CHAPTER 990

CONSTRUCTION OF STATUTES

990.001 Construction of laws; rules for. In construing Wisconsin laws the following rules shall be observed unless construction in accordance with a rule would produce a result inconsistent with the manifest intent of the legislature:

(1) SINGULAR AND PLURAL. The singular includes the plural, and the plural includes the singular.

(2) GENDER. Words importing one gender extend and may be applied to any gender. Any person who by statute, rule or ordinance is designated a chairman, alderman or other similar title may use another equivalent title such as, in the case of a chairman, “chair”, “chairperson”, “chairwoman” or other such appropriate title.

(3) TENSES. The present tense of a verb includes the future when applicable. The future perfect tense includes past and future tenses.

(4) TIME, HOW COMPUTED. (a) The time within which an act is to be done or proceeding had or taken shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last; and when any such time is expressed in hours the whole of Sunday and of any legal holiday, from midnight to midnight, shall be excluded.

(b) If the last day within which an act is to be done or proceeding had or taken falls on a Sunday or legal holiday the act may be done or the proceeding had or taken on the next secular day.

(c) When the last day within which a proceeding is to be had or taken is a legal holiday, the provisions of any session law are severable. If any provision of the statutes, the reference includes both the first and last number mentioned.

(d) Regardless of whether the time limited in any statute for the taking of any proceeding or the doing of an act is measured from an event or from the date or day on which such event occurs, the day on which such event took place shall be excluded in the computation of such time.

(e) “Legal holiday” as used in this section means any statewide legal holiday provided in s. 995.20. When an act is permitted to be done by the use of the postal service, and the last day within the time prescribed by law for performing such act falls on a legal public holiday under federal law, or other holiday designated by the president such that the postal service does not receive registered mail or make regular deliveries on that day, the day shall be considered a legal holiday for purposes of this section.

(5) STATUTORY REFERENCES. (a) If a statute refers, by number, to a group of chapters, sections, subsections or paragraphs of the statutes, the reference includes both the first and the last numbers mentioned.

(b) When a decimal–numbered statute of this state contains a reference to another decimal–numbered statute of this state, the reference is to the current text of the statute referenced, and includes any changes that have been inserted into and any interpretation or construction that has been adopted with respect to the referenced statute since the reference was first incorporated into the statute, whether or not the referenced statute is a general, specific, substantive or procedural statute. When a decimal–numbered statute refers to another decimal–numbered statute in a specific prior edition of the Wisconsin statutes, the reference does not include subsequent changes to the statute referenced.

6) STATUTE TITLES AND HISTORY NOTES. The titles to subchapters, chapters, sections, subsections, paragraphs and subdivisions of the statutes and history notes are not part of the statutes.

7) CONSTRUCTION OF REVISED STATUTES. A revised statute is to be understood in the same sense as the original unless the change in language indicates a different meaning so clearly as to preclude judicial construction. If the revision bill contains a note which says that the meaning of the statute to which the note relates is not changed by the revision, the note is indicative of the legislative intent.

8) JOINT AUTHORITY, HOW EXERCISED. All words purporting to give a joint authority to 3 or more public officers or other persons shall be construed as giving such authority to a majority of such officers or other persons.

8m) QUORUM. A quorum of a public body is a majority of the number of members fixed by law.

9) ACTS BY AGENTS. If a statute requires an act to be done which may legally be done by an agent, such requirement includes all such acts when done by an authorized agent.

10) LIABILITY OF SURETIES. If an officer is liable on his or her official bond for any act, the sureties on the officer’s bond are also liable.

11) SEVERABILITY. The provisions of the statutes are severable. The provisions of any session law are severable. If any provision of the statutes or of a session law is invalid, or if the application of either to any person or circumstance is invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application.

12) TIME. When time is referred to, the standard of time as provided by s. 175.09 or 175.095, whichever is applicable, is meant.

13) REGISTERED AND CERTIFIED MAIL. Except in s. 345.09, whenever the statutes authorize or require the use of registered mail, and do not require a return receipt of the addressee only, certified mail may be used if a sender’s receipt is obtained from the postal authorities and return receipt is requested. If a return receipt signed by addressee only is required, registered mail must be used.

14) STATUTORY REFERENCE TO NUMERICAL SERIES. If a statute refers to a numerical series such as 1 to 10, the reference includes both the first and last number mentioned.

15) STATUTORY REFERENCE TO A CLASS OF CITY. If a statute refers to a class of city specified under s. 62.05 (1), such reference

(17) LIVE BIRTH OR CIRCUMSTANCE OF BEING BORN ALIVE. (a) An individual who undergoes a live birth is born alive.

