the resident small game hunting, deer hunting and fishing licenses. Under current law, only residents may purchase these licenses. This bill allows both residents and nonresidents to purchase these licenses. Nonresidents must pay a higher fee than residents.

Under current law, a wildlife damage surcharge is imposed on the fee for sports licenses but no wildlife damage surcharge is imposed on conservation patron licenses. This bill imposes a wildlife damage surcharge on the conservation patron license and raises the surcharge on the sports license.

Under current law, DNR may issue a permanent fishing license to a state resident who has a certain disability. The license is valid from the date of issuance as long as the licensee is a resident and his or her disability continues. There is no fee for this license.

Under this bill, this license is valid for one year. A license issued before the day the bill becomes law remains valid until March 31, 1996. The bill also imposes a fee for this license.

Current law requires DNR to collect a nonrefundable processing fee of $3 for each application submitted for certain hunting and trapping licenses, permits and stamps. Under this bill, DNR must also collect this processing fee for each application submitted for a bonus deer hunting permit.

This bill authorizes DNR to establish a fee that may be charged to cover the costs that are associated with paying for fish and game licenses, permits and stamps requested by mail, telephone or electronic means.

Under current law, a minor under the age of 12 may not hunt with a firearm. Also, except for the hunting safety certificate of accomplishment, DNR may not issue any type of hunting license, permit or stamp to a minor under the age of 12. This certificate only authorizes the hunting of small game and can only be used once the minor reaches the age of 12.

Under this bill, a minor who is a state resident and who is 11 years old may apply for a hunting license, permit or stamp that is issued by a preference system used by DNR if the minor has a certificate of accomplishment. However, the minor may not use the license, permit or stamp until he or she reaches the age of 12.

Under this bill, DNR may conduct educational hunting, fishing and trapping activities for groups of persons whom DNR determines will benefit from such activities.

Under current law, a county may apply to DNR for aids to improve the natural environment of the game and nongame species in the county's forests. Under current law, the maximum annual aids payment that a county may receive may not exceed 10 cents per acre. Under this bill, the maximum annual aids payment is increased to 20 cents per acre.

NAVIGABLE WATERS

Under current law, most boats must have certificates of number that are issued annually for a fee by DNR. The fee for a certificate of number is based on the size of the boat. This bill increases these fees.

This bill makes changes in the fee structure for applications for permits and other approvals issued by the DNR for various projects that affect navigable waters and wetlands.

For projects such as the placement of structures or deposits in navigable waters and for certain permits that affect dams the bill changes the fees so that they are based on the number of hours DNR typically spends on reviewing, investigating and making a determination on the application. Under current law, the amount of the fee is based on the cost of the project.

This bill also authorizes DNR to charge the following fees, for which no authority exists under current law:

1. A fee for making a determination as to whether a project complies with the water quality standards for wetlands promulgated by rule by DNR.

2. A fee for making a determination as to whether a structure or deposit placed in navigable waters by a riparian owner will violate the rights of the public or of riparian owners other than the owner seeking to place the structure or deposit.

3. A fee for conducting a hearing on whether to issue a permit to approve a project that affects navigable waters or for a dam.

Under current law, local units of government are exempt from paying application fees for permits or approvals. This bill eliminates that exemption.

Under current law, DNR must issue permits authorizing activities in navigable waters such as the placement of structures or deposits. Under this bill, DNR may delegate this responsibility to a municipality if DNR determines that the activity is one that can be regulated by the municipality and if the municipality is willing and equipped to assume the responsibility.

The bill also provides that no individual or general permit is needed from DNR for certain types of activities in navigable waters, such as placing gravel or riprap, if DNR promulgates rules establishing construction and location standards for the activity and if the activity does not have a significant impact on the environment or on the public's rights in navigable waters.

This bill authorizes a state grant for the repair of the portion of the Portage levee system that belongs to the city of Portage. The bill transfers to the city of Portage the duty of maintaining that portion when the repair project is complete.

RECREATION

Under current law, DNR is responsible for developing, operating and administering the state parks, state trails, the ice age trail, the state recreation areas and the state forests. This bill transfers the responsibilities for all of these state lands, except for the state forests in the northern portion of the state, to the department of tourism and parks (DTP), which is created in the bill, effective on July 1, 1996. Under the bill, all of these state lands are made part of the state park system. The bill also provides funding to DTP to develop and maintain the snowmobile and ATV trails within the state park system.

Currently, the Kickapoo valley reserve is administered by a 9-member governing board which is attached to the department of administration (DOA) for administrative purposes. The board administers the reserve to preserve and enhance its unique environmental, scenic and cultural features, to provide facilities for the use and enjoyment of visitors and to promote the reserve as a destination for vacationing and recreation. The boundaries of the reserve are determined by DOA, which also provides fiscal and accounting services to the board. The board may promulgate rules to govern administration of the reserve. DNR has police supervision over the reserve and enforces the rules of the board.

This bill attaches the Kickapoo valley governing board to DTP for administrative purposes, without changing the powers and functions of the board. Under the bill, DTP determines the boundaries of the reserve and provides fiscal and accounting services to the board. The bill also transfers responsibility for police supervision over the reserve from DNR to DTP. Under the bill, DNR retains authority to enforce the rules of the board but has no responsibility to do so.

In addition, the bill changes the primary source of funding for administration of the reserve from general purpose revenue to segregated (conservation fund) revenue.

This bill authorizes DNR to acquire land for state natural resource management areas. Under the bill, a state natural resource management area is one that provides multiple natural resource values, such as scenic and environmental values.

Under current law, no person may enter a state park or certain other state recreational areas in a vehicle without paying a fee for an annual or daily vehicle admission sticker. This bill raises the fees for these stickers.

Under current law, an operator of a motor vehicle is in violation of state law if he or she operates the vehicle in a state park or other state recreation area without an admission sticker on the vehicle. This bill makes the owner of the vehicle, regardless of whether he or she was the operator, liable for this violation. The bill also establishes certain defenses to liability for this violation.

OTHER NATURAL RESOURCES

Under current law, DNR is under the direction and supervision of the natural resources board, consisting of 7 members who are nominated by the governor and appointed with the advice and consent of the senate for staggered 6-year terms. The board appoints a secretary to administer DNR. This bill abolishes the board. Under the bill, DNR is under the direction and supervision of a secretary who is nominated by the governor and appointed with the advice and consent of the senate to serve at the pleasure of the governor. The bill also creates a natural resources council to advise DNR. The initial membership of the council consists of those board members who are in office when this bill becomes law.

Under current law, a department may establish district or area offices for field operations. DNR has established 6 field districts, each of which is headed by a director. Current law provides that a director of a DNR field district is in the classified service. This bill authorizes the secretary of natural resources to appoint a director for each field district or field area office established by the department. The bill also provides that the directors of the DNR field districts are in the unclassified service.

