

CASA Impact Report

The Need for CASA

The Wisconsin Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) Association champions the needs of abused and neglected children by supporting and expanding local CASA programs.

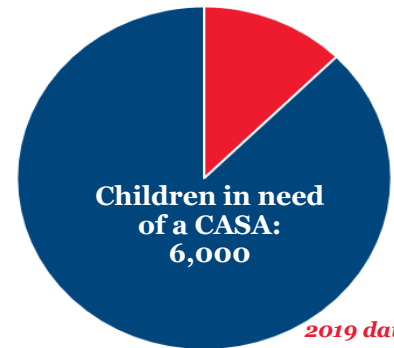

CASA Advocates are trained volunteers appointed by a judge to advocate for a child, or sibling group, who are in the child welfare system. CASA's visit their assigned child for one hour each week to get to know the child and their situation, which also offers an additional layer of child safety.

The need for CASA programs is clear. In 2019, more than 7,000 Wisconsin children were eligible for a CASA. Unfortunately, only 1,000 children were served because 60 of Wisconsin's 72 counties do not have a CASA program.

*Blue counties have existing CASA programs.
Red counties are projected to have programs in 2020 or 2021.*

Wisconsin children Served by a CASA: 1,000

The Wisconsin CASA Association is working diligently to support current and future local programs so the 6,000 unserved children receive an Advocate.

What Sets CASA Apart

How is CASA different? Here's what sets us apart:

- ◇ CASA requires volunteers to receive specialized training before they are appointed by a judge to become an Advocate and serve a child. The initial training is over 30 hours, followed by 12 hours of continuing education yearly. This ensures Advocates receive the latest training and resources to best serve children.
- ◇ CASA Advocates are supervised by professional staff.

- ◇ Trained Advocates are sworn officers of the court, reporting to the judge who is overseeing the child's case; sharing the child's wishes. The Advocate continues meeting with the child until their case is closed.
- ◇ While social workers, foster parents and kinship may change, an Advocates' consistent presence is felt, leaving a positive, lasting impact on the child.
- ◇ CASA works. Studies show that children with a CASA do better in school and spend less time in the child welfare system.

How We Support Local Programs

The Wisconsin CASA Association supports and expands local CASA programs throughout the state, ensuring all state programs have an efficient model to recruit volunteers and serve as many children as possible.

Among the many resources provided to local programs are:

- ◇ Wisconsin CASA portal; an online system for communication between local programs, sharing best practices, collecting data and sending out monthly newsletters.

- ◇ CASA C.L.A.S.S. (CASA's Learning for Advocates, Staff and Supporters); a customized online continuing education platform.
- ◇ One-on-one training and coaching; collaboration with other local programs to share ideas and best practices.
- ◇ Specialized education opportunities for Advocate trainers.
- ◇ On-going statewide awareness campaign.
- ◇ Wisconsin CASA meets with local, state and federal legislators to educate them on the CASA mission; and facilitates interagency collaborations.

These efforts led to increased state funding from Assembly Bill 786, which helped establish two new local CASA programs serving three counties in 2020. Expansion into eight new counties is projected through 2021.

My Stuff, My Bag

Imagine being a child in foster care, moving from home to home with just a few possessions. Many of these children carry their possessions in a garbage bag. Wisconsin CASA is changing that.

My Stuff, My Bag provides CASA children with a suitcase filled with comfort items and necessities, including:

- Pillow
- Blanket
- Stuffed animal
- Pajamas
- Socks
- Underwear
- Toothbrush/paste
- Shampoo/conditioner

With support from the Packers Give Back Celebrity Bowling Event, this program began in June 2019.

One of the suitcases was given to a little boy who had been removed from his family of origin. The boy did not want any of his personal possessions because they triggered bad memories of his life at home.

When he received his My Stuff, My Bag suitcase, the Foster mom saw the boy smile for the first time.

Wisconsin CASA hopes to bring this positivity to every Wisconsin child removed from their family of origin. To learn more about the initiative and how to donate, visit: www.wisconsin-casa.org

Challenges to Serving More Children

1 local program staff member

Supports up to 30 volunteers

Who serve up to 75 children

While there's promise that these numbers can change quickly (as there was a 30% increase in children served from 2017 to 2019), there are existing challenges and barriers to developing fully functioning local CASA programs throughout the state. They include:

- ◆ Not enough staff to supervise additional Advocates, causing waiting lists for children.
- ◆ Right now, 11 counties are waiting to develop a new program.
- ◆ Children in out-of-home placements for longer periods of time due to addiction epidemic (opioid, heroin, meth, etc.).
- ◆ Lack of funding to build capacity in existing local programs as well as funding to launch new local programs in unserved counties.
- ◆ Time constraints: It takes about 18 months to start a new CASA program.

Additional funding would provide more resources that would decrease the timeline to develop more programs and serve more children sooner.

A New Model of Effectiveness

CASA makes a difference, not only in the lives of the children who have an Advocate, but also on the financial impact for counties and the state. Investing in CASA saves thousands of dollars in child welfare costs.

Wisconsin CASA has developed a new, cost-effective regional model to serve more children in an efficient and fiscally responsible manner.

Under the new model, one local program director will oversee multiple counties; reducing overhead costs, saving thousands of dollars per child, per year.

This allows more children to be served by Advocates for less money.

Children in the court system who have a CASA ultimately spend less time in the system and find permanency faster than without a CASA. On average, each child with a CASA spends 1.8 months less in out-of-home care than a child without a CASA.* The median length of time a child is placed in out of home care in Wisconsin is just over 400 days, so CASA saves, on average $1,805 per child annually.**

One Caring Adult = A Child Who Sees a Future

A Wisconsin CASA Advocate was paired with a teenage girl who would be aging out of foster care in the coming year. The young lady had been a part of the child welfare system for years, and knew she needed help getting out of a dark place emotionally.

Over the course of a year, her Advocate met with her, listened to her and encouraged her to stay in school and accomplish her goals. Each time they met, the Advocate brought her a motivational quote on a post-it note.

That small act, and the Advocate's belief in the teen, made a major difference. The teen kept all of the post-its in a notebook as inspiration and started showing progress in school.

The Advocate took her on college tours and helped her complete her college applications.

She was accepted into a 4-year college and plans to major in social work so she can help children like herself in the future. She credits her Advocate for showing her good people exist; even when her hope was lost.