(b) If a statute or rule refers to a live birth or to the circumstance in which an individual is born alive, the statute or rule shall be construed so that whoever undergoes a live birth as the result of an abortion, as defined in s. 253.10 (2) (a), has the same legal status and legal rights as a human being at any point after the human being undergoes a live birth as the result of natural or induced labor or a cesarean section.

(c) Paragraphs (a) and (b) may not be construed to affirm, deny, expand, or contract a legal status or legal right that is applicable to a human being at any point before the human being undergoes a live birth.

NOTE: Chapter 89, laws of 1979, which created sub. (5) (b), contains a prefatory note by the legislative council that includes a discussion on cross-references. Cross-reference: As to sub. (4), see s. 801.15 for exception as to computation of time. Also see s. 895.09 (2).

Unless a statute is so vague and uncertain that it is impossible to execute it or to ascertain the legislative intent with reasonable certainty, it is valid. Forest Home Dodge, Inc. v. Karns, 29 Wis. 2d 78, 138 N.W.2d 214 (1966).

When the legislature enacts a statute, which through clerical error, refers to, and by its terms amends, a preexisting statute that had earlier in the same legislative session been renumbered, and there is no issue as to the legislative intent and no doubt that correcting the clerical error in numbering is the only means of having the statute serve the purpose intended, a court is duty bound to rectify the error and substitute the right number for the wrong number used in the statute. State ex rel. Gutbrod v. Wolke, 49 Wis. 2d 736, 183 N.W.2d 161 (1971).

The general rule is that a specific penalty prescribed by a special statute for a particular offense takes precedence over a general provision in a penal code. State ex rel. Gutbrod v. Wolke, 49 Wis. 2d 736, 183 N.W.2d 161 (1971).

If a statute imposes a punishment for the commission of an act, that is sufficient to make the act a crime. State ex rel. Gutbrod v. Wolke, 49 Wis. 2d 736, 183 N.W.2d 161 (1971).

Statutory construction requires that a law be construed so that no word or clause is surplusage. Johnson v. State, 49 Wis. 2d 736, 183 N.W.2d 776 (1979).

When a statute is written in objective terms not susceptible to more than one meaning, the subjective intent of lawmakers is not controlling. State v. Derenne, 306 N.W.2d 12 (1981).

A sender’s receipt need not be postmarked. Trojan v. Board of Regents, 104 Wis. 2d 338, 309 N.W.2d 3 (Ct. App. 1985).

Registered mail serves the purpose of certified mail to an even greater degree. Paterson v. Board of Regents, 103 Wis. 2d 529, 309 N.W.2d 3 (Ct. App. 1985).

When a limitation period would otherwise expire on a legal holiday, s. 990.001 (4) (b) permits commencement of the action on the next secular day. Cusimier v. Satter, 88 Wis. 2d 654, 277 N.W.2d 776 (1979).

When a statute is written in objective terms not susceptible to more than one meaning, the subjective intent of lawmakers is not controlling. State v. Derenne, 102 Wis. 2d 38, 306 N.W.2d 12 (1981).

CONSTRUCTION OF STATUTES 990.01

An unconstitutional clause was severable under sub. (11). Wis. Wine & Spirit Institute v. Levy, 141 Wis. 2d 958, 416 N.W.2d 914 (Ct. App. 1987).

Generally, legislation is presumptively prospective unless statutory language reverses the basic rule of construction that statutes apply retroactively. Procedural or representative statutes are not subject to such scrutiny. However, substantive than statutes, statutes are generally given retroactive effect unless contracts would be impaired or vested rights disturbed. Statutes of limitations are substantive.

Subs. (a) (d) and (e) apply to statutes of limitations; the day upon which a cause of action accrues is not included in computing the period of limitation. Pafaul v. Williamson 238 Wis. 2d 567, 605 N.W.2d 738 (1999).

It is presumed that the legislature knows the case law in existence at the time it changes a statute. When a legislative act has been construed by an appellate court, the legislature is presumed to know that in the absence of new legislation, changing the law, the court’s interpretation will remain unchanged. Blazekovic v.
City of Milwaukee, 225 Wis. 2d 837, 593 N.W.2d 809 (Ct. App. 1999), 1981−21.

In the construction of statutes, construction to ascertain legislative intent when the legislation is clear on its face. Jones v. State, 226 Wis. 2d 655, 594 N.W.2d 738 (1999), 97−306.