Under current law, the Wisconsin conservation corps (WCC) board is attached to DOA for limited administrative purposes. This bill transfers the WCC board to the department of industry, labor and human relations (DILHR).

Under current law, corps enrollees receive wages and certain benefits provided by the state. A sponsor may supplement these wages or provide additional benefits. The WCC board establishes guidelines to be used in selecting corps projects. These guidelines include the extent to which the project will provide employment in meaningful work activities and the share of the total project cost that will be provided by the project's sponsor. Under this bill, the WCC board must also use as a guideline the extent to which the sponsor will provide the corps enrollees additional wages or other benefits. Also, under the bill, the WCC board may approve a project without using these guidelines if the sponsor is paying for the entire cost of the project.

Currently, the WCC board consists of 7 members. The members must provide regional, environmental and agricultural representation. This bill changes the composition of the WCC board to require that one member be a member of an area private industry council, which coordinates job training programs.

Under current law, the WCC board may provide health care coverage under the state group health insurance program, administered by the department of employe trust funds, to certain crew leaders. This bill provides that the WCC board may also offer these persons health care coverage under any other health care coverage program.

Under current law, the WCC board classifies its enrollees as corps members, assistant crew leaders and crew leaders. This bill authorizes the WCC board to classify its enrollees as corps members, assistant crew leaders, crew leaders and regional crew leaders.

Under current law, a participating employe under the Wisconsin retirement system (WRS) is eligible for coverage under the state group health insurance program on the first day of the month immediately after the employe submits an application for coverage if the application is submitted within the first 30 days after being hired. If the participating employe is a member or employe of the legislature, a state constitutional officer, a justice of the supreme court, a court of appeals judge, a circuit judge, the chief clerk or sergeant at arms of the senate or assembly or certain crew leaders employed by the WCC board, he or she is immediately eligible for the employer contribution towards the premiums. All other participating employes are ineligible for the employer contribution towards group health insurance premiums during the first 6 months of employment. This bill makes a regional crew leader employed by the WCC board immediately eligible for the employer contribution towards group health insurance premiums.

Current law provides that crew leaders and assistant crew leaders may be paid more than the state minimum wage, but does not impose a wage cap. This bill caps wages for crew leaders, assistant crew leaders and regional crew leaders at twice the state minimum wage and authorizes the WCC board to waive the wage cap for regional crew leaders.

Under current law, the WCC board may extend the normal 2-year enrollment period of a crew leader if the crew leader possesses special experience or training that is valuable to the corps. Under this bill, the WCC board may extend the enrollment period to up to 4 years for a crew leader regardless of whether the crew leader has special experience or training. For regional crew leaders, the WCC board may extend the 2-year period beyond 4 years.

Under current law, there is one wild ginseng dealer license that covers residents and nonresidents. This bill creates the following dealer licenses:

1. Three different licenses for wild ginseng dealers who are residents and who purchase for resale 8 or more ounces of wild ginseng. The type of license that a dealer must hold depends on the amount of wild ginseng that he or she will purchase for resale in a given year.

2. A wild ginseng dealer license for nonresidents.

Also, under current law, a person who harvests wild ginseng must have a harvest license. This bill creates 2 separate licenses: one for residents and one for nonresidents.

The bill requires that wild ginseng shipped out of this state be accompanied by a certificate of origin if it originates in this state or if it is shipped to a foreign country, regardless of its state of origin. The bill also requires that a resident dealer return to the sender wild ginseng that he or she receives from outside the state if it is not accompanied by a certificate of origin from that state.

Under current law, DNR conducts a program of conservation work projects for certain American Indian youth who are members of the Chippewa tribes or bands and DNR operates a program of youth conservation camps for boys and girls. This bill eliminates these 2 programs.

This bill allows DNR to charge fees for its environmental education programs. Under current law, no such authority exists.

OCCUPATIONAL REGULATION

Under current law, the department of regulation and licensing (DORL) and its boards, examining boards and affiliated credentialing boards issue licenses, permits and certificates (credentials) that authorize a person to practice a particular occupation or profession or use a particular occupational or professional title. A person who has been issued a credential by DORL or by an examining board or affiliated credentialing board attached to DORL must renew his or her credential on a regular basis (every 2 years for most credentials). Current law provides for a renewal fee that a credential holder must pay to DORL when he or she applies for a credential renewal. This bill requires DORL to levy a health care provider assessment of $300 on physician, podiatrist and chiropractor licenses. The health care provider assessment is in addition to the license renewal fee and must be paid at the time the holder of a physician, podiatrist or chiropractor license renews his or her license. If a physician, podiatrist or chiropractor fails to pay the health care provider assessment, DORL must request the department of revenue to collect the assessment using the collection methods applicable to income taxes. The money collected from the health care provider assessment is paid into the general fund.

Under current law, a person may not use the title "social worker" unless he or she is certified as a social worker by the social worker section of the examining board of social workers, marriage and family therapists and professional counselors. A person is eligible for a social worker certificate if he or she has received a bachelor's, master's or doctorate degree in social work and has passed an examination approved by the section to determine whether the person has the minimum competence to practice social work.

This bill creates a social worker training certificate that the section may grant to a person who has a bachelor's degree in psychology, sociology, criminal justice or another human service program approved by the section. A person who holds a social work training certificate may use the title "social worker" and is considered to be certified as a social worker for the purpose of any law governing social workers. A person who holds a social worker training certificate must: 1) attain social worker degree equivalency by taking social work courses; and 2) have direct practice experience with clients through either a 400-hour supervised human service internship or one year of supervised social work employment. Upon completing these 2 requirements, or at the end of 24 months, whichever occurs first, a person holding a social worker training certificate must take the national social work examination and, after passing that examination, must take an examination covering state law governing social work. If the person passes both examinations the section must grant the person a social worker certificate.

Under current law, with exceptions, DORL and the boards, examining boards or affiliated credentialing boards in DORL may discipline the holder of a credential by revoking or suspending the credential, by imposing limits on the credential, by reprimanding the holder of the credential or, in some cases, by imposing forfeitures (civil monetary penalties). This bill allows DORL or a board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board in DORL, as appropriate, to close a disciplinary investigation by issuing an administrative warning to the holder of the credential if DORL or the board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board determines that there is substantial evidence of misconduct by the holder of the credential but determines that a disciplinary proceeding should not be commenced.

Under current law, DORL and each board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board in DORL imposes various requirements on the practice of the professions regulated by DORL or the board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board. DORL or the board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board may require or conduct inspections, including records inspections, to verify that premises required to be licensed meet specified requirements and that a regulated professional complies with the practice requirements. This bill allows DORL or a board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board in DORL that has the authority to establish standards of conduct for a profession to promulgate rules that, in addition or as an alternative to DORL or the board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board conducting an inspection, require a regulated professional to inspect his or her own licensed location and to submit a report to DORL or the board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board that regulates the profession. The bill also allows DORL or a board, examining board or affiliated credentialing board to require a regulated professional to review specific practice requirements that relate to his or her profession and to verify in a report that his or her practice complies with those requirements.

