Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill provides funding of $100,000 in each fiscal year from the conservation fund for the Southeastern Wisconsin Fox River Commission. The bill allows the commission to use this funding to make grants to support activities that fall under the commission's powers or duties. Current law establishes the commission and grants to it the authority to develop and carry out certain plans, projects, and programs to improve water quality and recreation in the Fox River system between the northern boundary of the city of Waukesha and the Wisconsin-Illinois border. The commission receives no state funding under current law.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