Resort to a dictionary may be made to ascertain the common and ordinary usage of an undefined term. Resort to a dictionary does not render a term ambiguous.
by statute. Resort to a dictionary may be made to ascertain the common and ordinary meanings of statutes must be construed liberally to achieve a determination of the merits of the controversy if possible. DOT v. Peterson, 220 Wis. 2d 211, 582 N.W.2d 245 (1998), 234 Wis. 2d 191.

The statutes contain thousands upon thousands of nouns, very few of which are expressio unius est exclusio alterius. However, it is permissible to apply rules of statutory construction to ascertain legislative intent when the words “and” and “or” are used incorrectly, and that when a strict reading would render the sense dubious one may be read in the place of the other, in deference to the meaning of the context. State v. Freer, 2010 WI App 9 523 Wis. 2d 641, 779 N.W.2d 12, 06−2551.

The Legislative Reference Bureau’s analysis of a bill is printed with and displayed on the bill when it is introduced in the legislature; as such, it is indicative of legislative intent. State v. Freer, 2010 WI App 9, 523 Wis. 2d 641, 779 N.W.2d 12, 06−2551.
Whenever the application of a common law doctrine or rule would undermine the manifest purposes of a statutory cause of action, the conflict between the statutory purpose and the common law defense “leaves no doubt of the legislature’s intent.” In a case of such apparent incompatibility, the legislature necessarily intended that the common law defense would not be applied to bar claims under the statute. State v. Reitter, 236 Wis. 2d 263, 619 N.W.2d 123 (1999), 06−2024.

The rule of strict construction of penal statutes does not apply unless a statute is ambiguous, and the rule cannot be used to circumvent the purpose of the statute.
The rule means that only general or universal application is permissible. Sometimes the intent of the legislature is hampered by the rule that a statute is ambiguous when used more than necessary without intending to add meaning. Wisconsin Realtors Association
v. City of Green Bay, 2000 WI App 58, 235 Wis. 2d 384, 618 N.W.2d 632, 15−0438.

Although courts may not look to legislative history to show that an unambiguous statute is ambiguous, it is not true that the legislature cannot be required to use software. 60 Atty. Gen. 411.

The use of the definite article “the” in front of the second use of a phrase makes the phrase specific and not ambiguous. When a specific exception is made, it implies that no other exceptions are intended. See Schuh v. Schuh, 2018 WI 10 379 Wis. 2d 638, 890 N.W.2d 15, 06−2519.

The general rule is that the word “shall” is presumed mandatory when it appears in the statute. Kalal v. City of Milwaukee, 2000 WI App 78, 234 Wis. 2d 293, 612 N.W.2d 216, 890 N.W.2d 15, 06−2519.

When words are associated, they generally should ordinarily be understood in the same general sense. State ex rel. Speener v. Guadmansen, 2000 WI App 78, 234 Wis.
2d 293, 612 N.W.2d 216, 890 N.W.2d 15, 06−2519.

Although a court will not look beyond a statute’s plain meaning, it does consider its parts in relation to the whole statute and related sections. Dubis v. General Motors Corporation, 2000 WI App 209, 238 Wis. 2d 608, 618 N.W.2d 632, 15−0438.

Statutes and rules that assist in implementing a chapter’s goals must be read in pari materia, which requires a court to read, apply, and construe together statutes relating to the same subject matter. Perry v. Menomonee Mutual Insurance Co. 2000 WI App 215, 239 Wis. 2d 26, 619 N.W.2d 123, 00−0184.

The principal of expressio unius est exclusio alterius provides that the express meaning of one phrase excludes other similar phrases not mentioned. The mention of specific alternatives in a statute is evidence of legislative intent that any alternative not enumerated is to be excluded. Perry v. Menomonee Mutual Insurance Co. 2000 Wis. App 215, 239 Wis. 2d 26, 619 N.W.2d 123, 00−0184.

When related statutes were not created at the same time, the fact that the older state specifically lists certain powers does not necessarily mean that the legislation intended a broader scope, later enacted statute to be thus limited. To be limited by the earlier statute, there must be some evidence that the legislature intended its appli-

By expressing a time requirement in terms of hours rather than days, the legislate manifests its intent that the clock start running immediately rather than the next day, and is subject to the “first−day” rule of sub. (4) (a) and (d) does not apply. (a) and (d) does not apply. Subsection (6) provides that a title to a statute is not part of the statute. A title may not be used to alter the meaning of a statute or create an ambiguity where no ambiguity exists.
Noffke v. Bakke, 2009 WI App 239, 238 Wis. 2d 26, 619 N.W.2d 123, 06−1866.