Under current law, a licensed real estate broker or salesperson may apply to DORL for registration as an inactive licensee unless the person's license has been revoked or suspended as the result of a disciplinary proceeding. An inactive licensee may not engage in real estate practice, but may have his or her original license reinstated upon application and payment of a fee. This bill provides that inactive licenses for real estate brokers and salespersons may not be issued after November 1, 1995, and provides that, beginning on January 1, 1996, an inactive licensee must satisfy new requirements to have his or her original license reinstated.

This bill changes the statutory fees for initial and renewal credentials issued by DORL to reflect DORL's approximate costs of administration and enforcement attributable to the regulation of the various occupations and businesses that DORL regulates.

Under current law, DORL may charge a late fee to a credential holder who does not apply to renew his or her credential before the applicable credential renewal date. The late fee is $5 if the credential holder files the application for renewal less than 30 days after the renewal date and $25 if the credential holder files the application for renewal 30 days or more after the renewal date. This bill replaces the 2 different late fees with one late fee of $25, which DORL may charge regardless of how many days past the renewal date the renewal application is filed.

STATE GOVERNMENT

STATE EMPLOYMENT

Under current law, with certain exceptions, the employees in the department of revenue (DOR) and the department of regulation and licensing (DORL) serve in positions in the classified service. In contrast to an unclassified position, a classified position must be publicly announced and filled through an examination procedure that determines the applicant's merit and fitness for appointment to the position. Also, a person in the classified service who has successfully completed his or her probationary period may not be demoted, suspended, removed or discharged from his or her position except for just cause, and the person has certain reinstatement privileges if he or she is laid off or voluntarily separates from the classified service; a person in an unclassified position does not have the same protections or privileges. In addition, a person in the classified service, other than a limited term employe, project employe, supervisor, management employe or individual who is privy to confidential matters affecting the employer-employe relationship, may exercise collective bargaining rights under the state employment labor relations act (SELRA). Finally, compensation of persons in the classified service is determined in accordance with the state compensation plan, unless the persons are represented. If persons are represented, their compensation is determined according to the collective bargaining agreement.

This bill places all employees in DOR and DORL in the unclassified service beginning on July 1, 1996. These employees are no longer covered by SELRA, with the result that they no longer have collective bargaining rights, and their compensation, with certain exceptions, is determined in accordance with the state compensation plan.

Current law also provides that state employees, with certain exceptions, are protected from retaliation for disclosing information that an employe reasonably believes demonstrates a violation of law, mismanagement, abuse of authority, a substantial waste of public funds or a danger to public health and safety (the “whistleblower law”). This bill removes the employes in DOR and DORL from the protections provided under the whistleblower law.

Under SELRA, state employes in the classified service and assistant district attorneys, except limited term, management, supervisory, confidential and project employes, are included within collective bargaining units established by law. The employes in each unit may select a representative for purposes of collective bargaining. Under SELRA, a “management” employe includes any individual who is engaged predominantly in executive and managerial functions, and specifically includes division administrators, bureau directors and institutional heads, as well as individuals exercising similar functions, as determined by the employment relations commission.

This bill excludes from coverage under SELRA, in addition, any individual who serves as “chief legal counsel” or “deputy chief legal counsel” in a state agency within the executive branch, or any individual who exercises functions and responsibilities similar to such an individual, as determined by the commission. An excluded individual need not be engaged in any managerial, supervisory or confidential functions.

This bill eliminates the labor and industry review commission (LIRC) and the employment relations commission (ERC), effective July 1, 1996, and transfers their functions to the personnel commission, which is renamed the employment commission on that date.

The bill also transfers the council on municipal collective bargaining, which is currently attached to the ERC, to the employment commission, and transfers certain other councils, which are currently in the department of industry, labor and human relations (DILHR) and appointed by LIRC, to the employment commission. (See also EMPLOYMENT.)

Under current law, with certain exceptions, the department of employment relations (DER) is required to certify for vacant classified civil service positions the top 5 names from the register of eligible applicants if the register has fewer than 50 names or the top 10% of names if the register has more than 50 names. This bill requires DER to certify the top 10 names on the register of eligible applicants regardless of the size of the register.

Under current law, the personnel commission is required to conduct hearings on appeals regarding certain personnel decisions affecting state employes and is also required to process complaints regarding certain acts of employment discrimination and retaliatory, disciplinary action against state employes. This bill requires the commission to establish, by rule, a schedule of filing fees to be paid by any person who files such appeals or complaints with the commission.

Under current law, this state is responsible for the employer’s share of any costs related to grievance arbitration under a collective bargaining agreement that covers state employes. This bill requires DER to charge a state agency the employer’s share of any cost related to grievance arbitration for any arbitration that involves one or more employees of the state agency.

Under current law, the secretary of employment relations is required to allocate positions in the classified service and to reclassify certain positions. The secretary's decision concerning these classifications or reclassifications may be appealed to the personnel commission. Current law also provides that if a majority of the members of the personnel commission are not present for the hearing, a hearing examiner is required to prepare a proposed decision that is subject to modification by the commission. This bill provides that a hearing examiner's proposed decision regarding an appeal of a classification decision of the secretary shall stand as the final decision of the personnel commission.

Under current law, the governor is authorized to create committees by executive order and may authorize each committee to spend up to $2,000 per fiscal year. If the governor wants to authorize a committee to spend more than $2,000 per fiscal year, the governor is required to submit the committee's budget for all expenditures to the joint committee on finance (JCF) for approval. This bill provides that the governor may authorize a committee created by executive order, for the purpose of studying civil service reform, to spend up to $25,000 during the 1995-97 fiscal biennium without submitting a budget of the committee's actual and proposed expenditures to JCF and without the approval of JCF.

Under current law, DER is authorized to make grants of up to $50,000 to a day care provider for the start-up costs of certain day care facilities. These day care facilities must be located at or near a place of employment for state employees, provide day care services for children of state employees, charge a fee to state employees whose children receive care at these facilities, subsidize this fee based on a person's ability to pay and become a self-supporting day care facility within a time period set by DER. This bill eliminates this program.

STATE FINANCE

Under current law, there exists a separate office of the state treasurer, under the direction and supervision of the state treasurer. Effective on July 1, 1996, this bill abolishes the office of the state treasurer, eliminates the stenographer position assigned to the state treasurer and requires the department of administration (DOA) to establish a subunit in DOA headed by the state treasurer. Under the bill, the state treasurer and the subunit are under the direction and supervision of the secretary of administration.

Currently, the investment board may contract with investment advisers for the management and control of not more than 10% of the assets of the fixed retirement investment trust or the variable retirement investment trust. These assets may be invested in real estate, mortgages, equities, debt of foreign governments and debt of corporations not organized under the laws of this state. Responsibility for management and control of the balance of the assets of these trusts rests directly with the board's employees. When retained, investment advisers are paid from the income that would otherwise accrue to the trusts.

