CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT to create section 1492ab—5 of the statutes, relating to suppression of dangerous diseases among domestic animals in this state; and making an appropriation for the state's share of expense, including compensation to owners of slaughtered animals, incurred in connection with the foot and mouth disease prior to the passage of this act.

The people of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. There is added to the statutes a new section to read: Section 1492ab—5. 1. Whenever it is determined by the live stock sanitary board and the state constitutional officers that it is necessary to combat dangerous diseases among domestic animals in this state in cooperation with the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture and to destroy animals affected with or which have been exposed to any such disease or to destroy property in the disinfection of the premises or to do any other act or incur any other expense reasonably necessary in suppressing or combating such disease, the state live stock sanitary board may accept, on behalf of the state, the rules and regulations prepared by the United States department of agriculture under authority of an act of congress relating to the suppression of any such disease and cooperate with the authorities of the United States in the enforcement of their provisions; or it may follow such procedure as to inspection, condemnation, appraisal, disinfection and other acts reasonably necessary in the suppression of such diseases as may be agreed upon and adopted by the live stock sanitary board and the state constitutional officers with the representatives of the United States department of agriculture. Within the amount which may, subsequent to the passage and publication of this act, be appropriated for this purpose, the state shall pay such proportion of the expense incurred in suppressing or combating any
