AN ACT to renumber 961.14 (5) (a); and to create 961.14 (5) (ag) of the statutes;

relating to: making gamma hydroxybutyrate a controlled substance.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Current law places various restrictions on controlled substances (dangerous drugs). The substances are regulated based on their schedule designations. The legislature by law or the controlled substances board by rule places a controlled substance in schedule I, II, III, IV or V based on the substance's accepted medical use and the potential for abuse of the substance. Schedule I includes substances that have a high potential for abuse, do not have a currently accepted medical use in treatment in the United States and lack accepted safety for use in treatment under medical supervision. Because schedule I controlled substances have no currently accepted medical use, they generally cannot be manufactured, possessed or used except for such limited activities as scientific research or instruction.

Current law provides penalties for unlawful acts relating to controlled substances in schedule I. Generally, the penalty for unlawful manufacture, distribution or delivery of a schedule I controlled substance or unlawful possession of a schedule I controlled substance with intent to manufacture, distribute or deliver is a fine of not more than $15,000 or imprisonment for not more than 5 years or both. The penalty for unlawful possession of schedule I controlled substances is usually a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than 30 days or both. (Current law provides different penalties for unlawful acts relating to certain schedule I controlled substances, such as narcotic drugs, various hallucinogens and marijuana.) In addition, a person who is convicted of delivering or distributing a schedule I controlled substance, or possessing a schedule I controlled substance with intent to distribute or deliver, in certain places (such as within 1,000 feet of a jail or prison, a park or a school or on a public transit vehicle), will be subject to certain minimum penalties or certain penalty enhancers or both.

This bill makes gamma hydroxybutyrate (GHB), which is a central nervous system depressant, a schedule I controlled substance. GHB is not currently included in any of the schedules of controlled substances. As a schedule I controlled substance, the unlawful manufacture, delivery, distribution or possession of GHB will be subject to the general penalties provided under current law for schedule I controlled substances other than narcotic drugs, various hallucinogens and marijuana.