This bill permits the board to contract with investment advisers for the management and control of not more than 25% of the assets of the fixed retirement investment trust or the variable retirement investment trust.

Under current law, any local government in this state, as well as any circuit or municipal court, the Wisconsin health and educational facilities authority and the Wisconsin housing and economic development authority may deposit moneys with the state, which are then pooled to form the local government pooled-investment fund. The fund is invested by the state investment board until such time as the government, court or authority depositing the moneys requests their return. The state treasurer administers this fund and may deduct quarterly not more than 0.25% of the income received from the earnings of the fund during the preceding calendar quarter as reimbursement for his or her expenses of administration.

This bill permits the state treasurer to deduct quarterly not more than 0.5% of the income received from the earnings of the fund during the preceding calendar quarter as reimbursement for his or her expenses of administration.

Currently, moneys received by a state agency that are not appropriated are generally not available for expenditure until they are appropriated. However, if a state agency receives an adjustment of a previously recorded expenditure from a sum certain appropriation to that agency due to activities that are of a temporary nature or activities that could not be anticipated during budget development and which serves to reduce or eliminate the previously recorded expenditure in the same fiscal year in which the previously recorded expenditure was made, the secretary of administration may, upon request of the agency, designate the adjustment as a refund of an expenditure. When designated, the refund becomes available for expenditure. Unless exempted by the secretary, an agency which proposes to designate an adjustment as a refund of an expenditure must provide to the secretary an explanation of the conditions under which it was received, including a reference to the law creating the function of the agency under which the adjustment was received, the appropriation account from which the previously recorded expenditure was made and the purpose of that expenditure and any new proposed expenditure.

Under this bill, DOA prescribes written policies for identification of refunds of expenditures. The policies need not be promulgated as administrative rules. An adjustment received by a state agency may be recorded as a refund of expenditures upon submission to the secretary of administration of a written explanation of the circumstances under which this adjustment was received which qualify the adjustment to be so recorded. The secretary may waive this requirement. An agency need not have the secretary's approval to expend an amount received as a refund of expenditures, provided that the expenditure is made in accordance with the policies prescribed by DOA. An amount received as a result of an expenditure in one fiscal year may be credited and expended in a subsequent fiscal year. An amount may be credited to and expended from a continuing (nonlapsing) appropriation account such as a program revenue account as well as from a sum certain appropriation account, but not from a sum sufficient appropriation account. If the previously recorded expenditure was made from a sum sufficient appropriation account, the amount is recorded as a credit against expenditures from that account for purposes of the state budget report.

This bill directs DOA to require each state agency to adopt, revise as necessary and submit for its approval a strategic plan for the utilization of information technology to carry out the functions of the agency in the most efficient and effective manner.

The bill also permits DOA, upon application of any state agency, to transfer moneys between 2 sum certain appropriations to the agency that are made from the same revenue source for state operations, in order to permit the agency to carry out an information technology development project. ("State operations" excludes aids to or for the benefit of local governments, individuals or organizations and moneys derived from gifts, grants, bequests or federal revenues.) DOA may approve a request if the agency demonstrates that the project has a high potential to improve the efficiency of its operations and is consistent with its strategic plan for information technology purposes, as approved by DOA.

The bill directs the secretary of administration to submit quarterly reports to JCF concerning appropriation amounts transferred under the bill, together with a description of the purpose for which each transfer was made.

Currently, in most cases, the approval of JCF is required before moneys for state operations may be transferred from one appropriation account to another such account.

This bill permits DOA, upon application of any state agency, to carry over unencumbered moneys in the account for any sum certain appropriation to the agency between successive fiscal years or biennia in order to permit the agency to carry out an information technology development project. DOA may approve a request if the agency demonstrates that the project has a high potential to improve the efficiency of its operations and is consistent with its strategic plan for information technology purposes, as approved by DOA.

Currently, in most cases, the approval of JCF is required before moneys in a sum certain appropriation account may be carried over between successive fiscal years within a fiscal biennium. Currently, JCF does not have the authority to carry over moneys between fiscal biennia.

Currently, if the governor or the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin (UW) System adjusts program revenue-funded positions or the secretary of administration adjusts authorized expenditures from a program revenue account during the fiscal year immediately preceding any new fiscal biennium, DOA may, within 30 days after the effective date of the biennial budget act, provide a report to JCF indicating any modifications to positions funded from program revenue or funding levels for sum certain appropriations made from program revenue that are necessary to continue into the current fiscal biennium any positions authorized by the governor or board of regents or any funding adjusted by the secretary. If, within 14 working days after receiving the report, JCF does not schedule a meeting to review the report, DOA may make the modifications indicated in the report.

This bill applies this procedure, in addition, to positions funded from general purpose revenue and segregated revenue, other than federal revenue. The bill also applies the procedure to actions of JCF that increase the number of positions or supplement funding for a state agency during the fiscal year preceding the fiscal biennium of the budget act.

Currently, when a gift, grant or bequest is made to a state agency, other than to an agency that is authorized by law to accept it and to expend the proceeds for the purpose of carrying out the programs of the agency, the gift, grant or bequest is not valid until it is approved by JCF. Under this bill, the gift, grant or bequest is valid upon submission of a report by DOA to JCF specifying the source, if known; the amount; and the state agency to which it was directed.

This bill expressly directs DOA to provide interagency mail delivery service and permits DOA to charge state agencies for this service. The bill appropriates to DOA all moneys received from state agencies for providing this service. Currently, the statutes make no mention of this function.

In addition, the bill appropriates to DOA all moneys received from state agencies for the provision of printing services and related items for the purpose of providing those services and items. Currently, DOA provides these services and items under a sum certain appropriation.

Under current law, the building commission has an annual general purpose revenue appropriation for asbestos removal and another for hazardous materials removal. This bill requires that the general purpose revenue funds appropriated under these appropriations be transferred to the state building trust fund.

Under current law, the general fund must repay a loan of $10,000,000 from the local government property insurance fund in 5 annual instalments of $2,000,000 principal plus accrued interest, beginning on June 30, 1995. This bill repeals that provision and requires the secretary of administration to repay from the general fund, on the date on which this bill becomes law, the outstanding balance of the loan without interest, fully discharging the obligation to repay the loan.

STATE BUILDING PROGRAM

This bill permits DOA to submit a plan to the cochairpersons of JCF and the building commission that provides for consolidating the responsibilities of state agencies relating to capital planning and building construction functions in DOA, to become effective no later than July 1, 1996. The plan may include provision for transfer of full-time equivalent positions relating to capital planning or building construction functions from any state agency to DOA but may not include provision for transfer of any incumbents in positions being transferred. Upon submittal, DOA may implement the plan.