The legislature has a history of using “and” when the context shows it means “or.”
And in statutes is not always interpreted as a conjunctive term. It is a familiar rule of construction that the words “or” and “and” are used inconsistently and that when a strict reading would render the sense dubious one may be read in the other, in deference to the meaning of the context. State v. Freer, 2010 WI App 9, 523
Wis. 2d 641, 779 N.W.2d 12, 06−2551.

There is no absolute rule against construing two different terms within a statute to have the same meaning. Cramer v. Kau Clause County, 2013 WI App 67, 348 Wis.
2d 154, 833 N.W.2d 172, 12−1796.

The Saturday extension rule in sub. (4) (c) applies to the listed acts, including those acts that do not have an effective date. The act is accomplished in person, by mail, or by some other means. The statutory language does condition the Saturday extension rule on whether service can be accomplished on a Saturday. Madison Meropolitan School District v. Evers, 2018 WI App 75, 325 Wis. 2d 145, 06−1369.

The conflict between 2 statutes, they will be read to avoid the conflict if a reasonable construction is permitted. Providence Catholic School v. Bristol School District No. 1, 231 Wis. 2d 159, 605 N.W.2d 238 (Ct. App. 1999), 98−3390.

The rule of strict construction of penal statutes does not apply unless a statute is ambiguous, and the rule cannot be used to circumvent the purpose of the statute. The rule means that only general or universal application is permissible. Sometimes the intent of the legislature is hampered by the rule that a statute is ambiguous when used more than necessary without intending to add meaning. Ghiardi, 64 MLR 575 (1981).

The statutes contain thousands upon thousands of nouns, very few of which are applicable definition depends upon the context in which the word is used. Kalal v.
County Dane, 2004 WI 58, 271 Wis. 2d 633, 681 N.W.2d 110, 02−3796.

The express purpose of construction that the statutes apply retroactively. Procedural or representative statutes are not subject to such scrutiny. However, substantive than statutes, statutes are generally given retroactive effect unless contracts would be impaired or vested rights disturbed. Statutes of limitations are substantive.

Subs. (a) (d) and (e) apply to statutes of limitations; the day upon which a cause

990.03 CONSTRUCTION OF STATUTES

(4) The repeal, express or implied, of any law already repealed, expressly or by implication, does not constitute or supply a declaration or implication that such law was in force or was valid for any purpose at any time subsequent to such prior repeal.

990.04 Actions pending not defeated by repeal of statute.

The repeal of a statute hereafter shall not remit, defeat or impair any civil or criminal liability for offenses committed, penalties or forfeitures incurred or rights of action accrued under such statute before the repeal thereof, whether or not in course of prosecution or action at the time of such repeal; but all such offenses, penalties, forfeitures and rights of action created by or founded on such statute, liability wherefor shall have been incurred before the time of such repeal thereof, shall be preserved and remain in force notwithstanding such repeal, unless specially and expressly remitted, abrogated or done away with by the repealing statute. And criminal prosecutions and actions at law or in equity founded on such repealed statute, whether instituted before or after the repeal thereof, shall not be defeated or impaired by such repeal but shall, notwithstanding such repeal, proceed to judgment in the same manner and to the like purpose and effect as if the repealed statute continued in full force to the time of final judgment thereon, unless the offenses, penalties, forfeitures or rights of action on which such prosecutions or actions shall be founded shall be specially and expressly remitted, abrogated or done away with by such repealing statute.

This section also applies to statutes that are amended after the commission of an alleged criminal act although before trial.

990.06 Repeal or change of law limiting time for bringing actions.

In any case when a limitation or period of time prescribed in any act which shall be repealed for the acquiring of any right, or barring of any remedy, or for any other purpose shall have begun to run before such repeal and the repealing act shall provide any limitation or period of time for such purpose, such latter limitation or period shall apply only to such rights or remedies as shall accrue subsequently to the time when the repealing act shall take effect, and the act repealed shall be held to continue in force and be operative to determine all such limitations and periods of time which shall have previously begun to run unless such repealing act shall otherwise expressly provide.

Generally, legislation is presumptively prospective unless statutory language reveals an intent that the statute apply retroactively. Procedural or remedial, rather than substantive, statutes are generally given retrospective effect unless contracts would be impaired or vested rights disturbed. Statutes of limitations are substantive. Beithauser v. Medical Protective Co. 172 Wis. 2d 141, 493 N.W.2d 40 (1992).

When a statute of limitations is replaced or amended, a cause of action that has accrued prior to the effective date of the new statute or amendment is governed by the new language, unless otherwise specified. State v. Hamilton, 2002 WI App 89, 253 Wis. 2d 805, 644 N.W.2d 243, 01–1014.
