Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill provides new general purpose revenue funding for the address confidentiality program operated by the Department of Justice. Under current law, DOJ's address confidentiality program, known as "Safe at Home," provides certain victims of domestic abuse with a substitute legal address that can be used for both public and private purposes so that the victim's home address can remain confidential.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