OTHER STATE GOVERNMENT

Transfer of safety and building regulation functions

Under current law, DILHR is responsible for administering and enforcing state laws regulating employment and state laws regulating safety and buildings. DILHR responsibility for state laws regulating safety and buildings includes state laws relating to the following: building codes; fire safety codes; the safety of workplaces and public buildings; the review and approval of certain building plans, plumbing plans, private sewage system plans and swimming pool plans; the licensing of plumbers and automatic fire sprinkler system fitters; the certification of certain inspectors, including building, plumbing and electrical inspectors; energy efficiency standards for rental units; cigarette smoking in certain buildings; petroleum storage tank cleanup; and private sewage system regulation and rehabilitation. Effective July 1, 1996, this bill transfers the responsibility for administering and enforcing state laws regulating safety and buildings from DILHR to the department of development (DOD), renamed the department of commerce by this bill.

Information technology

This bill creates a state information technology investment fund for the purpose of awarding grants to state agencies for information technology development projects. ("Information technology" means electronic processing, storage and transmission of information using data processing and telecommunications.) Under the bill, DOA may award a grant to a state agency from the fund if DOA determines that a project will permit the effective utilization of information technology by the agency and will be consistent with DOA's existing statutory responsibilities to ensure adequate information technology for agencies and to implement a statewide strategic plan for information technology purposes. DOA is directed to accord priority to financing projects that will effect cost savings, avoid future cost increases or enable improved provision of state services.

The fund consists of moneys derived from a contract administration fee that the bill imposes on most state vendors, as well as moneys received from gifts, grants and bequests and existing revenue sources of state agencies. Under the bill, DOA prescribes the amount of the fee by rule. The fee may vary depending upon a vendor's total annual sales volume with the state in the current or preceding fiscal year. The secretary of administration may waive payment of the fee if the secretary determines that a waiver will enhance competition between prospective vendors or that a waiver is otherwise in the best interest of the state.

The bill permits DOA, with notice to JCF, to transfer moneys from most existing appropriations made to state agencies in order to fund an information technology development project in an amount not greater than the estimated total savings to the state, as determined by the secretary of administration, that will accrue from implementation of the project. In addition, the bill permits DOA to advance moneys from the unappropriated balances of program revenue accounts or any segregated fund to temporarily finance an information technology development project for a program financed with program or segregated revenue if insufficient appropriated program revenue or segregated revenue is available to pay for the project.

Finally, the bill appropriates money from the information technology investment fund for the purpose of subsidizing the payment of interest on loans from state trust funds obtained by school districts, technical college districts or consortia consisting of 2 or more of them for the purpose of undertaking a distance education project (employing 2-way interactive telecommunications technology designed to provide access to education regardless of the location of a teacher or student). A subsidy is available only to pay that portion of the interest cost on such a loan generated by the first 2 points of the annual interest rate applicable to that loan. No subsidized loan may be made for a term of more than 5 years.

The bill also creates a division of technology management in DOA, which carries out information technology planning, coordination, development and management functions of DOA, most of which are provided under existing law.

In connection with these functions, the bill transfers administration of the judicial automated information systems from the director of state courts to DOA, to be operated in conjunction with the director of state courts, public defender board and district attorneys. The bill also transfers from the department of justice (DOJ) to DOA the operational responsibility for the transaction information for the management of enforcement system, which provides information to law enforcement agencies concerning law enforcement. Under the bill, DOJ continues to administer the system.

Currently, if a state agency wishes to change the number of authorized full-time equivalent (FTE) positions of the agency funded from program revenue, other than by law or through the budget process, the agency may request the governor to change the number of authorized FTE positions of the agency. The governor may approve the request, subject to the concurrence of JCF.

This bill permits the secretary of administration to transfer FTE positions from state agencies to DOA, together with the incumbents in those positions, for the purpose of providing information technology services to the agencies, without approval of the governor or JCF. The bill requires the secretary to promptly report to the cochairpersons of JCF the numbers and types of any positions transferred under the bill, and the effective date of any position transfer.

The bill also expressly permits DOA to charge agencies for computer services provided to them and appropriates all program revenue received by DOA from state agencies, local governments and private sector entities for the provision of information technology services, to be used for the purpose of providing those services to those agencies, governments and entities.

In addition, the bill permits DOA to submit a plan to the cochairpersons of JCF that provides for consolidating the functions of all state agencies relating to information technology implementation, support and management in DOA, to become effective no later than July 1, 1996. The plan may include provision for transfer of full-time equivalent positions relating to information technology implementation, support and management functions from any state agency to DOA, but may not include provision for transfer of any incumbents in the positions being transferred. Upon submittal, DOA may implement the plan.

Finally, the bill exempts all purchases by the division of technology management from state procurement requirements that include, with certain exceptions, requirements to make most purchases with public notice by bid or competitive sealed proposal, to grant certain preferences to minority-owned businesses and Wisconsin-based businesses and to purchase certain materials and services from prison industries.

This bill requires the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin (UW) System to purchase all computer services from the division of information technology services in DOA unless the division grants written authorization to the board to procure those services under general state procurement procedures, to procure those services from another state agency or to provide those services to itself. Currently, the board is authorized but not required to purchase computer services from the division.

The bill also permits DOA to submit to the cochairpersons of JCF a plan that provides for the transfer, no later than July 1, 1997, of any functions of the board of regents relating to its information technology processing functions to DOA. The plan may not include provision for transfer of any positions or incumbents. Upon submittal, DOA may implement the plan.

Transfer of state document functions

This bill permits DOA to submit a plan to the cochairpersons of JCF that provides for consolidating the responsibilities of state agencies in the executive branch of government primarily related to their document production, reproduction and distribution functions in DOA, to become fully effective no later than July 1, 1997. The plan may include provision for transfer of full-time equivalent positions and incumbents in those positions from any state agency to DOA. If any incumbents are transferred, their rights under civil service and collective bargaining laws are protected. The plan may also include provision for transfer of any such responsibilities from a state agency in the legislative or judicial branch of government to DOA, if the agency requests such a transfer.

The bill also permits the secretary of administration to transfer an amount equal to the savings to the state effected during the 1995-97 fiscal biennium as a result of the centralization of state document production, reproduction or distribution functions in DOA, as determined by the secretary, from any appropriation account of a state agency, other than a sum sufficient appropriation account, that is used to finance these functions to the information technology investment fund, as created by the bill.

Transfer of communications functions

This bill transfers the transmission and engineering functions of the educational communications board (ECB) to DOA. The bill also requires ECB and DOA to enter into an affiliation agreement with the board of regents of the UW System with respect to broadcasting station WHA and WHA-TV. The bill does not transfer any programmatic responsibilities of ECB.

