CHAPTER 88.

[Published March 4, 1865.]

AN ACT to amend chapter eleven of the laws of the extra session of the year 1862, entitled "an act to enable the militia and volunteers of this state, when in the military service of the United States or of this state, to exercise the right of suffrage."

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

Soldiers who are qualified electors of this state, may exercise the right of suffrage out of the state.

SECTION 1. Section one of chapter eleven of the general laws of this state, passed at the extra session of the legislature in the year 1862, entitled "an act to enable the militia and volunteers of this state, when in the military service of the United States or this state, to exercise the right of suffrage," is hereby amended, so that the same shall read as follows: "All qualified electors of this state who shall be in the actual military service of the United States or of this state, either within this state or without the same, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November, in any year, shall be entitled to exercise the right of suffrage at any general election to be held pursuant to any law of this state on that day, at the several posts, camps, hospitals or places where said electors may be on that day, as fully as if such electors were present at the places in this state where such election may be held, and where such persons would be entitled to vote, any provisions of law now in force to the contrary notwithstanding; and all such qualified electors, either within this state or without the same, on the first Tuesday of April, shall be entitled to exercise the right of suffrage at any election of judges of the county or circuit courts, and for justices of the supreme court, held pursuant to law on that day in the county of which such electors shall be residents, in such places and in such manner as is prescribed in this act for the exercise of the right of suffrage of such electors at any general election:
