Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill modifies the degree requirements for a local health officer of a Level III local health department. Local health departments are operated by towns, villages, cities, and counties for certain public health objectives. A Level III local health department must perform all of the duties required of Level I and II local health departments as well as certain additional duties, including public health data collection and administration of an environmental health program. Local health officers administer local health departments; enforce public health statutes, rules, and regulations; administer funds for public health programs; and appoint personnel.

Under current law, in order to be a local health officer of a Level III local health department, an individual must meet one of several combinations of educational, licensure, and experiential requirements. Among these combinations are 1) a master's degree in public health, public administration, health administration, or a similar field plus three years of experience or 2) a master's degree in public health, public administration, health administration, or a similar field plus a license to practice medicine and surgery. The bill modifies these requirements so that an individual is eligible to be a local health officer of a Level III local health department if that individual has a master's or a doctoral degree in public health, public administration, health administration, or a similar field plus three years of experience or a license to practice medicine and surgery.

For further information, see the NOTES provided by the Law Revision Committee of the Joint Legislative Council.