Public records and forms

Under current law, the public records and forms board, attached to DOA, is responsible for preserving for permanent use important state records, providing an orderly method for the disposition of other state records and making the management of forms and records by state agencies more cost-effective. Currently, the public records and forms board also reviews and approves or disapproves most forms generated and used by a state agency in transactions between the agency and the public and receives and investigates, with some exceptions, complaints about forms. Under current law, the public records and forms board consists of the governor, the director of the historical society, the attorney general, the state auditor, a representative of the small business community appointed by the governor, a representative of a newspaper published in this state appointed by the governor, a representative of the permit information center appointed by the secretary of development and the director of the legislative council staff.

This bill transfers the responsibilities with respect to forms from the public records and forms board (renamed the "public records board" under this bill) to DOA, except that the public records board maintains the responsibility for receiving and investigating complaints about forms. The public records board also retains all of its responsibilities with respect to records. Under the bill, the composition of the public records board does not include a representative from a newspaper published in this state or a representative of the permit information center; it includes a local governmental official and one other member, both appointed by the governor.

Currently, public records not stored in hard copy format may be transferred to microfilm or optical disk format only. This bill authorizes state government records to be transferred to or maintained in optical disk or electronic format subject to rules promulgated by DOA.

Transfer of national and community service board

Under current law, the national and community service board consists of 16 voting members who are appointed by the governor to represent various interests. The board is attached to DOA but exercises policy-making functions independently of DOA. The board utilizes federal moneys and moneys that it receives from gifts, grants and bequests to provide assistance to persons who operate service programs that address unmet human, educational, environmental or public safety needs. This bill transfers this board to DILHR, effective on the day the bill becomes law. (Under the bill, DILHR is renamed the department of industry, labor and job development (DILJD) on July 1, 1996). Under the bill, the board is attached to DILHR in the same way that it is currently attached to DOA.

Termination of certain state bodies

This bill requires that, no later than October 1, 1995, each council that is created in the executive branch of state government and each board or commission that is created in or attached to an office, department or independent agency in the executive branch of state government submit to the secretary of administration, the lieutenant governor and the cochairpersons of JCF a report describing its functions and the justification, if any, for continuation of those functions. The bill then directs the secretary and the lieutenant governor to evaluate the information contained in the reports and to consider whether to recommend termination of the council, commission or board. Under the bill, if the secretary or the lieutenant governor determines that a council, commission or board should be terminated, the secretary or the lieutenant governor, or if they both so determine the secretary and the lieutenant governor jointly, must, no later than January 1, 1996, submit proposed legislation to the cochairpersons of JCF providing for such termination effective on July 1, 1996. The bill does not apply to any council, commission or board that is created or terminated under any act of the 1995-96 legislature, regardless of the effective date of that creation or termination.

Department of revenue fees

This bill establishes a registration fee set by DOR by rule for employers who are required to withhold amounts from salaries and wages for the income tax.

Under current law, DOR issues sales tax exemption certificates and reseller's certificates at no charge. Under this bill, DOR, by rule, may prescribe a fee for obtaining those certificates.

Under current law, the fees for obtaining or renewing various permits, licenses and certificates that DOR issues and the term for which they are valid are set by statute. This bill allows DOR, by rule, to prescribe those fees and terms.

Land subdivision regulation

Under current law, a person may not divide a parcel of land into 5 or more lots of 1 1/2 acres or less in area for the purpose of sale or building development (subdivide the land) unless the person has the land surveyed and a plat of the land approved and recorded. The person must also secure the approval of specified local and state agencies. Under current law, the department of agriculture, trade and consumer protection (DATCP) receives plats of proposed subdivisions, distributes copies to other local and state agencies for their review and reviews the plats to determine whether they comply with certain state requirements including those concerning surveying, lot size, street width and format. Under current law, DILHR reviews plats of subdivisions that will not be served by public sewage systems to determine whether they comply with certain requirements.

This bill transfers the responsibilities of DATCP and DILHR relating to the platting of subdivisions to the department of commerce (formerly, DOD) on July 1, 1996.

Termination of privacy council and advocate

Under current law, state and local authorities must develop rules of conduct for employees who are involved in collecting, maintaining, using, providing access to, sharing or archiving information with personally identifiable information (information that can be associated with a particular individual in certain ways). The authorities also must train employees in these matters and verify information collected. There is a 9-member privacy council that appoints and advises a privacy advocate and suggests legislation concerning personal privacy protection policies relating to personally identifiable information. The privacy advocate advocates for state and local government policies that protect personal privacy relating to personally identifiable information collected or maintained by state or local authorities. The advocate provides information to individuals and authorities and assists individuals in exercising their rights in these matters. The advocate may advocate on behalf of any individual before any authority on these matters; review any authority's personally identifiable information policies; and gain access, under certain conditions, to confidential information. This bill abolishes the privacy council and eliminates the position of the privacy advocate.

Medicare supplemental insurance information transfer

Current law requires the board on aging and long-term care (BOALTC) to provide to consumers information and counseling about insurance policies that are available as a supplement to federal medicare insurance coverage, about long-term care insurance and about eligibility requirements for medical assistance. This information and counseling is funded by part of the revenue received from certain fees and costs that the office of the commissioner of insurance (OCI) imposes on insurers.

This bill transfers to OCI from BOALTC on January 1, 1996, the duty of providing information and counseling on medicare supplemental insurance to consumers. The bill eliminates the duty to provide information and counseling about eligibility requirements for medical assistance.

Petroleum inspection

Under current law, DILHR collects the petroleum inspection fee. Under this bill, effective on January 1, 1996, DOR collects that fee.

Under current law, with certain exceptions, DILHR must inspect petroleum products received into this state before the products may be unloaded from their original containers, sold, offered for sale or used. Currently, DILHR is not authorized to perform other petroleum testing services. This bill authorizes DILHR to perform inspections of petroleum products other than the testing that it currently performs, and permits DILHR to establish fees for these petroleum testing services and to use the fee revenues to pay for the cost of these services.

State office space consolidation

Currently, DOA is responsible, subject to the governor's approval, for the leasing, acquisition, allocation and utilization of all real property by the state, except as otherwise provided by law and, specifically, subject to a requirement that DOA lease or acquire office space for the legislature and legislative service agencies at the direction of the joint committee on legislative organization.

This bill directs DOA, with the governor's approval, to require physical consolidation of office space utilized by any state agency having fewer than 50 full-time equivalent positions with office space utilized by another state agency, whenever feasible. The requirement does not apply to the legislature or to legislative service agencies.

Allocation of appropriation reductions

This bill requires the arts board, DATCP, the departments of health and social services, justice and public instruction, and the UW System, to recommend to the governor and JCF how budgetary efficiency measures to produce specified savings in the 1996 and 1997 fiscal years shall be allocated among their departmental general purpose revenue appropriations. The appropriations of each agency are reduced by the specified savings amounts in this bill.

Method of removal of state officers

This bill provides that the method of removal of any state officer is the method that governs the method of appointment for the office that the officer holds under current law, rather than the method that governs the manner of appointment for the officer under the law at the time that he or she was appointed.

State procurement

Currently, with several exceptions, state agencies must publicly advertise proposed purchases and must purchase materials, supplies, equipment or services by means of bidding or competitive sealed proposals from the person submitting the lowest responsible bid or competitive sealed proposal. If the estimated cost of a purchase exceeds $10,000, DOA or any agency to which it delegates purchasing authority must publish 2 advertisements soliciting bids or proposals. Except when printing or stationery is procured, if the estimated cost of a purchase is $10,000 or less, DOA or the agency making the purchase may award an order or contract in accordance with "simplified procedures" established by DOA. Except when printing or stationery is procured, the secretary of administration may, with the approval of the governor, in connection with any purchase, waive requirements for solicitation of bids or proposals, as well as certain other requirements, including requirements to make purchases on the basis of life-cycle costs, requirements to purchase commodities and certain other goods or services from state institutions and requirements to attempt to ensure that certain purchases are made from minority-owned businesses. However, if the estimated cost of such a purchase exceeds $10,000, DOA or the agency making the purchase must publish notice of its intent to make a purchase without soliciting bids or proposals.

The secretary of administration may waive these requirements for purchases of supplies, materials, equipment or contractual services, other than printing or stationery, if the secretary determines that it is in the best interest of the state to do so, in order to permit a purchase to be made from another state, from a county, city, village, town or other governmental body in this state from a regional or national consortium composed of nonprofit institutions that support governmental or educational services.

This bill permits the secretary to waive these requirements, or delegate to a state agency the authority to do so, in order to permit a purchase to be made through a contract established by one of these governmental entities or consortia with one or more 3rd parties.

The bill also increases the threshold for application of all of these laws from $10,000 to $25,000.

Sovereign immunity

Under a portion of the common law, which pursuant to the state constitution is in effect in this state unless modified by the constitution or by act of the legislature, the state has "sovereign immunity". In other words, it is generally not possible to sue the state in state court unless a statute or constitutional provision authorizes the suit to be brought. The state constitution (article IV, section 27) directs the legislature to provide by law the manner in which suits may be brought against the state. There are a number of judicial interpretations which define the boundaries of the sovereign immunity doctrine.

In Bahr v. Investment Board, 186 Wis. 2d 379 (Ct. App. 1984), the state court of appeals held that the state investment board could be sued, notwithstanding sovereign immunity, in part because the statutes provide that it is a "body corporate with power to sue and be sued” and because it is an “independent agency of the state” and its operations are not funded with general purpose revenue.

This bill creates a statute that reasserts the state’s right not to be sued unless suit is expressly authorized to be brought by law or by the constitution. The bill further provides that no powers, functions or source of funding provided by law to any instrumentality of this state that is engaged in a governmental function constitute a waiver of the state’s sovereign immunity to suit. The bill also deletes statutory provisions that provide that certain state agencies may “sue and be sued” and that certain state agencies are a “body corporate” or a “body corporate and politic”. Under judicial interpretations, when suits are otherwise permitted to be brought, an agency may be sued notwithstanding the absence of this language. The bill further deletes the provision stating that the investment board is an “independent agency of the state”.

In addition, the bill clarifies, in accordance with judicial interpretations, that if the legislature refuses to allow a claim against the state, suit may be brought only if suit is authorized to be brought (i.e., sovereign immunity does not apply).

Finally, the bill provides that the reassertion of sovereign immunity by the state is intended as a restatement of existing law.

False representations affecting elections

Currently, no person may knowingly make or publish, or cause to be made or published, a false representation pertaining to a candidate or referendum that is intended or tends to affect voting at an election. Violators are subject to a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than 6 months or both. The state elections board is required to accept from any person a complaint alleging a violation of this and other prohibited election practices, except that the board need not investigate a complaint that is not verified (sworn) or that the board finds to be without merit. Prosecutions may be initiated by the appropriate district attorney or, in certain cases, by the attorney general.

This bill provides that the current penalty for violating the false representation statute applies only in situations where the violator acts intentionally. The bill makes violators subject, in addition, to a forfeiture (civil penalty) not exceeding $500 for each violation in which criminal intent is not proven. The bill permits the elections board to initiate civil prosecutions where a violation concerns an election for state office or a statewide referendum, and to compromise and settle prosecutions and proposed prosecutions. The bill also requires the elections board to investigate and make a public statement concerning the truthfulness of any alleged false representation within 15 days of receipt by the board of a verified complaint alleging a violation of the law, unless the board finds the complaint to be without merit.

Campaign finance and lobbying regulation fees

This bill imposes an annual filing fee of $100 upon individuals, committees and groups registered with the elections board that are subject to a campaign finance reporting requirement, other than individuals who or committees or groups that do not make expenditures exceeding $1,000 within a calendar year. The fee is utilized for the general program operations of the elections board.

Currently, the general program operations of the elections board are financed with general purpose revenue and no fees are imposed upon campaign finance registrants.

Currently, with certain exceptions, a lobbyist who desires to act on behalf of a principal to attempt to influence legislative action or state administrative rule making must obtain a license from the state ethics board, for which there is a biennial fee of $200. The license entitles a lobbyist to act on behalf of any number of principals. With certain exceptions, a principal must file an authorization statement with the board for each lobbyist who is authorized to act on behalf of the principal, for which there is a biennial fee of $100. With certain exceptions, each principal who retains one or more lobbyists to act on its behalf must also file a registration statement with the board, for which there is a biennial fee of $300.

This bill increases the biennial fee for a license to act as a lobbyist to $250 if one principal is represented and $400 if more than one principal is represented. The bill also increases the biennial fee for filing an authorization statement to $125 and the biennial fee for registration of a principal to $375.

Grant application processing fees

This bill directs DOA to process applications of state agencies for federal grants. The bill also authorizes DOA to assess to an agency for which it processes an application a fee for the expenses that DOA incurs in providing this service. The bill appropriates to DOA all moneys received by DOA from collections of these fees for the purpose of financing the cost of processing the applications.

Transfer of consumer protection functions

This bill requires DOA, no later than April 1, 1995, to submit to JCF legislation transferring consumer protection functions from DOJ to DATCP.

TAXATION

INCOME TAXATION

For taxable years beginning before January 1, 1994, the calculation of the Wisconsin earned income tax credit (EITC) was based on the federal basic EITC (based on the number of "qualifying children" that a claimant has).

Under current law, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1994, the Wisconsin EITC is decoupled from the federal credit and is calculated as a percentage of the claimant's federal adjusted gross income and is also based on the number of qualifying children that the claimant has. The credit is refundable, such that the amount of the claim that exceeds the claimant's tax liability that was not used to offset taxes that are due is paid to the claimant by check.

This bill creates a new method of calculating the credit. Under the bill, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1995, and within certain guidelines, the department of revenue (DOR) determines the amount of a credit that may be claimed, based on a percentage of the federal EITC for which the claimant is eligible. The total amount that may be paid for all eligible claims is $60,300,000 in 1996 and $65,800,000 in 1997.

Under current law, the top marginal rate of income taxation for single individuals, certain fiduciaries and heads of households is 6.93% of all taxable income exceeding $15,000. For married persons filing jointly, the top rate is 6.93% of all taxable income exceeding $20,000 and for married persons filing separately, the top rate is 6.93% of all taxable income exceeding $10,000.

For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1996, this bill changes the top marginal rate for all individuals, certain fiduciaries, heads of households and married persons to 6.87%, but the tax brackets remain unchanged.

Under current law, a school property tax credit may be claimed by certain individuals and is calculated as an amount of up to 10% of the first $2,000 of property taxes paid, or rent constituting property taxes that is paid. The credit is nonrefundable, meaning that the amount of the credit that may be claimed may equal, but may not exceed, the amount of income taxes for which the claimant would otherwise be liable.

Under this bill the credit that may be claimed, generally, is calculated as an amount of up to a percentage equal to the current top marginal individual income tax rate for individual filers multiplied by the first $2,000 of property taxes paid, or rent constituting property taxes that is paid.

OTHER TAXATION

This bill discontinues any property tax exemption that may be available to an organization that offers a health maintenance organization (HMO) plan or a limited service health organization (LSHO) plan (2 types of fixed payment health insurance plans). The bill also discontinues any income or franchise tax exemption that may be applied to income derived by an organization from a HMO or LSHO plan.

This bill discontinues the sales tax exemption for telephone companies' central office equipment.

Under current law, car line companies (companies that lease railroad cars to railroads) are taxed on the basis of their gross earnings. Under this bill, they are instead taxed on the basis of the value of their equipment. The bill also discontinues the tax on sleeping car companies (companies that lease only certain kinds of railroad cars to railroads).

Under current law, DOR may collect from persons who owe delinquent taxes, fees, interest or penalties a fee of $25 or 4.5% of the amount owed, whichever is greater, for each of the person's delinquent accounts. Under this bill, the fee is $35 or 6.5% of the amount owed, whichever is greater.

Under current law, all corporations and insurers that are required to file an income tax or franchise tax return are required to pay a temporary recycling surcharge. Under this bill, all corporations and insurers that are required to file an income tax or franchise tax return and that have at least $4,000 in total receipts from all activities for the taxable year are required to pay the temporary recycling surcharge.

TRANSPORTATION

Under current law, the office of the commissioner of railroads (OCR) regulates railroad activities in Wisconsin. This bill eliminates OCR, effective July 1, 1996, and provides for the elimination or transfer of its functions as follows:

1. OCR is currently authorized to regulate railroads to prevent "unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory" rates and inadequate services within the state. The bill eliminates this authority.

2. Currently, before constructing any new track in the state, a railroad must have a certificate, which is issued by OCR only after a hearing and a finding of "public convenience and necessity". Under this bill, the certificate is issued by the department of transportation (DOT), the hearing is discretionary and the public convenience and necessity standard is abolished.

3. Under current law, OCR may order railroads to install protective devices at crossings or make other safety improvements and may determine the type of grade crossing used where a railroad intersects a street or another railroad. This bill transfers this authority to DOT and authorizes DOT to issue orders in these matters without a hearing, based on investigation and application of safety, programming and cost allocation criteria promulgated by rule. The bill provides for review of DOT orders in these matters by the division of hearings and appeals in the department of administration.

4. OCR is currently assigned various other functions relating to railroads. In most cases, those regulatory functions not eliminated in the bill are transferred to DOT and functions having the character of contested case resolution are transferred to the division. The bill requires the division to give due weight to the experience, technical competence and specialized knowledge of DOT in transportation hearings and reviews.

5. The bill transfers certain functions of OCR relating to railroad organization to the department of revenue (DOR).

VETERANS AND MILITARY AFFAIRS

Current law allows the department of veterans affairs (DVA), subject to building commission approval, to construct and operate veterans cemeteries in northwestern and southeastern Wisconsin. This bill allows a veteran who died while on active duty, and his or her children and surviving spouse who has not remarried, who were residents of this state at the time of their deaths, to be buried in these cemeteries. The bill also allows a veteran who was discharged or released from active duty under conditions other than dishonorable, and the veteran's children and spouse who has not remarried, who were residents at the time of their deaths, to be buried at these cemeteries.

This bill increases from $4,500 to $5,000 the maximum economic assistance loan that DVA may grant to a veteran for the purchase of a business, the construction of a garage, the education of the veteran or his or her children or to provide essential economic assistance.

Under current law, a veteran is eligible for reimbursement for some of the costs related to correspondence courses and part-time study taken within the state from educational institutions that meet certain federal requirements. Under limited circumstances, a veteran may receive reimbursement for a course taken outside the state from an educational institution that is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools or an equivalent accrediting association. Under this bill, the same criteria apply for out-of-state schools and in-state schools (educational institutions that meet certain federal requirements).

Under current law, a county with a full-time county veterans' service officer is eligible for a state grant of up to $5,000. If the county has a part-time county veterans' service officer the maximum grant is $500. This bill provides grants to counties for full-time county veterans' service officers composed of production incentive awards and basic awards. The bill requires DVA to promulgate rules regarding the production incentive awards. The basic awards must be based on the population of the county, with the smallest counties receiving a grant of $8,500 and the largest counties eligible for a grant of $13,000. The grants for part-time county veterans' service officers are unchanged.

Under current law, a veteran is eligible to receive up to $3,000 for retraining to obtain gainful employment. A veteran is eligible if he or she is enrolled in an institution of higher education or enrolled in an on-the-job training program, meets financial assistance criteria, is unemployed or has received a notice of loss of employment and DVA has determined that the veteran's retraining program could result in gainful employment. This bill adds veterans who are underemployed to those veterans who are eligible to apply for a retraining grant.

This bill raises the general obligation bonding authority for the veterans mortgage loan program by $170,000,000.

This bill increases the minimum amount that state veterans organizations receive for providing claims services for veterans from $2,500 to $5,000 and the maximum amount from $15,000 to $20,000. The bill also permits DVA to make additional payments to these organizations based on the percentage of initial claims filed with the U.S. department of veterans affairs.

Currently, a national guard member may submit an application for a tuition grant no later than 6 months after completion of a course. Under this bill, a national guard member must submit an application for a grant within 90 days after completion of the course. The bill also reduces the tuition grant from 50% of the actual tuition to 40% of the actual tuition. In addition, the bill requires DVA to sell the national guard armory located in Whitefish Bay in Milwaukee County and use the proceeds from the sale to provide tuition grants to national guard members equal to 10% of the actual tuition paid by the members.

Currently, the national guard receives money from the transportation fund to provide, at the direction of the governor, emergency medical services and helicopter transportation for persons involved in accidents. This bill eliminates that program.

This bill will be referred to the joint survey committee on tax exemptions for a detailed analysis, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

This bill will be referred to the joint survey committee on retirement systems for a detailed analysis, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
